RESERVE BANKS GO TO 12 CITIES

Organization Committee Names Centres and Districts Under New Currency System.

NUMBER IS THE FULL LIMIT

TOTAL CAPITAL, $109,898,902

Next Move Appointment of Administrative Board, Which Probably Will Be Made Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Secretary of Agriculture Houston, and the Controller of the Currency, John Skelton Williams, constituting the Organization Committee of the new Reserve Bank System, announced to-night that under the terms of the currency law of Dec. 23, 1913, they had divided the country into twelve Federal reserve districts, and nad designated a city in each district for the location of a Federal reserve bank.

The cities designated as locations for the Federal reserve banks are as follows: District No. 1, Boston; District No. 2, New York; District No. 3, Philadelphia; District No. 4, Cleveland; District No. 5, Richmond, Va.; District No. 6, Atlanta, Ga.; District No. 7, Chicago; District No. 8, St. Louis; District No. 9, Minneapolis; District No. 10, Kansas City, Mo.; District No. 11, Dallas, Tex.; District No. 12, San Francisco.

The next step toward putting the new banking and currency system into effect will be the nomination of five persons, who with the Secretary of the Treasury and the Controller of the Currency, will constitute the Federal Reserve Board. It is expected that President Wilson will send these nominations to the Senate early next week.

The organization committee exercised to the full the discretion vested in it to divide the country into reserve bank districts. In the organic law it is provided that there shall not be fewer than eight districts nor more than twelve, and in making the larger numerical division the committee responded to a strong demand from all parts of the country.

May Be Revised.

The act provides that the determination of the Organization Committee as to the location of the Federal reserve banks "shall not be subject to review except by the Federal Reserve Board."

If there is any dissatisfaction with the action of the committee it can only be remedied by the Federal Reserve Board soon to be formed. The law provides that "the districts thus created may be readjusted and new districts may from time to time be created by the Federal Reserve Board, not to exceed twelve in all."

The Organization Committee may, at any time, notify every national bank in the different districts to subscribe to the capital stock of the Federal reserve banks. Within thirty days after such notice they must make such subscriptions to the extent of 6 per cent. of their paid-up capital stock and surplus. Under the law one-sixth of this is to be paid on call of the Organization Committee, one-sixth within three months, one-sixth within six months, and the remainder "shall be subject to call when deemed necessary by the Federal Reserve Board, said payments to be in gold or gold certificates."

The intent and purpose of the authors of the law was to require the banks which become members of the system to pay in cash only one-half the amount of their subscriptions during the first six months, following the first call. The authors of the bill did not believe that the other half of th esubscriptions ever would be called for except in an emergency.

The combined capital and surplus of the 7,475 national banks entering the system is $1,785,791,171, and the corresponding 6 per cent. subscription to be paid will amount to $107,147,470. According to the theory of the authors of the measure, not more than one-half of this subscription will be required to be paid. If this theory is lived up to by the Federal Reserve Board it will not call for the payment of the second half of this stock subscription, or any portion of that second half, unless justified by some emergency.

But the law does require specifically that one-half of this $107,147,470 stock subscription on the part of national banks must be paid. Therefore, the national banks would actually pay over to the twelve Federal reserve banks, within six months after call, $53,573,735, while the remaining $53,573,735 of their stock subscriptions would only be paid if called for by the Federal Reserve Board. The first payment required by the law to be made would be $17,857,912 "on call of the Organization Committee," $17,857,912 more within three months, and an additional $17,857,912 within six months.

The New York Bank.

The largest bank to be formed will be the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Its 6 per cent stock subscription will be $20,621,606. The smallest will be the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta. Its 6 per cent. stock subscription will be $4,641,415.

Under the law the banks of New York State and city will not be required to pay in their entire stock subscription of $20,621,606 unless the Federal Reserve Board elects to compel them to do so. They must pay in, however, $3,346,934 of the stock subscription "on call" of the Organization Committee, another $3,346,934 within three months and another $3,436,934 within six months after the call, or $10,310,803 althogether within six months after the Organization Committee's call.

Branch Banks in Districts.

In each of the districts all the national banks and such other banks as desire to join will become members of the Federal Reserve Banking Association of that district. These member banks will transact their business through the Federal reserve bank in their district. The Federal reserve bank is to establish

REBELS ARREST U.S. CONSUL

CHIHUAHUA, April 2.—Edward A. Powers, American Consular Agent at Parral, was arrested by the rebel authorities at Parral to-day on a charge of passing counterfeits of the rebel fiat money.

Mr. Powers telegraphed to Marion Letcher, American Consul here, of his plight, and Mr. Letcher said he would demand his immediate release.

E. E. Johnson, cashier, and F. A. Hawkins, assistant manager of the Alvarado Mining and Milling Company, both of whom are Americans, were arrested on similar charges yesterday, and Consul Letcher is looking after their interests. It is asserted that the men are entirely innocent.

The fiat currency was cheaply printed and soon a large number of counterfeits appeared. For a time even officials were unable to tell the genuine from the spurious.

The Americans who were arrested bought the money in good faith, it is said, for the purpose of paying employes, and Mr. Letcher expects little difficulty in straightening out the trouble.

DR. WILEY IN SUGAR TRUST.

Admits That He Held Stock in the Company for Several Years.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., April 2.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former Government pure food expert, in testifying to-day in a suit to test a State law requiring corn syrup to be labeled glucose, caused some excitement by telling of his intimate dealings with the Sugar Trust and with the Arbuckles and Marsden & Co. of Philadelphia.

Dr. Wiley admitted he had sold patents to the trust, and that these patents were bought by members of the trust while he was a stockholder in the organization. Dr. Wiley admitted that for nine years he was "connected with the Arbuckle people and held stock in the trust for several years."

Asked if he pretended to be a chemical expert, Dr. Wiley replied: "Not on some subjects, though I claim expert knowledge of food chemistry."

WOMAN ON GUARD WITH GUN

Says She Will Resist Railroad's Attempt to Demolish Her House.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKES-BARRE, Penn., April 2.—Mrs. Mary Martin, aged 45 years, who yesterday held at bay a large force of Central Railroad employes who went to her home for the purpose of tearing it down, remained on guard to-day over her property. She was armed with a shotgun, and said she would shoot the first man who set foot on her property. No attempt was made by the company to molest her.

Mrs. Martin's home to-day took on the appearance of a fort. From every window there floated a small American flag, and on the second floor of the building sat Mrs. Martin at a window with her shotgun in hand. Mrs. Martin to-night said she had been informed that the State police would be called upon to take possession of the house for the company to-morrow, but she declared she would give them battle if they set foot on her land.

The woman asserts that the company has endeavored to seize her land without paying her a cent. She claims possession because she has had undisputed title to the property for twenty-six years.

YOUNG NIXON OUT OF YALE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, April 2.—Stanhope W. Nixon, a junior of the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale, son of Lewis Nixon, the New York shipbuilder, was arraigned in police court this morning charged with having assaulted Edward H. Everit, chief engineer of the Southern New England Telephone Company, on Oct. 22, 1913. The case was continued to April 10.

After a conference with Director Chittenden of the Sheffield Scientific School Mr. Nixon withdrew his son from the university.

The assault on Everit occurred on Whitney Avenue after a wine supper at the Hotel Taft. The telephone man was struck on the head with an iron bolt and almost killed. Nixon and a chum, it appeared, had asked Everit for a match. He paid no attention to the students and, according to his story, they followed him and struck him down.

Nixon declines to make public the name of his companion in the escapade but the police say that they know his identity. The young man was not arrested to-day, and a report was current that he had left the university. No charge will be brought against him in connection with the Everit case, but he will be charged with throwing iron bolts through several large windows during the walk he took with Nixon.

Lewis Nixon arrived here early this morning and immediately took charge of his son's case. Both returned to New York City this afternoon. Young Nixon will go into business with his father after the case is disposed of.

The Yale crew will feel the loss of Nixon, for he was in the second shell with a fair prospect of making the regular 'Varsity crew. He rowed in the freshman crew against Harvard, 1916, last year.

OLD NEWSPAPERS TO MERGE

New Orleans Times-Democrat and Picayune Will Be Consolidated.

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—The Times-Democrat and The Picayune, two of the oldest morning newspapers in the United States, will be consolidated, according to an announcement made here to-night. When the merger will be made has not been announced. The consolidated papers probably will be published as The Times-Picayune.

The Picayune has been published continuously for seventy-eight years. It has been in the hands of the Nicholson family for almost half a century. Until three years ago Thomas G. Rapier, a Director of The Associated Press, was active manager of the publication.

FIRE SCARE BLOCKS TRAFFIC

Smoke at Police Headquarters Was Due to Condemned Gambling Devices

Thousands of factory workers were going home in Broome and Grand Streets last night at 6 o'clock when they saw dense smoke issuing from the roof of Police Headquarters. A great crowd gathered quickly, thinking that the building was on fire. The Third Avenue surface cars in Grand Street were blocked, and so were the cars in Centre and Broome Streets.

There was, however, no fire in Police Headquarters beyond the one in the furnace. The great chimney of the building ends at the roof, and it was from this that the smoke was issuing. Down in the basement cleaners, who had spent the afternoon chopping up gambling paraphernalia seized in Chinatown raids were putting it into the furnace.

$500,000 Ready for Depositors if Prosecution Is Stopped, Chicago Emissary Says.

Checks Made Out for Deposits of Dec. 29—Simpson Crawford Store to Reopen at Once.

John B. Stanchfield of counsel for Henry Siegel and his partner, Frank E. Vogel, against whom indictments charging felony and misdemeanor already have been returned, went to see District Attorney Whitman about their cases yesterday. Mr. Whitman would not discuss what took place between him and Mr. Stanchfield. However, the visit to the District Attorney's office was regarded as significant because it followed closely the arrval in this city of Levy Mayer, a Chcago attorney, representing Mrs. Frank E. Vogel and the Nelson Morris estate.

Mr. Mayer during the examination of Vogel in bankruptcy proceedings before United States Commissioner Gilchrist on Wednesday, announced that he was here representing the relatives and friends of Siegel and Vogel, who were "trying to aid these people," meaning of course, the creditors. After the hearing Mr. Mayer explained that he had been sent to New York to make an investigation of the situation. Last night he issued this statement:

"I did not come to New York to make any public statement of any kind. On the contrary I came resolved to refuse to be interviewed. I find, however, that the situation here, so far as Chicago is concerned, and what the families of Vogel and Siegel are doing, is not at all understood.

"I have no comment whatever to make upon the actions or business reverses of either Mr. Siegel or Mr. Vogel. I do not represent either of them. Those interested in Chicago, however, do wish the public in New York to know that $1,500,000 of money has already been raised and contributed by friends and relatives of the two men. A million dollars of this amount was put into Siegel Cooper Company of Chicago to preserve that branch. The money so put in by special contract is postponed to all other liabilities of the company. By putting in that money it was planned to save the Siegel Cooper Company, whose capital stock, with the exception of 7 per cent., belongs to the Siegel Stores Corporation. That company has been making from $300,000 to $400,000 a year with one exception for many years. In this way it is believed that the preferred and common stock of the Siegel Stores Corporation has been enhanced largely in value.

No Security Received.

"Personally, I would have preferred to have seen the $1,000,000 paid direct to the New York depositors, and that was the professional position I took in discussing the matter in Chicago. Bankers and merchants, however, thought it best to save the Siegel Cooper Company and thus, indirectly, at least, help the depositors. Not one penny of security was received by those who put the $1,000,000 into the Chicago branch. One of the men who contributed $100,000 of that $1,000,000 himself was a private banker, who failed in Chicago in 1893. His estate paid about 20 cents. We have a law in Illinois precisely like yours in New York governing bank deposits. The Chicago party was indicted just as Siegel and Vogel have been indicted. The State's Attorney, being the equivalent of your District Attorney, did not press the indictment. Upon the assurance of the indicted man's friends, the indictment was dismissed, and that man has since paid the balance of every dollar he owed to his depositors. If he had gone to the penitentiary the total deposits would have been practically lost to the depositors.

"The families of Vogel and Siegel are now ready to furnish an additional $500,000, and all of this for the benefit of the unfortunate depositors. Everybody who knows anything about this failure, knows that Siegel and Vogel are church mouse poor. All of the investigations and examinations demonstrate that they have not abstracted, secreted, stolen, or concealed a single penny. They poured their own fortunes as they did the moneys of their creditors into this most unfortunate and deadly commercial, financial catastrophe.

"Speaking particularly for the relatives of Mr. Vogel, who live in Chicago, they are determined to do all in their power to help the depositors get back the moneys which these poor, hungry, and unfortunate men, women and children so sorely need.

Anxious to Avoid Delay.

"We are equally anxious that the moneys be distributed among the depositors without delay and without court costs and lawyers' expenses. We are urging that if possible Vogel and Siegel be given a chance to earn and pay up in full the balance remaining unpaid after these family contributions have been made.

"We certainly have nothing but words of praise for the official conduct of your public prosecutor. He is doing only his duty as prescribed by law. I am discussing what socially and economically is for the best interest of the unfed and unclad 15,000 bank depositors."

"Can you say that this $500,000 may be distributed unconditionally?" Mr. Mayer was asked.

The Chicago lawyer shook his head and explained that it was available on the condition that Siegel and Vogel should be allowed "to find the security for the balance of their indebtedness."

The District Attorney again pointed out yesterday that it was not in his province to stop the indictments pending against Siegel and Vogel or to ask for a suspended sentence in the case of conviction in consideration of any payment that they might make to the depositors. He repeated that Siegel and Vogel were at liberty now and had been at liberty for weeks with plenty of opportunity to make restitution to the depositors. By doing so, he said, they might impress the court so favorably that the court would be disposed toward clemency.

He was asked if Mr. Stanchfield had told him that Siegel and Vogel intended to plead guilty to the indictments. Mr. Whitman referred his questioners to Mr. Stanchfield. He also was asked if the amount that the friends and relatives of Siegel and Vogel had raised for the depositors had been increased, and he said it had not.

At the offices of Stanchfield & Levy Mr. Stanchfield was unwilling to discuss his visit to the office of the District Attorney. Likewise Mr. Levy would have nothing to say about it.

20 NEW MUSEUMS FOR NEW YORK

To be Grouped Around a Stadium as a Peaceful Arts Memorial—Cost, $20,000,000.

The receipt of a certificate of incorporation from the State Board of Regents for the establishment here of a group of twenty separate museums of as many industrial arts, to be known as the Museums of Peaceful Arts, was announced at a meeting of the incorporators held in the Governors' Room of the Lawyers' Club yesterday afternoon. The proposed museums, it was said, would be the largest in the world, with a total cost estimated at between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000, of which, it was said, the incorporators prospectively had already reason to count on about $1,500,000 as a nucleus. The objects of the corporation are given thus:

> To establish and to maintain as a permanent and useful memorial of the century of peace and amity that has followed the signing of the Treaty of Ghent on Christmas Eve, 1814, in the City of New York, and for the people thereof, and for the benefit of the citizens of the State of New York and of the United States generally, buildings which shall be devoted to the housing and proper exposition of permanent exhibits in the following branches, among others, of the industrial and peaceful arts:

Electricity.
Steam.
Astronomy and navigation.
Safety appliances.
Aviation.
Agriculture.
Labor.
Efficiency.
Historic records.
Health and hygiene.
Textiles.
Architecture.
Scenic embellishment.
Gardening.
Roads and road building materials.
Commerce and trade.
Printing and books.

Each of the industries mentioned, according to John A. Stewart, one of the incorporators, who outlined the plans yesterday, is to have a separate building devoted to it, and all are to be grouped, if possible, around one centre in this city, preferably around a stadium that will include a great inclosure for public meetings.

Purposes of the Museums.

"We wish to develop some plans for popular assemblage under the right sort of atmosphere," explained Mr. Stewart, "and we feel that nowhere could a better or more useful spirit be provided than in such a group of museums devoted to practically all the industrial interests of the country.

"The buildings will be of stone and concrete, and the one devoted to transportation, dealing with all modes of locomotion from the earliest times, will probably be the largest of the group. Among the further objects of the corporation are to establish and to maintain a library building which shall contain books and periodicals giving information in respect of the subjects covered by the various museums; to erect and to maintain a building containing an auditorium for purposes of popular assembly, with contiguous rooms for committee meetings, lectures, and the various purposes incident to the operation of such a group of museums; to perform all the functions pertaining to the maintenance and operation of museums and concomitant institutions relating in any way to the development of the peaceful arts and progress in industrial enlightenment, and to open the museums the library, and the assembly rooms for the uses of the schools, the colleges, and the universities of the City and State of New York, and, in particular, to bring about the creation of such a museum institution as shall be of greatest utility and advantage to the people of the city, State, and nation in the fostering and furtherance of commerce and industry.

"The meeting to-day was adjourned till April 23, when reports will be made on available sites for the museums and discussion will be had on various ofers made to the incorporators in reference to gifts for the erection of the museums. We have already one very promising offer for the erection of one of the buildings, and prospectively we have reason to hope for gifts amounting to about $1,500,000.

Two Sites Suggested.

"Two sites have already been suggested on the west side north of Ninetieth Street, one owned privately and another owned by a person who has already done much for the city and once offered to give his property for city purposes."

Asked whether there was any thought of possibly placing the proposed museums in Central Park, Mr. Stewart replied:

"By attempting to do that, we fear we would encounter opposition and raise the cry against encroachment on the city's park space."

Dr. George F. Kunz was Chairman and Calvin W. Rice Secretary of the meeting. Two committees were appointed. One, a committee on nominations, to choose officers of the corporation for the first year, consists of A. Barton Hepburn, Chairman; Frank A. Vanderlip, Mr. Rice, Mr. Stewart, and Prof. Marston Taylor Bogert, of Columbia University. The second, on plan and scope, which will draw up the constitution and by-laws of the museums, consists of Dr. Kunz, Theodore N. Vail, T. Comerford Martin, Mr. Rice, and Mr. Stewart.

The incorporators of the new organization, which is to be known as The Association for the Establishment and Maintenance, for the People in the City of New York, of Museums of the Peaceful Arts, are: Dr. Kunz, Jacob H. Schiff, Mr. Vanderlip, Charles H. Strong, Elbert H. Gary, Mr. Hepburn, Nikola Tesla, Henry R. Towne, Melville E. Stone, Louis Livingston Seaman, Job E. Hedges, H. J. Hardenberg, Alex. C. Humphreys, Thomas A. Edison, Mr. Rice, Mr. Bogert, Mr. Martin, H. E. Huntington, Mr. Vail, Robert Underwood Johnson, R. E. Peary, and Mr. Stewart.

QUEEN WILL STUDY HOSPITALS HERE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 2.—The advance agent for the Queen of Bulgaria arrived at the Ritz Hotel here to-day, en route from Sofia for New York, and will sail on the Imperator to-morrow.

The Queen's "personal representative," as he styles himself—and he has an autograph letter from Queen Eleanor to prove it, as well as a red-ribboned document, signed by the American Vice Consular agent at Sofia, vouching for the genuineness of Queen Eleanor's hand and seal—positively declined to talk for publication until he had exacted a promise that his name would not be mentioned, which promise was given. He then said:

"The Queen expects to sail for America on the liner Auguste Victoria on May 21, though the date may be subject to slight change. She will have a suite of about fifteen persons, including some three ladies-in-waiting, two or three aides de camp, a private secretary, a medical adviser, and about six valets and maids.

"The Queen wants it understood that she is simply paying a private visit. She has been anxious to go to America ever since the recent war. Many private American friends have several times invited her to go over, and the Queen thought she might as well take a vacation in America for a change instead of going to one of the usual European resorts.

"She will probably be in the United States for three weeks. Details of her sojourn have not been arranged yet, but undoubtedly she will visit Washington as soon as she arrives in order to see President Wilson, though no arrangements for this have yet been made.

"Her visit is not connected with a possible attempt at a Bulgarian bond flotation, but, in addition to a desire to see the country and people, the Queen has a serious object—to make a study of the American hospital system. During the war she recognized the value of the American hospitals, nurses, and philanthropic institutions. She knows that Americans are the most practical people in the world, and she has made a special study in this direction with a view to introducing the latest practical methods into her own country.

"The Queen herself is a practical nurse, and personally tended the sick and wounded during the war. She maintains three private hospitals of her own. She has written to Robert College, Constantinople, asking that four of the cleverest Bulgarian girls being educated there be sent to her, and she will take them to America with her and place them in a school for nurses. She is also planning to take back several American nurses to Bulgaria to act as teachers, because there are now no trained nurses there. She will be accompanied by several leading Bulgarian physicians, who will study hospital work. She is particularly anxious to see the private hospital and operations of the famous Mayo brothers of Rochester, Minn.

"Queen Eleanor also wants to see how the United States deals with immigrants, because it is estimated that 200,000 emigrants are going there from Bulgaria and Macedonia. She wants to find practical ways of dealing with them by means of colonization schemes, &c.

"The Queen has received many threatening letters from America daring her to go there, but she has taken no notice of them. She refuses to be intimidated, as she does not believe the letters come from genuine Americans, but from certain foreigners who hate Bulgaria and the Bulgarians."

The Queen's representative intimated that the threatening letters to the Queen came from Greeks resident in America. He added:

"The Queen hopes the American people will treat her in the same way as any private visitor."

It is understood that the Queen will take a good-sized cargo of trunks full of Parisian and Viennese frocks. She is described as tall and stately and well dressed. It is also understood that she is not averse to social entertainment in America.

DETECTIVE KILLED, SLAYER SHOT DEAD

BULLET FROM AMBUSH

William Horgan, Who Killed Guarnieri, Shot Dead by Detective's Companion.

Cornered in a small flat on the top floor of 1,880 Second Avenue, William Horgan, who had wounded and left for dead Charles Moser, a First Avenue saloonkeeper, shot and killed First Grade Detective Joseph Guarnieri yesterday evening. Guarnieri, holder of a Police Department gold medal for bravery, who lay between life and death for seven months in 1911 at the Flower Hospital from wounds inflicted by a desperate criminal, had taken his life in his hands by leading the hunt for Horgan. Horgan shot from ambush, but Detective Lieutenant George Haerle, who was just behind Guarnieri when he fell, killed his assassin with two well-directed bullets. Moser, wounded in the right shoulder and upper lung, is fighting for his life in the Harlem Hospital.

Moser and Guarnieri had been down town earlier in the day to testify before the Grand Jury against Thomas Horgan, alias Puggy, a member of the notorious Car Barn Gang, now in the Tombs, charged with robbing Mrs. William Greer, wife of a canal boat captain, of $110 on Feb. 26, in a hallway at 1,891 First Avenue. Moser, who owns a saloon at 1,991 First Avenue, saw the hold-up, and on March 5, Detectives Guarnieri and Mancini arrested young Horgan.

Some time during the afternoon William Horgan, who was 55 years old and a laborer, living at 536 East Eighty-eighth Street, got word that Moser had been down and had testified against his son. He had been drinking heavily, and at 5:30 o'clock he appeared at Moser's saloon. Moser was standing outside the door.

"What do you mean, going downtown to swear against my boy?" Horgan shouted:

As Moser turned, and before he could speak, Horgan ripped a revolver from his pocket and shot at Moser's head. His hand was unsteady and the powder burned Moser's coat. The bullet struck Moser in the right shoulder, scraping the top of his right lung. The saloon keeper fell, and Horgan ran around the corner toward Second Avenue.

Track Him to House.

Moser's bartender helped him to his feet, and the wounded saloon keeper staggered over to the East 104th Street Station, where he told of the attack. Detective Lieutenant Haerle sent for a Harlem Hospital ambulance, and before it came patrolmen took off Moser's blood-staned shirt and braced him up. Lieut. Haerle, accompanied by Detectives Guarnieri, Constant Mancini, and John Cassetti, hurried out to look for Horgan. He avoided his home, and the detectives got word that he had gone to 1,880 Second Avenue, a four-story tenement at the northeast corner of Ninety-seventh Street.

Guarnieri knew the neighborhood and Lieut. Haerle let him outline the plan of the hunt for Horgan. Guarnieri sent Mancini to the roof, and stationed Cassetti at the street door. Then he and Lieut. Haerle went to the top floor, planning to work down through the house.

They first rapped at the door of Richard Fitzgerald, a 45-year-old laborer, on the top floor. Fitzgerald's wife, Margaret, came to the door. Guarnieri asked:

"Is William Horgan here?"

"Go on, he ain't," said Mrs. Fitzgerald, shoving the door partly shut. The detectives showed their shields and when she threw her weight against the door to bar their entrance, they shoved her to one side and walked into the kitchen. They found Fitzgerald sitting alongside the stove, smoking a clay pipe.

"What do you want?" demanded Fitzgerald.

"We're looking for William Horgan," they answered.

The detectives first explored the kitchen closets, and then entered the second of the four rooms of Fitzgerald's railroad flat. This was a bedroom. Mrs. Fitzgerald followed them, protesting shrilly as the detectives looked under the bed and in a wardrobe. Her conduct convinced the detectives that Horgan was in the flat, and they went on with their search.

Horgan Waits in Ambush.

They did not know, however, that in the third room, sitting behind a green portiere, in the darkness, Horgan held a revolver balanced by placing his elbow on his right knee and that he was looking out at their silhouette outlined against the window of the kitchen, the only illuminated room in the house. Horgan sat silently in his ambush, listening to Mrs. Fitzgerald's pleas to the policemen to cease their search.

As Guarnieri parted the portiers Horgan's pistol roared out in the little flat like a cannon. The bullet struck Guarnieri in the right eye and dropped out of the back of his head. Lieut. Haerle just behind him, saw the medal man sway for a moment and then sink to the floor.

Haerle whipped out his gun and shot at the place where he had seen the red flash from Horgan's gun. His first shot tore its way through Horgan's thick neck. His second pierced through the man's forehead and entered his brain. Horgan coughed explosively and fell forward over the body of his victim.

"It was my life or his," Haerle exclaimed when Cassetti and Mancini came running up the stairs and burst into the flat.

The detectives arrested Fitzgerald and his wife and called an ambulance from the Flower Hospital. Dr. Beard, the ambulance surgeon, said both Guarnieri and Horgan had died almost instantly.

The policemen took both bodies to the East 104th Street Police Station. There Coroner Feinberg, who had come in response to a telephone message, ordered a charge of murder, as accessories before the fact, to be lodged against the Fitzgeralds. Mrs. Fitzgerald said that

FLOUTS MONROE DOCTRINE.

Argentine President Calls Our Interpretation of It Absurd.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, April 2.—The American interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine is declared to be absurd and capricious by President Saenz Pena in his new book.

He says that President Monroe's message has been made so elastic by American Presidents that it might be called "the Guttapercha Message." The doctrine, he asserts, is now only an anachronism, and interesting as the Martello Towers of England or that country's "wooden walls."

America did nothing, he says, while Canning confronted Europe, and she would lose nothing by abandoning the Monroe Doctrine now.

One of the principal causes of Latin-American hostility to the United States, according to the President, is that the latter's attitude is cousinly rather than sisterly.

BENNETT A LITTLE BETTER.

Doctors Say He May Recover—Famous Physician Attending Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, April 2.—James Gordon Bennett's temperature is slightly lower to-night.

The doctor's express the view that the patient may pull through.

Dr. Robin of Paris is among those attending Mr. Bennett.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 2.—Dr. Albert Robin of this city, who is attending James Gordon Bennett at Cairo, is one of France's leading physicians. For many years he has been a Professor at the Beaujon Hospital here and has acquired an international reputation as a medical adviser of the many crowned heads who have visited the French capital.

Dr. Robin has been a personal friend as well as the physician of Mr. Bennett for over a quarter of a century, receiving a big annual retainer. Mr. Bennett considers that there is much virtue in the Chinese system whereby a doctor is paid for keeping a client in good health instead of curing him of illness.

CARNEGIE GIVES $100,000.

Starts New Pension Fund for Zoological Society Employes.

Madison Grant, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the New York Zoological Committee of the New York Zoological Society, recently placed before Andrew Carnegie the need of the society for a pension fund for the 171 employes of the Zoological Park and the Aquarium. Mr. Carnegie responded in the following letter:

> 2 East Ninety-first Street.
>
> My dear Mr. Grant: After due consideration I have decided that the Zoological Society's admirable staff deserves the desired institution, viz., a pension fund, and in accordance with your note of March 12, I will provide the $100,000 which you find necessary when you notify me that the organization is ready to receive and administer the fund.
>
> Let me say that I have never been more surprised in my life than at the exhibition given us at your recent dinner, which proves that life is everywhere, even down to the gnats, which had to be magnified a hundredfold in order to let us see that the family existed among these midgets as completely as in the monster elephant.
>
> Having seen several of the celebrated Zoological Gardens of the Old World, our institution in New York seems a giant among pygmies. Several of my foreign friends who have visited it with me have reached the same conclusion.
>
> Your very truly,
> ANDREW CARNEGIE.

The employes of the Park and Aquarium will contribute annually 2 per cent. of their salaries, and any sum that may be lacking in financing the plan now about to be carried into effect will be made up by the Zoological Society. Mr. Carnegie's offer was formally accepted at a meeting of the Executive Committee held on March 23.

W. B. SPADER A SUICIDE.

Special to The New York Times.

COBOURG, Ont., April 2.—W. B. Spader, once a partner in the brokerage firm of Marshall, Spader & Co. of New York and Toronto, shot and killed himself in his home here last night. Mr. Spader appeared in excellent spirits during the day, although he had been ill for some time. A short note was found beside the body, but it gave no explanation of the tragedy.

Mr. Spader, who was 54 years old, had a wife and three daughters. The body will be taken to Rochester for burial.

The firm of Marshall Spader & Co. was suspended by the New York Stock Exchange on Dec. 24, 1908, for a period of three years. The reason for this action was the relations maintained by the firm with the defunct firm of Coster, Knapp & Co., which were said to be "inconsistent with just and equitable principles of trade."

At the time of the suspension the firm consisted of Thomas W. Moorehead and William H. Martin, members of the Stock Exchange, and of James G. Marshall, W. B. Spader, John Marshall, and Langdon B. Wood.

The formal statement issued by R. H. Thomas, then President of the Stock Exchange, named no specific acts, but the impression on the Street at that time was that the firm was charged with handling buying and selling orders for the same persons, presumably Coster, Knapp & Co. It was also reported that Marshall, Spader & Co. had connections with Consolidated Exchange houses in violation of the regulations.

TORREON TAKEN, VELASCO ESCAPES, REBELS PURSUE

FEDERAL LOSSES 12,000

FIERCE FIGHTING ALL DAY

VILLA'S LOSSES ARE 2,000

Federal Column Marching to the Aid of Torreon Met and Checked by Rebels.

JUAREZ, April 2.—Gen. Villa telegraphed Gen. Carranza at 11:15 o'clock to-night:

> April 2, 1914.
>
> Gen. Venustiano Carranza,
> Supreme Chief of the Constitutionalists:
>
>
> After eleven days of terrible fighting, in which we lost 1,500 wounded and 500 killed, and the Federals, from the enormous number of bodies burned, must have had over 1,000 killed, and their number of wounded I am unable to estimate. Our forces have full possession of Torreon.
>
> I regret to announce that among the wounded were Gen. Yzabel Robles and Gen. Calixto Contreras.
>
> I congratulate and salute you with respect and esteem that I always have had for you.
>
> (Signed) GEN. FRANCISCO VILLA.

According to report he also sent this message:

> I regret to say that Gen. Velasco has escaped with an escort of a few men and is being pursued by my cavalry.
>
> My losses will number 1,500 killed and wounded. The Federal loss in killed, wounded, and prisoners will be fully 12,000.

The question mark after the Torreon situation never loomed larger than to-night. Early in the evening Carranza announced that the status at Toreron remained unchanged.

Then came the bugle call of victory. Mexicans recognized it in a flash, and the streets became thronged instantly.

The paean, Carranza said, was sounded here even before it was heard in Torreon, Villa delaying out of compliment to his chief.

Repeatedly the bugler sounded the call, and a great wave of cheering arose. The electric lights strung about the Carranza residence last Sunday to welcome him were turned on, lighting up the draped and festooned red, white and green of the Mexican national colors.

"Viva Carranza!" "Viva Villa!" "Viva Madero!" "Viva Mexico!" came the shouts of the crowd.

Mayor Padres, realizing that some one must be calm, took occasion to order the saloons to close. A hundred processions formed in the streets and marched about, shouting and cheering.

By Carranza's orders all the town was illuminated, soldiers of the garrison were paraded, and the military band played. The national salute was fired, church bells rung, and whistles blown.

There was heavy fighting to-day, it is understood, and the end came when, after capturing the three remaining barracks held in the city by the Federals, the rebels stormed the trenches and barbed wire entanglements of the Huarache canyon.

The prisoners captured are believed to have been the defenders of the barracks, while the troops in the canyon, which forms an egress from the hill-girt city, were able to fly.

Scene When News Came.

Samuel Belden of San Antonio, a friend of Carranza, described the scene in the Carranza home when the long-aaitwed news was received.

"Gen. Carranza had been talking with the operator at Gomez Palacio off and on for some time," Mr. Belden said, "and was chatting with members of his family. He seemed very cheerful, even buoyant. About 11 o'clock the telegraph operator came into the room with a piece of paper in his hand.

"'Well, Muchacho, is it Torreon?' The General smiled as one who knew well what the answer would be.

"'Yes, my Chief,' was the reply.

"Carranza kissed his wife and daughters, then he ordered 'Have the bugler sound the call of triumph.' He added: 'And give me the telephone, I must tell Mrs. Villa.'

"His was the first news of her husband's achievements to reach Mrs. Villa.

"Carranza's next act was to telegraph a message of hearty congratulation to Villa. Meanwhile friends of Mrs. Villa were calling her on the telephone with words of congratulation, while others, despite the hour, called in person, and wine, reserved for the occasion, was gratefully drunk to the victorious General, to his loyal lieutenants and those who gave their lives."

Its full effect cannot be summarized in a moment, but in prestige and power, it is said, its value is incalculable. It is certain to make recruiting a comparatively simple matter, and holders of the Constitutionalist fiat money to-night predicted a sudden rise in the rate when business is resumed to-morrow. It was selling at 20 cents to the gold dollar to-day.

FIERCE FIGHTING BEFORE END.

Federals Were Strongly Intrenched and Fought Desperately.

Special to The New York Times.

JUAREZ, April 2.—One by one the Federals were falling behind the hurriedly constructed embankments in Canyon del Guarache when Gen. Villa telegraphed to Gen. Carranza at 9 o'clock to-night. He said that the Federals were strongly intrenched and were so well located that it would not be possible to rush them from any side, and that the fight had settled down to an endurance test in which Velasco's men were slowly losing ground. Until the Federals were overcome Villa said he would make no announcement of the capture of Torreon, although he had been in possession of the town since Tuesday.

The Federals had been slowly beaten back from the bull ring, the Salvador Hotel, the cathedral, and the general barracks to the southern part of the town, where the Hill of the Cross formed a protecting angle in the mountains, behind which the Federals sought refuge from Villa's attack, and from which cover the rebel General had been unable to dislodge them. He admitted this in a telegram which was sent to Gen. Carranza early to-day, which said:

"I have not yet been able to deliver the goods; but everything is going well, and I hope to have the town by the end of twenty-four hours."

After the main part of the town was evacuated by the Federals, according to the messages received by Gen. Carranza and Col. Fidel Avila at the Juarez headquarters, the work of gathering the wounded started, and six troop trains have arrived in Chihuahua with the most desperately wounded, who need hospital attention. The wounded are being unloaded like cattle and carted to the hospitals as the trains are sent back for more. The present estimate of dead and wounded is not less than 2,000, and it is believed that this number will be increased when the final count is made.

Rebel Blunders Cost 2,000 Men.

CHIHUAHUA, April 2.—Not since the battle began at Torreon has a day passed without the arrival here of a trainload of wounded soldiers from the ranks of Gen. Francisco Villa's army. To-day's train brought some of the more seriously wounded, and every carpenter in the city was busy making cots.

From stories told by the wounded it was learned that the first rebel advance on Gen. Velasco's Federal garrison in Torreon and Gomez Palacio, the latter a suburb, resulted in a pitiable slaughter of the rebels, in which about 2,000 of them, partly through a series of blunders, were killed or wounded within a few hours.

All trustworthy accounts agree that the rebels' first attack was unsuccessful, and that their combined forces, although better equipped with field guns than they ever had been previously and fully confident that they would frighten the Federals into a retreat, were forced to retire in the beginning of the fight.

First the rebels were reported to have blundered in opening fire on their own men. Two reasons were given for this mistake. One was that a column of rebel artillery trained over their mark and poured shells into the ranks of Gen. Aguirre Benavides's force on the opposite side of Gomez Palacio. Another account was that a body of rebels entered Gomez Palacio without orders, and that the rest of the army, thinking they were Federals, opened fire and killed many of their own number before the mistake was discovered. Many of the hand grenades used, made out of two-inch pipe, were provided with such poor fuses that the Federals were able to exteinguish with water such of them as they did not throw back at the rebels.

To add to the misfortunes of the rebels' attack, according to details gleaned from the wounded, they were lured into a part of Torreon under the impression that the Federals had fled. Then they discovered they were in the direct line of fire of well-sheltered Federal guns, which proceeded to mow them down by the score. Many rebels were wounded as they attempted to withdraw.

STORY OF TORREON SIEGE.

Villa's Operations Continuous Since March 21—A Stubborn Defense.

Gen. Villa started moving southward with his army early in March without naming at first the object of his attack. On March 20 friends of his at the racetrack at Juarez received the following telegram:

"Play all your money on me to win at Torreon, and that by March 31."

This telegram came when Villa and his army had reached Escalon on their way southward through Chihuahua. Villa had begun preliminary operations against Torreon when this telegram was sent.

On March 21 and 22 Villa established a base at Bermejillo, Durango, and drove the Federal advance guard from Mapimi, Sacramento, Noe, Brittingham Junction, and other smaller points.

On March 23, Gen. Velasco marched out from Torreon with the Federal forces and engaged Villa's advance guard at Gomez Palacio. Gen. Velasco was reported to have with him 9,000 men and, after two days of fierce fighting, forced Gen. Villa back on March 25 to El Vergel, ten miles from Torreon, Gen. Velasco occupying Gomez Palacio, which lies between Torreon and El Vergel. The following day, however, Villa reopened the attack, again took Gomez Palacio and sent the main column of his army against Torreon.

On the next day, a rebel force of 4,000, led by Gen. Herrera, began its attack upon Torreon itself. The Federals were driven back from their main fortifications and the big smelter, machine shops and railroad forts were taken. On the northern part of the town a force of rebels drove the Federals back from the bull ring.

House-to-house fighting followed in the heart of Torreon. On March 29, a long, furious battle raged in the streets of the city. Attack after attack was made upon the Torreon plaza, but the Federals made an obstinate resistance there.

RELIEF FORCE VICTORIOUS?

Special to The New York Times.

MEXICO CITY, April 2.—Gen. Blanquet announced this afternoon that Torreon was out of danger, although he admitted that detailed reports of the engagements there had not been received. He said, however, that reinforcements for Velasco had defeated the rebels under Herrera, who attempted to check their advance, killing and wounding many. He said that Gen. de Moure, the commander of the relieving force, engaged the rebels south of San Pedro and pursued them westward to Sacramento, the rebels leaving many dead and wounded strewing the roadways throughout the whole distance. Gen. Maass's 1,800 troops joined de Moure at San Pedro to-day, while Gen. Hidalgo with 2,000 men, arrived at Saltillo and immediately started for Torreon.

This information, while given out officially, is admittedly based upon various dispatches from official and private sources; but Gen. Blanquet said the sources were such that he was willing to vouch for their authenticity.

Heavy fighting occurred near Chilpancingo, the Guerrero State capital, to-day between the forces of practically all the Zapatista leaders and the Federals under Gen. Luis Carton. The later are reported to have been defeated, although the reports received here indicat that fierce faghting still continues. The rebel casualties, according to the latest report, were more than 700, while the Federals are reported to have lost heavily, although the exact number cannot be ascertained.

A ten-hour battle was also reported from Jalisco, the birthplace of Huerta, which has been in rebel hands for several weeks. It is said to have been retaken by the Federals. The rebels found dead on the field numbered nearly sixy, and many were carried away or buried during the fighting. The Federals forced the rebels to retreat to the mountains.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN PEDRO, Coahuila, Tuesday, March 31 (with the Federal relief column) via Mexico City, April 2.—Gen. Javier de Moure's column of 2,000 men has been halted at San Pedro, en route to Torreon. The rebels, retreating, arrived at San Pedro on Sunday morning and being driven out, attempted to recapture the town on Sunday night. They were repulsed, but returned in force to-day. At noon the battle was resumed and in the afternoon the Federal first line was driven in, but checked the rebel advance with machine guns. Great bravery was shown by the Federal officers. The rebel losses are reported to be heavy. Gen. de Moure is determined to advance to the relief of Torreon and expects 1,000 reinforcements to-morrow.

Heavy fighting is reported at Torreon. The newspaper correspondents will probably not go to Torreon.

EXPECTS TAMPICO ATTACK.

Vera Cruz Commander Ordered to Have Transports Ready.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERA CRUZ, April 2.—Gen. Maass has received urgent instructions to have all Mexican war craft here in readiness for the quick dispatch of troops and arms to Tampico and Tuxpam, as at both ports the rebels are congregating in fairly large numbers.

Government officials deny emphatically the reports of rebel victories. One of these, received at the American Consulate, says that since March 27 Villa has had Torreon at his mercy.

LIND COMING HOME, ILL.

Not Recalled, President Says, but Others Think He Will Remain Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Ex-Gov. John Lind of Minnesota, who has been in Mexico since early last August as the personal representative of President Wilson in the absence of an accredited Ambassador in that country, will start home to-morrow from Vera Cruz. President Wilson was the first to announce Mr. Lind's home-coming. He was quick to explain that there had been no recall of his personal representative. Mr. Lind returned, the President said, because of his health, which has been impaired by his long stay in a hot climate.

In speaking of the special mission on which Mr. Lind has been engaged for the last eight months, President Wilson said that Mr. Lind's dispatches had been of the highest order of importance and of great literary excellence. The President had no hesitation in saying that it was expected that Mr. Lind, after a period of rest and recuperation, would return to his post in Mexico. Whether he would come to Washington at once he could not say.

At the time the President was speaking of the matter it was planned that Mr. Lind should make the voyage back to the United States on the naval hospital ship Solace, which had been expected to sail home for refitting. Later Secretary Daniels pointed out that the United States yacht Mayflower, sometimes called the President's yacht, which was sent to Tampico soon after the bombardment of that place by the Constitutionalists to afford more room for the overcrowded marines and bluejackets on the squadron stationed there, would be coming back to Washington in a few weeks, and that she might as well come at once and bring the President's representative directly to the capital.

After a conference between Secretary Bryan and Secretary Daniels the matter was thus arranged, and dispatches were sent to Mr. Lind and Rear Admiral Fletcher informing them of the new arrangements. While it is not known positively just when the Mayflower will start, it is understood at the Navy Department that she will sail from Vera Cruz to-morrow.

Mr. Lind will not be accompanied by any officials. The only member of his family who is with him is his daughter, who has been in Vera Cruz since the late part of the Winter. Mrs. Lind returned to her home in Minnesota last December. There is believed to be no special international or official reason for Mr. Lind's return at this time. The situation between the Federal and Constitutional forces in the field has not reached a decisive phase, and the overthrow of the Huerta Government is apparently now as far from realization as ever. It was said to-day that Mr. Lind's dispatches had been so comprehensive and satisfactory to the President and to Secretary Bryan that there was practically nothing that he could say in propria persona that would add to their value or give the President any further enlightenment on the Mexican question.

While the President and Mr. Bryan both spoke of Mr. Lind's returning to Mexico after he had had an opportunity to recover his full health, there is a general expectation in Washington that he will not again take up the responsibilities of the post which he has occupied for so many months. His own personal inclinations are averse to doing so, it was said by friends. In addition, there is a growing conviction that President Wilson will do well to abandon the course of placing a personal representative in a country whose Government he refuses to recognize on the ground openly declared by himself to be that he believes the head of that Government a murderer.

The President's decision originally to send Mr. Lind to Mexico has been much criticised and is not regarded favorably among his own party supporters in the Senate. There has been question as to the official status of Mr. Lind under the State Department. It is said that he has received the salary of an Ambassador just as if he had been duly nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate. But his compensation has been paid out of the emergency fund of the State Department. This fund now, toward the end of the fiscal year, is reaching a state of depletion, and in the preparation of the Appropriation bill for the next fiscal year provision must be made for an Ambassador to Mexico and also for the President's personal representative.

Members of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations have been discussing the question and there has been much opposition expressed to the anomalyous situation created by the President's sending a personal representative to a country with which he refuses to have diplomatic intercourse.

After his visit here Mr. Lind will go to French Lick Springs, Ind., for a rest, and then to his home in St. Paul.

Mexico City Bitter Toward Lind.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, April 2.—Much indignation is evident here among Government officials regarding the recent alleged activity of John Lind in Vera Cruz. A prominent official said to-night: "The residence of Mr. Lind is rapidly becoming a meeting place for all conspirators and disreputable characters, both Mexicans and foreigners, who are only too willing to take advantage of the fact that a man so close to President Wilson is willing to listen to their stories. Many alarming rumors which have greatly damaged American and other foreign, as well as Mexican, interests have been traced to Mr. Lind, who tells them in confidence, whereupon they immediately become common property in Vera Cruz and soon spread to the capital.

"Mr. Lind's situation is anomalous, to say the least, and, while his presence here is not grateful to the Government, no objection can be opposed to either him or any other law-abiding foreigner remaining in this country. We do object, however, when conspiracies against the Government are carried on virtually under his protection, and when rumors alarming both Mexicans and foreigners are found to emanate from his residence."

It is also known that some feeling exists among diplomats, due to what is termed "too much talking on the part of Lind," of which several instances, are recited, said to have greatly handicapped delicate diplomatic negotiations here. One diplomat also said:

"Mr. Lind has also made the situation very difficult for Mr. O'Shaughnessy, on several occasions, although most certainly Mr. O'Shaughnessy will never admit it."

SPAIN TO PROTECT CITIZENS.

King Alfonso Promises Them Moral and Other Aid in Mexico.

MADRID, April 2.—In his speech from the throne at the opening of the Spanish Parliament to-day King Alfonso alluded to the outrages of which Spaniards and citizens of other countries had been victims in Mexico. The Spanish Government, his Majesty said, had sought and was continuing to seek for a method by which Spaniards and their property in Mexico could be protected. The presence of Spanish warships at Vera Cruz had, he continued, demonstrated the solicitude of the Government for the lives and interests of Spanish subjects.

He concluded by saying that all possible help, moral and otherwise, would be afforded by Spain for the safeguarding of the interests of her subjects and their property.

SAYS TERRAZAS ESCAPED.

Unconfirmed Report of His Flight Received in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—Luis Terrazas, Jr., the wealthy Mexican held a prisoner for ransom at Chihuahua by Gen. Francisco Villa for the last three months, has escaped and made his way south toward Mexico City, according to unconfirmed reports received by a newspaper here.

Through the assistance of an old family servant and a traitor in Villa's camp, the story says, the political prisoner obtained his liberty, and reached Saltillo, beyond the zone of Constitutionalist control.

VILLA GETS AN AEROPLANE.

Aviator Says Dynamite Bombs Are to be Dropped on Torreon.

Harold Kantor, an aviator who left here a month ago to deliver an 80 horsepower scouting aeroplane to Gen. Villa's army, returned yesterday after adventures aloft and a-ground in Mexican territory controlled by the rebel army.

Mr. Kantor declared he had delivered the aeroplane, a Moissant machine made at the Moissant factory in Long Island, to the rebel army in good condition and had flown in it several times to let the Mexican army officers see that it would work all right. He promised great things for the machine in the future operations of Villa.

When Mr. Kantor left Juarez a week ago two young Mexican aviators, who are nephews of Gen. Carranza, were practicing the art of dropping bombs from the aeroplane. It was their intention, he said, to fly to Torreon from a secret practice ground near Chihuahua as soon as they could perfect their bomb-throwing technique, and drop forty-pound packages of dynamite upon the Federal garrisons.

AIDED BY BABIES' DAIRIES.

Infants Relieved at Association's Stations Shown at Annual Meeting.

Two babies who had been aided by the treatment they had received, were brought to the annual meeting of the Advisory Board of the Babies' Dairy Association held yesterday at Dairy No. 3, at 511 West Forty-first Street, to show the good work these dairies are accomplishing.

Mrs. Adrian H. Joline, Chairman of the association, read the annual report.

There are now three dairies.

The first, opened in June, 1908, was supported by Mr. and Mrs. Joline. A second one was opened on May 1, 1910, at 523 East Seventy-eighth Street, and the one at 511 West Forty-first Street was opened on June 1, 1911, and in that year the Babies' Dairy Association was incorporated. There are five nurses and two doctors on duty at the dairies, where only babies under one year old are treated. Some sixty babies are fed every day, and when able to do so the mothers pay 10 cents a day for the milk.

The Advisory Board, of which Mrs. Joline is Chairman and Miss Clara S. Marsh is the Secretary and Treasurer, has added to its members this year Mrs. A. Francis J. Clark, Mrs. G. Maurice Heckscher, Mrs. Montford Mills, Mrs. Edmonds Putney, Mrs. Frederick Van Beuren, Mrs. Augustus Knight, and Miss Mary L. Eaton. The other members are Mrs. Henry Villard, Mrs. Charles Knoblauch, Mrs. Albert G. Milbank, Mrs. William A. Reed, Mrs. Oren Root, Mrs. William Ross Proctor, Mrs. Henry Waters Taft, Mrs. George C. Smith, Albert Stickney, and Dr. Benson and Dr. Kahrs.

DYING, PLEADS FOR FAMILY.

Starving Upholsterer, Out of Work, Jumps from Roof.

Made desperate by the suffering of his starving wife and children, after he had sought vainly for two months to find employment, Simon Shapiro, an upholsterer, attempted a second time to end his life yesterday. He jumped off the roof of his home at 1,483 St. Mark's Avenue, Brooklyn, and was fatally injured. At St. Mary's Hospital it was said he could not live.

"I am going to die, but I pray God that some one will look after my poor family," said Shapiro when he had a moment of consciousness in the hospital last night. A month ago he tried to asphyxiate himself with gas, but was rescued by his wife. In the cold weather his family had no heat in their rooms, and recently the only food they had was supplied by neighbors. Shapiro had had no food for forty-eight hours, when he suddenly leaped from his bed and ran to the roof yesterday. His wife tried to intercept him, but was unsuccessful.

SCHULZ MAY REJECT PUBLIC SERVICE JOB

HIS DECISION NOT YET MADE

Keen Contest for His Present Place Expected, if He Resigns—R. H. Mitchell a Candidate.

No word had been received yesterday at the Public Service Commission office regarding the date when Surrogate George M. S. Schulz would qualify as Commissioner in place of John E. Eustis. It was pointed out that he would have legal business to clear up before resigning his present office, and would require until the end of the week to clear his desk for his successor.

Meanwhile it was learned from a close friend of the Surrogate that he had not yet finally decided whether he would accept the Commissionership.

"It would not surprise me," he said, "if the Surrogate preferred to stay where he is after all, in spite of the salary of $15,000 a year attached to the Commissionership. You see, he will draw $10,000 a year for six years as Surrogate instead of $15,000 a year for five years in the commission, so that there is only a difference of $15,000 between the two offices.

"Then the Surrogate is a lawyer by training, and has had considerable judicial experience as a Magistrate and in his present office. His friends know well that his ambitions are in the judicial line, and that he has great hopes that he may be elected to the Bronx Supreme Court before long. Merely from the point of view of money such an appointment, carrying a salary of $17,500 for fourteen years, is very much better than a Public Service Commissionership, and once he had gone down town and had to face all the difficult transit questions, he would be likely to be considered out of the running for judicial preferment and might lose some of his present friends.

"Moreover Surrogate Schulz prefers the quiet life of the Bronx to the rush of downtown, and although he has appeared before the commission on many transit matters, he is more inclined to deal with legal questions than the complicated business problems which are the main work of the Public Service Commission."

Surrogate Schulz's determination will not be based on purely personal grounds. He is much more likely to refuse the new post if he can obtain assurances from Gov. Glynn that he will nominate for the place a resident of the Bronx. Failure to obtain such a promise might not persuade the Surrogate to qualify as a Commissioner, but he undoubtedly would feel freer to follow his own inclinations if it was given to him.

In the event of the Surrogate declining to leave the Bronx, Thomas J. Quinn, who was put forward prominently in the fight for the place and was considered the special candidate of Arthur Murphy, the Democratic leader of the Bronx, still has hopes that the Governor will remember him. But it is believed that George M. Reinhardt is more likely to be selected. He is a wealthy wholesale feed merchant, and the fact that he did not figure in the fierce fight which marked the closing hours of the session at Albany is considered to be in his advantage.

Mayor Mitchel and other leading members of the city administration were in Albany last night to attend the dinner of the newspaper correspondents. Although their trip had no primary political significance, it was thought probable that they would take the opportunity of discussing the Public Service Commission situation with the Governor.

If Surrogate Schulz resigns, there will be a keen contest for the nomination as Surrogate. The leading candidate is Richard H. Mitchell, a former Assistant Corporation Counsel and now an Assistant District Attorney for the Bronx. He ran last Fall against Douglas Mathewson for the Borough Presidency and was defeated. Others mentioned are State Senator Anthony J. Griffin and Ellsworth J. Healy, Democratic leader in the Thirty-fifth Assembly District.

Several important matters are pending before the Public Service Commission which are not likely to be settled until the new Commissioner has qualified. In the case of the application of the Astoria Light, Heat and Power Company for the authorization of an issue of 5½ per cent. bonds to take up certain notes which it has given to the Consolidated Gas Company, the commission has deadlocked with two votes to two. The view taken by the new Commissioner will determine this controversy.

The Ward & Gow contract for the privilege of selling newspapers and letting advertisements in the Interborough Subways and elevated stations, also has been before the commission for some months, and the Interborough is requesting that the contract for the construction of the connection between the old and new Subway under Times Square be granted to it in spite of the fact that it was only the third lowest bidder.

PERE MARQUETTE R. R. SUED

Foreclosure Action Begun for Defaulting on Bond Interest.

DETROIT, Mich. April 2.—Foreclosure proceedings against the Père Marquette Railroad, which defaulted yesterday in the payment of its semi-annual interest on $5,000,000 bonds, it became known to-day, were begun in the Federal Court here Monday. Because of a fixed rule which forbids publicity of any suit filed in the court until service is had, the present action has not yet been announced officially by the court, but Hinton E. Spaulding, attorney for the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York, admitted to-day that he has filed a foreclosure bill and obtained an order from the Judge permitting the joining of the receivers of the Père Marquette as defendants in the suit.

The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company is holder of $2,850,000 of consolidated first mortgage bonds, issued when the road's constituent parts were consolidated into the Père Marquette system. Interest has not yet been defaulted on these bonds, but Mr. Spaulding announced that the foreclosure was based on other obligations of the mortgage that, it is charged, have not been fulfilled.

EXPECTS LESS TRADE.

Statement by Herr Heineken at North German Lloyd Meeting.

The agents of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company received a cablegram from the head office in Bremen last night stating that the annual meeting was held yesterday and the dividend of 8 per cent. recommended by the Directors was confirmed.

Herr Heineken, who was re-elected Director General, said in a speech that the shipping outlook for the coming Summer was not as good as it was at this time last year. This was due, he considered, to the low freight rates, the lack of shipments, and the reduction in the steerage rates owing to the disagreement between the various steamship companies.

While all the Atlantic lines appeared to be willing to come to an agreement on May 1, said Herr Heineken, there were certain difficulties which would have to be adjusted before such an agreement could be reached. He went on to say that, as the North German Lloyd Company had a very prosperous year in 1913, it would be in a good position to stand a falling off in business in 1914.

A BIG REFORM IN RUSSIA.

Millions of Married Women Affected by Law Approved by Czar.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, April 3.—The Times's St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs:

"It is announced that the imperial assent has been given to the bill extending the personal and property rights of married women and providing certain amendments in the relations between husband and wife.

"Under this unassuming garb a reform affecting the happiness of millions of Russian women has been effected. Hitherto married women, especially in the humbler walks of life, have been unable to hold property, enter business, seek employment, or obtain separate passports without the consent of their husbands. There was no remedy against a reprobate husband except by divorce, which was costly and difficult to get.

"Efforts were made in vain for 30 years to introduce legal separation. The Holy Synod would not countenance what it regarded as an insidious onslaught on the sacred bond of matrimony.

"The present law is in the nature of a compromise, inasmuch as, owing to the opposition of the Holy Synod, it is impossible to give a legal status to separation, but only to recognize it as a fact. The new law provides that married women separated from their husbands shall enjoy full liberty of movement and the enjoyment of property. Even if they are minors the courts have no power to order the restitution of conjugal rights.

"Cruelty to children, rudeness, violence, dishonesty, immorality, and dangerous or loathesome illness will be sufficient to cause separation, and the husband in such cases will be compelled to provide allimony. The care of the children will be awarded to the injured party."

FEAR OUR MAGAZINES.

Increased English Postal Rate to Canada May Aid Them There.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, April 3.—Inquiries made in London show that the publishers of English magazines are not without hope that the difficulty which has arisen with regard to the magazine post to Canada will be satisfactorily adjusted before the time arrives for the renewal of the agreement between this country and the Dominion.

There is general willingness to concede that Canada can make out a good case for a financial adjustment, and it is hoped that the sum involved, which is comparatively small, will not stand in the way of a continuance of the present arrangement.

The Times has received the opinions of the editors of English magazines who were asked whether the proposal to discontinue the magazine rate would interfere with the development of British literature as opposed to American literature in Canada.

The editor of The Quarterly Review thinks it would pay the Government to consent to meet Canada half way and bear its share of the expense. "In the interests of this country and the empire," he said, "it would probably be well to do all we can to encourage the influx of British literature into that one of our dominions which is most open to attack from its neighbors, whether by literary means or others."

The editors of The Ninteenth Century and After, Blackwood's Magazine, and Pearson's Magazine all express the opinion that if the postal rate is raised American magazines will be favored to the injury of English periodicals. The editor of Blackwood's says it will naturally leave the field practically open to American magizines, "which are undesirable on many counts."

POPE GREETS THE STORERS.

Former Ambassador and His Wife Cordially Received at Vatican.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, April 2.—The Pope, in receiving Mr. and Mrs. Bellamy Storer to-day, recalled the circumstance that he saw them shortly before his election. He was most cordial, reminding them of the subject of their forme conversation and also of the friendship of the late Cardinal Satolli had for them.

The conversation lasted for ove half an hour, after which Mr. and Mrs. Storer visited Cardinal Merry del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, who spoke of mutual friends in Europe and America.

Bellamy Storer of Cincinnati, Ohio, was formerly Ambassador to Austria, but was removed from that post by President Roosevelt in March, 1906, as the result of a controversy which grew out of his own and his wife's activity in pressing a campaign at the Vatican for the promotion of Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul to a Cardinalate when the President desired the elevation of Archbishop Farley of New York.

Prior to the quarrel Col. Roosevelt and the Storers had been very intimate friends, the President, as correspondence made public by her disclosed, addressing Mrs. Storer as "Dear Maria" and her husband as "Dear Bellamy," and being addressed by them in turn as "Dear Theodore."

CASEY GOT A WHEELBARROW

Refused to Ride in Ambulance from Circus to Bellevue.

While Thomas Casey, 52 years old, a laborer, of 153 West Twenty-third Street, was visiting William Quinn, a laborer employed at the circus in Madison Square Garden, last night he was taken suddenly ill. Other laborers with the circus wanted to call an ambulance, but Casey vigorously protested he would not ride in an ambulance and the men were worried about how to get him to a hospital until Quinn solved the difficulty by suggesting that Casey ride in a wheelbarrow.

"Anything but an ambulance," said Casey, and the wheelbarrow was brought out.

Papers were spread in it and then Casey was placed in it. Quinn and another man wheeled the sick man to Bellevue Hospital. Their arrival at the gates of the hospital with the odd vehicle caused something of a sensation.

Casey, it was found, was not seriously ill, but he was assigned to a ward.

OLD ST. AUGUSTINE SWEPT BY FLAMES

LOSSES REACH $500,000

Two Persons Seriously Injured and 200 Guests of Florida House Narrowly Escape Death.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., April 2.—This, the oldest city in the United States, was swept by a fire early to-day which destroyed five hotels and burned records and curios dating back to the days of Spanish rule. The loss is estimated at $500,000. Two persons were seriously injured. Guests in the hotels fled to the streets before day, many leaving valuables and personal belongings behind.

Many lives were saved by the prompt work of the employes of the Florida House, where the fire originated. Going through the smoke-filled halls, they quickly aroused sleeping guests and aided them in finding their way out of the burning building. Notwithstanding efforts of the Florida House employes, about 200 guests who were slow in getting out were rescued by firemen with ladders. Although all persons remaining in the building were warned not to jump, firemen were unsuccessful in preventing two persons from leaping from the second floor of the Florida House. They were Miss Alice C. Smith of Amherst, N. S., and W. F. Giddings of Granby, Quebec.

Miss Smith has a broken leg and her spine is injured. Her condition is critical. Mr. Giddings's ankle was broken and he was injured internally, but the physicians said to-night that he would recover. Several other persons received minor injuries.

When the fire began to spread Company G of the Florida National Guard was called out and formed lines to keep the crowds back. Afterward the soldiers guarded the ruins of the burned buildings to prevent looting.

Besides the Florida House, the other hotels destroyed were the Munson House, the Clairmont Hotel, the Central Hotel and the Atlantic Hotel. The St. John's County Court House, which contained many historic records, also was burned. The Vedder House, one of the most famous landmarks of the city, in which was kept the collection of the St. Augustine Historical Society, was destroyed. Several residences also were burned.

Charles Hopkins saved several boats which were here for the Southern championship speedboat races. When the flames reached the boathouses he cut the boats loose and pushed them into the bay. All floated to safety.

Besides the hotels, the list of homes and other buildings destroyed included the Lynn, a two-story brick building; Clarence Rogers's residence, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith's residence, Nook College, J. D. Puller's residence, Monson cottage, Gould T. Butler's residence and cottage, and the homes of George W. Corbett and Dr. G. W. Potter, the Joseph Flat building and the Sallas and Sanchez buildings.

ROME, April 2.—The Pope to-day appointed the Rev. Michael J. Curley, rector of St. Peter's Church, Deland, Fla., to be Bishop of the Diocese of St. Augustine.

BUFFALO WRECK A TRAIN.

Twenty Lives Lost in Java—Europeans in Rear Cars Escape.

BATAVIA, April 2.—Twenty natives were killed and fifty others injured to-day by the derailing of a train while it was crossing a bridge near Tanjong Priok, about six miles from this city.

The accident was caused by the presence on the track of a herd of buffalo, into which the locomotive ran.

MONEY TO PAY DEBTS IF SIEGEL GOES FREE

partnership, yesterday made application for an order of interpleading before Justice Weeks in Part I., Special Term. The order was signed, and to-morrow the bonding company will pay the face of the bond to the City Chamberlain. The bonding company will discharge its liability by canceling the bond, and Henry Melville, receiver of Henry Siegel & Co., bankers, will be substituted for the bonding company as defendant in the action brought by the Attorney General to recover on the bond for the depositors. On making his application for the order Mr. Wickersham said:

"We do this first, because we are anxious that the depositors may get some sort of a dividend as soon as possible, and show our good faith. We have no defense (to the collection of this bond) and our only reason for failure to pay this bond before is that another action was pending."

Mr. Wickersham asked for an order specifying that the money should be turned over to the City Chamberlain within five days, this lapse of time having been thought necessary because the check must come from the home office of the bonding company in Boston and receive the proper indorsement before it can be turned over to the custodian of the county and city funds.

Deputy Attorney General William A. McQuaid, when seen by Joseph M. Proskauer, counsel for Receiver Melville, made it plain that he desired the proceeds from the bond to go into the general fund, including the $325,000 to be paid by the Creditors' Committee to the depositors.

Checks for Dec. 29 Deposits.

Mr. Melville made out checks yesterday for deposits put in the defunct bank on Dec. 29. He sent notices last night to eighty-two depositors of that day, informing them that the money was ready, and would be paid to them when they presented proof of their claims. This will be the first money paid to any of the creditors of the failed Siegel enterprises.

District Court Judge Hough signed an order last night ratifying the sale of the Simpson-Crawford and Merchant Express Companies' assets to the Siegel Stores Corporation. Alexander MacLachlin, President of the O'Neill-Adams Company, who has been loaned by John Claflin to become manager of the Simpson-Crawford Store, expects to reopen that concern at the latest by Wednesday. The Simpson-Crawford Corporation, to do business as a department store, was incorporated in Albany yesterday with a capital stock of $3,350,000. The articles of incorporation were filed by H. O. Coughlin, Howard K. Wood, and Alexander MacLachlin, 36 Nassau Street.

Three orders were filed in the Federal Court in bankruptcy against the Fourteenth Street Store, the Simpson, Crawford Company, and the Merchants' Express Company, extending the time for adjudication until April 10. The indications are that by that date all the funds for the depositors will be ready for distribution.

William H. Bonynge of Olcott, Gruber, Bonynge & McManus, counsel for three petitioners in the bankruptcy proceedings against Siegel and Vogel, was asked if he was going to press the proceedings in view of the arrangements already made to have a distribution of funds without the expenses of trustee, referee, and counsel. He said he was simply obeying the instruction of his clients and that they desired to have an adjudication in bankruptcy so that they might have their own trustee make a thorough investigation to discover assets.

'POLITICAL PETS' AS ENVOYS

Rogers Says Wilson Ignored Merit System in Making Appointments.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Alleging that the merit system had been eliminated from the American Diplomatic Service, Representative Rogers of Massachusetts, a Republican, accused both President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, in the House to-day, of ousting experienced diplomats in favor of political "pets," and said that the President had kept choice European diplomatic patronage for himself and allowed Secretary Bryan to fill the Latin-American posts.

Mr. Rogers especially criticised the appointments of Mr. Page as Ambassador to England and Mr. Morgenthau as Ambassador to Turkey. He said that a sincere attempt had been made during the Taft and Roosevelt Administrations to place the Diplomatic Service on a merit basis, and the country had looked for a continuance of this policy under President Wilson.

"Perhaps the grossest case in the Old World of the deliberate departure from the merit system," said Mr. Rogers, "is found in the removal of William W. Rockhill, who a year ago was our Ambassador to Turkey. As the crowning culmination of a long and distinguished service he was appointed Ambassador to Russia in 1909 and transferred as Ambassador to Turkey in 1911. He was displaced by Henry Morgenthau, a millionaire real estate operator of New York. Mr Rockhill is turned adrift to shift for himself, and the explanation is not difficult to find. Mr. Morgenthau was Chairman of the Democratic National Finance Committee in 1912, and he alone, to say nothing of members of his family, contributed $10,000 to the fund."

In reference to Ambassador Page at London, Mr. Rogers commented that the most charitable thing that could be said about Mr. Page's recent speech in that city was the reported remark of Speaker Clark that it was "made in the night after a banquet; it was walnuts in wine."

"As Ambassador to Spain we find Joseph E. Willard, a millionaire hotel proprietor and real estate operator of Richmond," he continued. "He contributed $2,000 to the Wilson campaign of 1912."

SMITH, GRAY & CO. OFFER.

Clothing Firm Sends Out Circular Letter to Creditors.

A proposition to provide for the settlement of the indebtedness of Smith, Gray & Co., clothing manufacturers, which many of the largest creditors have accepted, is being sent out to the remaining creditors of the firm. While the book assets exceed the liabilities of $506,429, it is said, exclusive of prospective claims for damages arising from broken contracts, estimated to reach $50,000, the assets would fall far below these figures in the event of forced bankruptcy liquidation. In the circular letter to the creditors the firm says:

"Our present embarrassment is due principally to the very heavy expense under which our business has been conducted, the expense involved in manufacturing our own garments and our inability to renew a very large part of our indebtedness for borrowed money. This business was established by a great many years of hard work, and, besides the personal pride we have in preserving our business, we can, with the assistance we shall receive, conduct the same successfully on a reorganized basis."

Financial aid from outside sources has been offered the firm providing the creditors generally approve of the terms of reorganization. These terms are as follows: Twenty-five per cent. cash; 37½ per cent. in certificates of indebtedness, payable 5 per cent. in or before the expiration of one year; 10 per cent. in or before the expiration of two years, 10 per cent. in or before the expiration of three years, and 12½ per cent. in or before the expiration of four years, and 37½ per cent. in income debenture bonds, which will mature six years later.

The certificates of indebtedness will bear interest at 5 per cent., as will also the income debenture bonds.

The realty holdings of the firm were appraised by George E. Lovett of Brooklyn, who found that the properties were worth less than the mortgages upon them. The depreciation in value of this real estate is said to be due to neighborhood changes following the construction of the Williamsburg Bridge. The merchandise was appraised by William H. Reid.

OFFICE BOY WASTES ENERGY

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—The average office boy, through lack of control over the muscles of his legs, wastes as much energy in walking about the office each day as it would take to shovel fifteen tons of coal, according to Dr. E. H. Arnold of New Haven, Conn., who delivered an address before the Business Men's League here.

Dr. Arnold explained that by dragging his feet along the floor instead of allowing them to swing forward of their own momentum, the office boy makes his muscles move about twenty pounds every time he takes a step, and the average boy takes about 1,500 steps a day.

170,000 BRITISH MINERS OUT

Yorkshire Strike May Force Many Other Persons Into Idleness.

LEEDS, April 2.—All the coal miners in Yorkshire, numbering 170,000, had left the pits to-day, when the last of the notices to quit work expired. The men demand the introduction of a minimum wage scale.

The stocks of coal at the pit-heads are only sufficient to last about a week. After the expiration of that period the railroads and steel and iron works depending on the Yorkshire collieries for fuel will be seriously hampered, and many of the men employed by them may also be forced into idleness.

DETECTIVE KILLED, SLAYER SHOT DEAD

Horgan had come to her flat, showing signs of intoxication, and had told her that his wife and two men were after him. He begged her to conceal him and tell any inquirers that he was not in, she said.

Capt. William A. Jones, in charge of the detectives of the Fifth Inspection District, placed a technical charge of homicide against Haerle. Coroner Feinberg exonerated and praised Haerle and paroled him in the custody of Capt. Jones. The Coroner said:

"I am proud that the police force has men whose bravery never flags in the time of their duty, even when their lives are at stake. Lieut. Haerle is one of those men. It was a brave thing for Detective Guarniere and Lieut. Haerle to go up to that flat, believing that a desperate man was inside."

Guarnieri's Heroism.

After the detectives had stretched out Guarnieri's body on a cot Detective Cassetti, who had long been associated with him, broke down and wept. His voice choked as he told of the dead detective's heroism. On July 4, 1911, Guarnieri went into the basement of Charles Umhey's saloon at 778 Twelfth Avenue, to get Raphael Gross, a lunchman, who had committed a murderous assault on a man named Sarno. Gross had shot Guarniere four times in the abdomen before Detective Kear wounded him so badly that the lunchman died. For seven months Guarnieri's life hung by a thread, and he lay on a bed of pain in Flower Hospital. The doctors could not remove all of the bullets then, and since that time Guarnieri had to undergo several operations because of their shifting in his abdominal wall.

Only a month ago Guarnieri came out of Flower Hospital after his most recent operation. He told his friends that he thought he was "over most of his troubles now."

Guarnieri had been on the police force seven years. He was only 30 years old. Cassetti mourned. He left a wife and three children, with whom he lived at 1,325 Glover Street, in the Westchester section of the Bronx.

Lieut. Edward Constano of the Bronx went to the Guarnieri home last night. He told Mrs. Guarnieri that her husband was ill and escorted her to the police station. When she entered the station and saw the moist eyes of her husband's comrades, she began to weep. Cassetti choked as she spoke to him. Mrs. Guarnieri then realized that her husband was dead and fainted in Constano's arms.

When the ministrations of the matron restored her to consciousness she whispered that Capt. Jones should send for her father, John B. Dandolfo of 61 Sullivan Street to take her to his home. She asked that her children, Margaret, aged 4; Ruth, aged 3, and Norman, aged 1 year, be brought down to the Dondolfo home, to which she directed her husband's body should be removed.

Inspector Faurot, in charge of the Detective Bureau at Police Headquarters, came to the station and lauded Guarnieri's heroism later in the evening.

The police said that "Puggy" Horgan had been arrested eight times. He spent eighteen weeks in the Tombs for robbing Frank Weisbrod of 347 Manhattan Avenue of $2 at Ninety-eighth Street and Park Avenue on Sept. 7, 1912, but escaped conviction.

Lieut. Haerle said later that when he and Guarnieri had visited Police Headquarters Wednesday they had paused before the tablet on the ground floor bearing the names of "policemen who died in the performance of duty." Haerle said he remarked to Guarnieri:

"You had a narrow escape from getting your name on that list two years ago."

Guarnieri then replied:

"Yes, thank God, I hope for my wife's and babies' sake it never does get there."

SLAIN AFTER QUARREL.

Laborer Shot Down by Friend, Who Escapes by Fire-escape.

Santo Trovaglianti, a laborer, 27 years old, of 121 East 105th Street, was shot and fatally wounded at 6 o'clock last night by a friend, Giuseppe Fortunato, with whom he had recently quarreled.

Trovaglianti went to call on Fortunato at the latter's apartment on the top floor of the house at 214 East 107th Street, and Fortunato came out at the knock. People living in the house heard a shot and came up to find Trovaglianti lying on the floor shot through the abdomen. He was taken to Flower Hospital and died there several hours later.

Fortunato, as soon as he heard the neighbors approaching, ran through the kitchen of his flat, jumped out the window, and got away down the fire-escape.

GAS COMPANY CUTS CAPITAL

Brooklyn Concern to Carry Out Service Commission's Recommendations

Declining to recognize in any way the right of the Public Service Commission to order it to reduce its capital stock and stipulating that its action should not be considered as setting up a precedent, the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company has decided to carry out the recommendations of the commission as to the adjustment of its capital to the estimated cost of reproducing its plant.

The company has written to the commission to inform it that its Directors at a meeting held in Philadelphia on March 24 decided to cut from its capital, as of Jan. 1 last, the sum of $337,902. This will be accomplished by deducting from its surplus the sum of $87,902, and by crediting the other $250,000 to a special suspense account known as the "Franchise and other intangible assets in process of amortization."

It also decided to increase its depreciation fund to $215,065, by transferring to it the sum of $90,525 from its surplus, and to amortize the special suspense account of $250,000 by setting aside 5 cents from the amount it will receive from each 1,000 feet of gas it sells until the $250,000 is amortized.

WOODS LEADS LIST FOR HEAD OF POLICE

Henry Bruere and Raymond B. Fosdick Are Mentioned, but Col. Harbord Is Not.

NO CHOICE YET, SAYS MAYOR

Regret Over Mr. McKay's Retirement Felt at Headquarters—Mr. Mitchel Goes to Albany.

Mayor Mitchel declared pointblang yesterday that he had not picked the man to succeed Police Commissioner Douglas I. McKay, whose resignation was announced on Wednesday and who asked to be relieved of his duties at Police Headquarters not later than April 15.

The opinion about the City Hall and at Police Headquarters was general that the next Police Commissioner would be Arthur H. Woods, the Mayor's secretary, who is also a former Deputy Police Commissioner. Raymond B. Fosdick and City Chamberlain Henry Bruere were also mentioned as possibilities. Nobody mentioned Col. Harbord, the Chief of the Philippine Constabulary, who has been suggested as the ideal man for the job by no less a person that William H. Taft.

"No human being is in a position today," said Mayor Mitchel, "to state who the next Police Commissioner of New York will be. I do not know myself, but as soon as I make up my mind I will announce who the man is."

Mayor Mitchel added that he hoped to be able to let Mr. McKay retire before April 15. He said Mr. McKay desired to be relieved at the earliest possible moment. The Mayor was asked about the possibilities of each of the men whose names had been mentioned, but he refused to discuss any of them. He also refused to answer a question whether with the naming of the new Police Commissioner there would be also a change of Deputy Police Commissioners.

Mayor Mitchel went to Albany early in the afternoon to attend the dinner of the Legislative Correspondents last night.

"I do not expect even to think about the police question while I am away," he said, just before leaving the City Hall, "but when I get back I shall go very thoroughly into the matter."

"Do you know what business Mr. McKay is going into?" Mayor Mitchel was asked.

"I do not. Ask him," was the Mayor's reply.

There was an air of deep regret at Police Headquarters because the young Commissioner had resigned. The members of the force on duty there all spoke in terms of the greatest respect and in many instances of affection for the West Pointer who took up the reins of police administration when Rhinelander Waldo unceremoniously dropped them in the closing hours of the Kline administration. There were not a few who let it be known that they did not think McKay had had a fair deal.

"I don't know who the next Commissioner will be," said one old timer, "but I do know that they are letting a mighty fine chap get away from them. The next Commisioner may prove to be a better official, but they will have to show me before I will believe it, and there are a lot of others around here of the same way of thinking."

When Commissioner McKay was seen he smilingly reiterated his statement of Wednesday that he hoped to be out of office by April 15. He said he did not know what business he would take up, but intimated he might go into engineering. Commissioner McKay was a star scholarship man at West Point.

"Did Mayor Mitchel offer you a Deputy Commisionership?" Commissioner McKay was asked.

"He did not," Mr. McKay replied.

"Would you have accepted one?"

"Positively not," was the answer.

"Has the Police Commissionership been offered to you?" he was asked.

"You will have to ask Mayor Mitchel," was the reply.

"Would you accept the place if it was offered you?"

"I cannot discuss the matter," he said. "Any information on the subject must come from Mayor Mitchel. I am a subordinate, and it would be highly improper for me to discuss the matter at all."

Mr. Bruere added that in his opinion there is no finer opportunity for service in the United States than the Police Commissionership affords.

District Attorney Cropsey of Brooklyn, one of the many former Commissioners still in New York, called on Mayor Mitchel in the morning, and immediately the rumor spread that his visit had to do with the Police Commissionership. Both the Mayor and Mr. Cropsey denied it had anything to do with police matters.

The name of Sherman Bell, former Adjutant General of Colorado, was suggested to the Mayor for the Commissionership. Gen. Bell is a former Roosevelt Rough Rider, and was much in the public eye in the Cripple Creek mining strike in 1904. The suggestion was not taken seriously, it was said.

Austrian Soldier Also Kills Himself Owing to Bribery Scandal.

VIENNA, April 2.—Lieut. Soltus of the Austrian Gendarmerie and one of his men committed suicide to-day in consequence of the discovery that they and a number of other officers and men had been accepting bribes from the proprietor of an emigration agency at Przemysl, Galicia.

PARIS STUDENTS INSULTED.

Refused to Attend Opera Ball—Said Gaiety Was Not Made to Order.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Friday, April 3.—The second and last of the Opera balls was a greater success than that of Mi-Carême. The Opera was not so crowded and dancing was therefore more enjoyable.

Color combinations of green, red, yellow, and white made pretty pictures as the revelers were ranged into two camps at three this morning for the battle of flowers and colored celluloid balls.

The tango, maxixe, and furlana were much danced, and the boxes were filled with masked women beautifully dressed. Champagne flowed freely at supper.

The promised attendance of 300 art students did not materialize. They were invited in order to introduce more gayety into the proceedings. The students, however, far from being gratified at this delicate attention, were indignant, and replied in a formal letter that "their gayety was not made to order. They preferred to reserve it for their own functions, where they could give it free play without instruction."

STUDENT SUES SEVEN FOR COLLEGE HAZING

TELLS OF INDIGNITIES

Alleges Her Clothing Was Torn from Her and She Was Ducked in a Tub of Water.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 2.—As a result of a hazing in the girls' dormitory of Purdue University last January, Mabel Rogers of Shoals, Ind., filed suit today against seven senior girls, demanding $7,000. The plaintiff, who is a first-year girl, alleged that up to the time she was hazed she was healthy, with normal eyes, but now her sight is impaired and her health destroyed.

Miss Rogers in her complaint alleges that on a certain day in January while she was preparing her lessons seven girls dragged her from her room, tore off her clothing, painted her chest, back, and neck with red ink, poured mucilage on her back, and stuck her with pins in an effort to compel her to kneel to her assailants. She further avers that she was ducked in a tub of water. She declares she was forced to go to a hospital for treatment following the hazing, and that she had been unable to do her work in the university.

STUDENTS TALK POLITICS.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, addressed the student delegates of the Intercollegiate Civic League, which met at Columbia yesterday in annual convention. He advised them that to be a thoroughgoing politician in the future one must have a full understanding of the tendencies of the people and, furthermore, a comprehensive understanding of the trend of the times.

Lords Clarendon and Morley, leaders of the British politics at the time of the Crimean war, were held up by Dr. Butler as examples to emulate. Both were successful, practical politicians, said Dr. Butler, and their biographies throw light upon their wonderful grasp of affairs.

Representatives from fifty-nine colleges and universities attended the convention. Papers were read, and there was a discussion on the policy of the Democratic Party on the trust problems. Following a dinner in the evening, the students took the midnight train for Washington, where the delegates to-day will visit Congress, the White House, and several of the departments.

STOCK LIST MEN ARE ACTIVE AGAIN

Demand Shareholders' Names from Corporations to Sell Them to Highest Bidders.

BOOKS MUST BE SHOWN

Ownership of Single Share Entitles Men to See List—Forty-five Companies Visited.

It became known yesterday that some of the men who reaped a rich harvest about eighteen months ago by obtaining lists of the stockholders of big corporations and disposing of them to the highest bidder had again become active. Many corporations have been visited recently by men owning a single share of stock, which entitled them under the law to see the complete lists. Unless they are willing to become liable to a fine of $250 for each time they refuse the demand, the corporations must show the list to any stockholder.

An investigation was started in 1912 and private detectives trailed the men who demanded the lists. The headquarters of the group was found to be at 130 Pearl Street, where the men had an office on the fourth floor. Among them at that time were Walter Althause, who was at one time engaged in mining stock promotions in Boston; Alfred Semsey, formerly an officer in the Hungarian Army; Thomas Seeley and Edward F. Draper. Althause and Draper were associated formerly with A. D. F. Adams, who was sent to prison for certain transactions in Heinze copper stock. Seeley was Adams's cashier.

The plan which these men conceived was original and simple. The purchase of a single share of stock of any of the large corporations entailed no great expense and could be easily disposed of, either at the purchasing price or approximately that price, as soon as the desired list of stockholders was copied from the books of the company. These lists, it was explained, find a ready market at a good sum, as they prove of great value to competing corporations and to promoters who have stock to dispose of.

Between forty-five and fifty corporations have been visited recently. The United States Steel Corporation, the International Harvester Company, the Otis Elevator Company, and the Anaconda Copper Company are among them. Another is the big United States Rubber Company, which has offices at Broadway and Fifty-eighth Street.

H. B. Stimson of the firm of White & Case, attorneys, of 14 Wall Street, who has made a careful study of the matter, said last night that some definite steps might be expected shortly in an effort to checkmate the men who sought to obtain the lists of stockholders. He said that practically every corporation of any size had been approached and the list demanded.

When Semsey was active in the business he frankly admitted that he got the stock lists for the purpose of selling them.

"There is nothing unusual about a business of this kind," he said. "It is a profitable one, and you will find that there is never any difficulty in getting the lists. I venture to say that at least twenty others down here in the street are doing the same thing."

THE COMMITTEE'S STATEMENT

Description of the Districts and How They Were Determined Upon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The Bank Reserve Organization Committee, in determining the Federal Reserve districts and the location of the Federal Reserve banks, issued the following statement to-day:

The Federal Reserve Act directs the Reserve Bank Organization Committee to "designate not less than eight nor more than twelve cities to be known as Federal Reserve cities;" to "divide the continental United States, excluding Alaska, into districts, each district to contain only one of such Federal Reserve cities," and to apportion the districts "with due regard to the convenience and customary course of business." The act provides that the districts may not necessarily be coterminous with any State or States.

In determining the Reserve districts and in designating the cities within such districts where Federal Reserve banks shall be severally located, the Organization Committee has given full consideration to the important factors bearing upon the subject. The committee held public hearings in eighteen of the leading cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf and was materially assisted thereby in determining the districts and the Reserve cities. Every reasonable opportunity has been afforded applicant cities to furnish evidence to support their claims as locations for Federal Reserve banks. More than 200 cities, through their Clearing House Associations, Chambers of Commerce and other representatives were heard. Of these thirty-seven cities asked to be designated as the headquarters of a Federal Reserve Bank.

The majority of the Organization Committee, including its Chairman and the Secretary of Agriculture, were present at all hearings, and stenographic reports of the proceedings were made for more deliberate consideration. Independent investigations were, in addition, made through the Treasury Department, and the preference of each bank as to the location of the Federal Reserve Bank with which it desired to be connected was ascertained by an independent card ballot addressed to each of the 7,475 national banks throughout the country which had formally assented to the provisions of the Federal Reserve act.

Factors Governing Committee.

Among the many factors which governed the committee in determining the respective districts and the selection of the cities which have been chosen were:

First—The ability of the member banks within the district to provide the minimum capital of $4,000,000 required for the Federal Reserve Bank, on the basis of 6 per cent. of the capital stock and surplus of member banks within their district.

Second—The mercantile, industrial, and financial connections existing in each district and the relations between the various portions of the district and the city selected for the location of the Federal Reserve Bank.

Third—The probable ability of the Federal Reserve Bank in each district, after organization and after the provisions of the Federal Reserve act shall have gone into effect, to meet the legitimate demands of business, whether normal or abnormal, in accordance with the requirements and provisions of the Federal Reserve act.

Fourth—The fair and equitable divisions of the available capital for the Federal Reserve Banks among the districts created.

Fifth—The general geographical situation of the district; transportation lines and the facilities between the Federal Reserve Bank and all portions of the district.

Sixth—The population, area, and prevalent business activities of the district, whether agricultural, manufacturing, mining, or commercial, its record of growth and development in the past, and its prospects for the future.

In determining the several districts the committee has endeavored to follow State lines as closely as possible, and wherever it has been found necessary to deviate the division has been along lines which are believed to be most convenient and advantageous for the district affected.

The twelve districts and the twelve cities selected for the location of the Federal Reserve Banks are as follows:

This district contains 835 national banks which have accepted the provisions of the Federal Reserve act. The capital stock of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, on the basis of 6 per cent. of the total capital stock and surplus of the assenting national banks in the district, will amount to $5,583,955; and if there be added 6 per cent. of the capital stock and surplus of the State banks and trust companies which have applied for membership up to April 1, 1914, the total capital stock will be $5,594,916.

Eleventh District.

DISTRICT NO. 11.—The State of Texas, all that part of New Mexico not included in District No. 10; all that part of Oklahoma not included in District No. 10; all that part of Louisiana not included in District No. 6, and the following counties in the State of Arizona: Pima, Graham, Greenloe, Cochiso, and Santa Cruz, with the City of Dallas, Texas, as the location of the Federal Reserve Bank.

This district contains 514 national banks which have accepted the provisions of the Federal Reserve act. The capital stock of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, on the basis of 6 per cent of the total capital stock and surplus of the assenting national banks in the district, will amount to $7,825,405; and if there be added 6 per cent of the capital stock and surplus of the State banks and trust companies which have applied for membership up to April 1, 1914, the total capital stock will be $8,115,524.

The committee was impressed with the growth and development of the States of Idaho, Washington, and Oregon, but on the basis of 6 per cent. of the capital stock and surplus of national banks and State banks and trust companies which have applied for membership, that section could not provide the $4,000,000 minimum capital stock required by the law. With the continued growth of that region, it is reasonable to expect that in a few years the capital and surplus of its member banks will be sufficient to justify the creation of an additional Federal reserve district, at which time application may be made to the Congress for a grant of the necessary authority.

It is no part of the duty of the Organization Commitee to locate branches of the Federal reserve banks. The law specifically provides that "Each Federal reserve bank shall establish branch banks within the Federal reserve district in which it is located." All the material collected by the committee will be placed at the disposal of the Federal reserve banks and the Federal Reserve Board when they are organized and ready to consider the establishment of branch banks.

64 DIE IN BLIZZARD ON FLOES OF ICE

37 SAVED ARE FROSTBITTEN

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 2.—In a blizzard which swept down upon the sealing fleet off the Newfoundland coast on Tuesday sixty-four hunters from the steamship Newfoundland perished on the ice fields in the Straits of Belle Isle, and nineteen others have not been accounted for. Thirty-seven men of the crew known to have been rescued after the storm had abated probably will lose hands or feet, or both, or be maimed in some way or other.

The steamship Southern Cross, which it was feared had been lost with her crew of 170 men off the south coast, was reported to-night safe at Channel.

Each vessel of the sealing fleet carries from 150 to 270 men, and fifteen vessels have been engaged in the hunt this season among the ice floes near Belle Isle Strait. The crews are sent out each morning to kill the seals and drag them to their respective ships or pile them in heaps where the vessels can get them as they thread their way through the floes. On any normally favorable day probably 3,000 men are thus occupied in small or large groups over fields of ice for maybe 50 or 100 miles.

The blizzard broke last Tuesday after the hunters had been on the ice for a few hours and sent them scurrying back, while the ships made desperate efforts to reach their men. The Newfoundland, however, one of the old style wooden vessels, with less power than the modern steel boats, was caught between fragments of heavy ice and could not move, and her men in the dense blinding snowstorm lost all sense of direction and wandered aimlessly over the ice floes, knowing from experience what fate confronted them. The ship's crew numbered 150, of whom 120 were on the ice. Capt. Wesley Kean, his officers, engineers, stokers, and cooks remained aboard.

Not until this morning, forty-eight hours later, did the weather improve sufficiently for help to be given. Then the Newfoundland signaled to the two nearest ships, the Bellaventure and the Stephano, both powerful modern steamers, and these at once sent out parties to search over the snowclad ice for the dead and the living. They were joined by the steamship Florizel.

Dragging boats to ferry themselves across the lanes of water, and ample stores of provisions, they set out and by nightfall had returned with what bodies were still on the ice and what sufferers could be found.

Wireless messages from Capt. Randall of the Bellaventure, which were hard to decipher as her apparatus was working poorly, indicated that she had picked up 35 survivors and 58 dead bodies. He says he had hard work to get the survivors aboard as they were too weak from hunger and exposure to walk and had to be hoisted to the deck. A message from the Stephano to-night accounted for one dead and two living and from the Florizel for five dead. Whether any of the 19 men supposed to be missing were saved by the Newfoundland is not yet known.

The sealing steamers to-night passed out of range of Fogo station, at the entrance to Notre Dame Bay, through which they had sent their wireless reports of the disaster and were driving southward in the gale. As the Cape Race wireless station has been dismantled by the storm the only means of communicating with the vessels before their arrival here is through the Furness liner Eagle Point, which arrived to-day from Liverpool. The wireless operator of the Eagle Point was trying at a late hour to get into touch with them.

The Government on the news being received to-day took prompt action to minimize the sufferings of the injured, and by arrangement with the Bellaventure's owners she is ordered to St. John's to land the dead and suffering. The sealing law ordinarily would not allow her to sail again, but the Government is waiving this, and she will put to sea as soon as possible after her work is done. All available space in Grenfell Institute for Seamen has been pre-empted for the accommodation of the survivors, and doctors and nurses have been requisitioned to attend to them.

Arrangements are also being made to order the Stephano home on the same order the Stephano and Florizel home on the same basis or to transfer their survivors and dead to the Bellaventure if the latter can reach them during the night. Either or both ships should reach here to-morrow forenoon.

The last vessel of the sealing fleet left St. Johns on March 13. The fleet, according to a report made by James S. Benedict, United States Consul at that city, numbered twenty-one ships, equipped with modern apparatus and carrying crews aggregating 3,734 officers and sealers. This number is less by 200 than those who went out in 1913, and 500 less than in 1912.

The most serious of previous disasters in connection with the seal fisheries was that which befell the steamer Greenland in 1898. Of a crew of 180 men who had been sent out over the ice floes, 48 were frozen to death and 63 were frostbitten.

The years 1908 and 1909 were also disastrous. Five ships were lost in these two seasons.

DR. GRADWOHL SUED.

St. Louis Scientist Defendant in an Action for Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—Dr. Rutherford B. Hayes Gradwohl, a noted bacteriologist, was sued for divorce to-day, the action reviving a sensation which stirred society here and in Chicago some time ago. The episode involves Mrs. John E. Holman, former wife of the Vice-President of the Holman Paper Box Company, who is now living in Chicago.

Mrs. Holman left her husband about the time Dr. Gradwohl disappeared from St. Louis. Mr. Holman came here from Chicago and obtained a divorce three months ago, asserting at the time that the scientist would be compelled to "set Mrs. Holman right before the world." Mrs. Holman had given up society for the study of bacteriology and was Dr. Gradwohl's assistant when they disappeared. Holman merely charged desertion in his suit, and Mrs. Gradwohl confined her petition to the same complaint.

G. G. Reynolds Left $509,476.

An appraisal of the estate of George G. Reynolds filed in the Surrogate's Court, Brooklyn, shows that he left property worth $509,476. It consists of real estate mortgages and shares of the stock of the Brooklyn Trust Company, Royal Baking Powder Company, and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. George C. Reynolds, the testator's grandson, receives $374,468 and the remainder of the estate is divided among relatives.

Bowdle Tells House of an Egyptian Precedent for Controversy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—"In this tolls question there is nothing new," Mr. Bowdle, of Ohio, told the House to-day in connecting the controversy with a similar one that arose in the days of Seti, one of the Egyptian Pharaohs.

An ancient hieroglyphic tale on a tablet discovered in a cellar at Karnak, Mr. Bowdle said, told how certain Egyptians, in a previous reign, had received the royal favor of carrying exclusively all goods, not ass-laden, between Karnak and Memphis. A company was organized and soon drove all the asses off the road. At an expense of 400,000,000 shekels, Seti, in later years, built another and shorter road, the cost of which was to be met by levying tolls on the vehicles of all nations using the road. This infuriated the company, which protested that it had the right to be exempted. The company accused the King and his subjects of truckling to Babylonia.

"All this," exclaimed Mr. Bowdle, "provided a high degree of botheration to Pharaoh, for people who, before the road was built, regarded the company as a trust and in violation of the antitrust laws for the protection of shepherds, now showed a profound tendency to regard it as a benevolent organization. The air rang with 'bad faith,' 'unconstitutionality,' 'treason, and 'truckling to Assyria.' So Pharaoh proposed to exempt this company from tolls. At this point a Hebrew appeared from Goshen who reminded the King that the company was a monopoly. The King thereupon ordered the directors slain, but relented when the Hebrew reminded him that it was but natural that they should seek special privilege. Whereupon the King, though lamenting the fact that these men had conspired against the Royal treasury and had caused the kingdom to be discontent, said:

"'If these men are not knaves, they be lunatics or fools. Let them all be taken to the royal bughouse, that this pest be not propagated, and that my subjects be no longer deceived.' All this happened 3,500 years ago."

ANOTHER SNUB TO MURPHY.

Jefferson Day Dinner to be Held in Club Which Put Him Out.

The Jefferson Day dinner will be held this year at the National Democratic Club on the usual date, April 13. Heretofore it has been held at one of the prominent hotels, with the exception of one year, when it was held at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Prominent independent Democrats who have charge of the dinner decided to take it to the National Democratic Club this year as a rebuke to Charles F. Murphy, who has been dropped from membership by that club, and who, as a consequence, is not expected to attend this year.

The committee having the affair in charge has invited William F. McCombs Chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Gov. Glynn, and Dudley Field Malone to be present and speak. Mr. McCombs has accepted, but no word has been received from Mr. Malone or the Governor.

DECLINE SUFFRAGE DEBATE.

Princeton Team Won't Accept Women's Challenge.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 2.—The challenge sent by the New Jersey suffragists to the Princeton team which defeated Yale in a debate on the suffrage question has been declined. The Princeton team argued against granting the vote to women. The sentiment among the debaters and the university authorities was that the Princeton team had everything to lose and nothing to gain by such a debate.

One member of the team was willing to engage in the contest provided it was staged away from Princeton, but inasmuch as the arguments had once been made public, it was regarded here as an unnecessary task to prepare again for a contest.

Prints of old and rare old pamphlets, autographs, and first editions frequently picked up in The Book Exchange of The New York Times Review of Books. Spring Book Number next Sunday.—Adv.

Loeser's

The Brooklyn Store

Sample Girard Shirts, $1 to $7.50 Values, at 79c. to $3.25.

Still plenty of opportunity for choice in these Men's Shirts, which were used as samples by the salesmen of the Girard line to show the new colors and weaves of the season. Sizes are 14½ to 15½ only, and pure silk, silk mixtures and fine madrases and percales are the materials.

This is obviously a most exceptional sale, and we advise you to come early, as the supply may not last through the day.

Easter and New Clothes Should Come Together.

For Easter means the establishment of spring, and new raiment is necessary then, if ever.

Every new style of Paris is shown here, accurately adapted to American tastes and figures. Indeed, side by side with imported Gowns and Suits it would be hard to tell which was imported and which was Loeser's until you looked at the price.

These duplicates of Paris Suits and Gowns are priced anywhere from $10 to $100 less than the originals cost in Paris. Yet the copies are often made of imported materials that exactly duplicate the originals.

In this wide range of Suits and Dresses every fashionable color and material is represented; in suits at every price from $15 to $185, and in Dresses from $13.50 to $150.

$1.39 Silk Faille at $1 Yard.

One of the season's most popular fabrics, and this opportunity is therefore timely. Twenty-five shades, including black. The material is rich and soft in texture—an excellent grade.

$2 Double Width Foulard Silks at $1.49

is another very unusual value today. These are all silk, spot-proof, and made to shed water. There are many different designs in most of the colors this year in demand.

Great Sales of Underwear and Hosiery Continue.

They have been going on all the week, but tomorrow will be one of the most important days. New shipments arrive almost every hour and the values remain as notable as on the first day of the sale.

It is a large Sale, a comprehensive Sale, a Sale of fine values. Any family may be outfitted in Undergarments at a dependable saving.

Paris-Loeser Hats, $14 to $85.

Loeser Hats designed in our workrooms are adaptations of French ideas to the freer femininity of New York. They are in the opinions of many good judges as distinctively beautiful as our importations.

Millinery is this year the most important single item of the toilette, because of the radical change in styles.

At Loeser's you will find Paris Hats and Paris-Loeser Hats at almost all prices—many dollars less than you would pay for designs of equal charm sold elsewhere.

UNIONISTS NOT TO OPPOSE ASQUITH

Will Let the Premier Have a Walkover in East Fife—Election April 8.

BALFOUR FOR COMPROMISE

Says He Is Willing to Agree to a Moderate Form of Devolution if It Will Solve the Irish Problem.

LONDON, April 2.—The Unionist Executive Committee of the East Division of Fife County to-day decided to allow Premier Asquith a walkover in the by-election to be held as the result of the assumption by the Prime Minister of the portfolio of Secretary for War.

The report that Mr. Asquith would be opposed by James Larkin, head of the Transport Workers' Union, has also fallen flat, so that the Premier will be nominated alone, and elected on April 8.

Ex-Premier Balfour in continuing the debate on the Home Rule bill in the House of Commons to-day said he was ready to lend a hand if a moderate form of devolution would solve the problem of the Government of Ireland.

In admitting this much in reply to Sir Edward Grey's suggestion of dealing with the question of the Government of Ireland by the introduction of a Federal system, Mr. Balfour said he had never been a believer in cutting up the United Kingdom. Any scheme of the kind in order to be acceptable to the Unionists must, he said, provide that Ulster and the rest of Ireland should be separate units.

ARMS MAY BE FOR ULSTER.

Supposed American Is Managing a Mysterious Shipment.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, April 3.—The possibility that a keen-witted American has been trying to take advantage of the Ulster unrest is suggested by a dispatch from The Daily Chronicle's Copenhagen correspondent in reference to a cargo of rifles on board the German steamer Fanny, the destination of which has provided considerable speculation, being variously given as Ulster, Mexico, and South America.

The dispatch says the owners of the steamer Carl Kichn, from which the rifles were transferred to the Fanny, state that the contract for the ship and rifles was made with "John Graham" of New York, who spoke with an American accent, and said that the rifles had arrived from the Upper Elbe and were destined for South America.

The customs officers, however, state that the Fanny is furnished with coal and provisions for only a fortnight, and that a craft of the Fanny's size would take six weeks in crossing the Atlantic.

"TROUSERS FOR WOMEN!"

London Dealer Says He Has Orders for 250 Bifurcated Skirts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 2.—The other day a woman appeared in a London street in a trouser skirt which every male observer voted extremely ugly and immodest.

The freak garment soon attracted a crowd, and the woman, to avoid its attentions, entered a store and escaped by way of the roof.

The manager of the wholesale clothing firm which invented this bifurcated skirt now announces that he has received orders for 250 of them. A modification of the garment, available for women not possessing sufficient courage to wear the original in public, consists of a loose skirt worn over trousers.

HIS CAR RUNS ALONE.

Machine Belonging to Airman Tabuteau Surprises Parisians.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 2.—Passers-by along the Avenue des Acacias, in the Bois de Boulogne, were startled yesterday by seeing an empty motor car slowly moving along the road. Some one jumped into it and put on the brake.

As he did so, a young man stepped out from the footpath. "You need not bother," he said. "It is my car, and it is used to going along like that."

The young man was the airman Tabuteau. He had placed the near-side wheels against the side of the road and left the engine running with just enough power to keep up a speed of two or three miles an hour. He and his friends then strolled in a parallel direction along the sidewalk, with the empty car following at their heels.

LONDON, April 2.—"Elastic houses" form part of a great scheme of improvement on the Duchy of Cornwall estates at Kennington, London, in which the King, acting for the Prince of Wales, the owner of the Duchy of Cornwall estates, is taking the keenest interest.

Dr. C. W. Saleeby in explaining the "elastic houses" to the Royal Institution to-day, said: "Two cottages form a block, with six bedrooms between them. The occupying families will be one with children approaching manhood and tending to grow smaller and the other a family that has barely begun to grow. As one family dwindles it gives its unused bedroom or bedrooms to the other. This will be effected by movable partitions for each bedroom."

ENGLISH PLAYS IN BERLIN.

Frohman Company to Appear Next August at Theater des Westens.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 2.—Arrangements have been perfected for the appearance next August of Charles Frohman's three-star stock company for an engagement at the Theater des Westens at Charlottenburg.

Although Charlottenburg is a Berlin suburb, the theatre is in the heart of the fashionable West End residential district. The performances will be in English, and German translation of the dialogue will be given away with the programme.

The managers who are conducting the enterprise hope not only to attract high-class German patronage, but also American tourist business, which will be at the high-water mark in Berlin at that season.

WOULD JAIL DRUNKARDS.

German Women's Societies Appeal for Indeterminate Sentences.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 2.—Indeterminate jail sentences for drunken husbands who maltreat their wives and children are a reform in the Penal Code urgently recommended by the Federated Women's Societies of Germany.

At a meeting held in Berlin yesterday the societies decided to petition the Government to this end. Several speakers stated that there was no other way to combat the danger to the lives and morals of drunkards' families.

It is proposed that drunkards shall be kept under arrest as long as there is any probability that they would abuse their liberty by committing further excesses. Inebriates who have been placed in institutions for treatment should not, it is declared, be released until undoubtedly cured.

PAUL HEYSE, POET AND NOVELIST, DIES

Winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1910 Was a Master of the Novelle.

ALSO NOTED AS DRAMATIST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 2.—Paul Heyse, the octogenarian author and dramatist, died to-day in Munich after a brief illness brought on by a sudden attack of pneumonia.

Johann Ludwig Paul Heyse was honored with the Nobel prize for literature in 1910 and was revered as the elder brother of the German literary world. He was the master of masters of the novelle, the German form of short story that was a cross between a long short story and a short novel.

Born in Berlin on March 15, 1830, the son of a Berlin professor of North German stock and a mother descended from a family of Jewish converts, he inherited, much as did Goethe, from his father his conscientious industry and from his mother his warm, artistic impulses. His early life was spent in Berlin, where, in 1847, he matriculated at the university to take up the study of the classics. Two years later he went to the University of Bonn to study the history of art. Finding aesthetics as unprofitable to him as the classics, he undertook the study of romance philology, and in 1852 took his doctor's degree in that subject at Berlin.

Later he edited some manuscripts he discovered in Italy. His visit to that country left a lasting influence upon him, discernible in the best of his novellen.

Heyse's literary career was made possible by King Maximillian of Bavaria, who in 1854 became his patron. Heyse, introduced to the King as a "young Goethe," received a pension which freed him from the necessity of a scholastic career, enabled him to marry Margaret Kugler, and insured him leisure in Munich for literary work. His wife died in 1862, leaving him four children. He married again, taking as his wife Anna Schubart of Munich.

Heyse's literary activities resulted in thirty volumes of collective works, dramas, poems, novellen, and novels. His workmanship was well-nigh flawless. As a poet and dramatist, however, his works had primarily a literary appeal.

More than half of his dramas have been produced, but only two, "Hans Lange" and "Colberg," have held the stage consistently. Among his dramas were "Meleager," "The Sabine Women," "Louis the Bavarian," "The Goddess of Reason," "Don Juan's End."

But, whereas the Germans have not excelled in the novel, they have in the novelle, and here Heyse was at his best. Again, his greatness here was to be found in artistic perfection of workmanship. He led into a world of sensuous beauty, had a keen power of psychological analysis, and excelled in dissecting the human heart, especially the heart of women. Among his best-known novellen are "L'Arrabiata," "The Heart Divided," "Judith Stern," and "The Prodigal Son." In the last-named, especially, is shown Heyse's true insight into a woman's heart. The prodigal son, returning home, is killed in a drunken brawl. His proud mother, whose indulgence had ruined his young life, suspects the dead man is her son and goes to the morgue. She stays long enough to arouse the suspicion of the official in charge. When she reappears.

"I have detained you," she says. "It was not necessary. One glance is sufficient, for a mother, to reveal the truth. But it was affecting. I had to rest a moment."

"Then it was not he?" exclaimed her friend. "Praise be to God!"

"World without end!" said the mother. "Come, let us go. The place was uncanny."

Heyse was never cynical, never pruriently suggestive. His mind was perennially young, and he outlived one new school of German writers after another in his artistic devotion.

TO GIVE "SERIAL PLAYS."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 2.—Oswald Stoll, manager of the London Coliseum, will begin a novel vaudeville experiment on April 20, when he will produce what he describes as a "serial" play. In other words, the first act of a popular play will be given one week, and the remaining acts in each successive week until the play is fully presented.

The experiment will start with Charles Klein's "Find the Woman," which is the English title of "The Third Degree." Arthur Bourchier and his wife, Violet Vanbrugh, will still be in the leading rôles.

Views of well-known dramatists have been invited, and Mr. Klein has given it as his opinion that "the artistic merit of the play will not be impaired or in any way affected by the extension of seven-minute intervals between the acts to as many days." Indeed, he says, it is within the range of possibility that interest may be increased by the wait.

Sir Arthur Pinero is wholly favorable to the project. He says it gives the public an opportunity of witnessing a first act and forming an opinion as to whether they care for better acquaintance with the play.

George Bernard Shaw thinks the experiment will destroy the unity of a performance. He says:

"We are to give an act every week. It will soon be every month. Sir Arthur Pinero's card will be inscribed 'First Mondays,' Sir James Barrie's 'Second Tuesdays,' Alfred Sutro's 'Thursday Matinées,' Claude Carton's 'All Wednesday Evenings,' Henry Arthur Jones's 'Second and Fourth Fridays,' Granville Barker's 'Fifth Saturdays,' and I shall be 'Extra Turns as Announced.'"

Henry Arthur Jones thinks the experiment would have little chance of success with an entirely new play, but might be successful if tried with a well-known drama in which the dramatic interest was firmly maintained throughout each act.

FORCIBLY FEEDING MARY RICHARDSON

Statement in Parliament Regarding Suffragette Who Slashed Rokeby "Venus."

GRAVE RISK IS ENTAILED

Suffragettes Set Fire to a Castle in Ireland Because Sir Edward Carson Opposes Them.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 2.—Mary Richardson, the suffragette who slashed the famous Rokeby "Venus" by Velasquez with a hatchet, is being forcibly fed.

"Her medical attendant," said Home Secretary McKenna in Parliament to-day, "wrote to me in December last that she had warned her patient that to repeat her refusal of food and water and to be subjected to forcible feeding would entail grave risk.

"Every care is being taken by the medical officers of Holloway Prison to prevent the prisoner from injuring herself, but it is their plain duty to feed her even at some risk rather than permit her to commit suicide by starvation."

LONDON, April 2.—According to the suffragette authorities, although Miss Richardson took a complete new outfit of clothes into prison, urgent messages have been received within a week for three new outfits and "a strong dressing gown."

Nobody is allowed to visit Miss Richardson, the suffragettes say, and they suggest that she is being ill-treated.

Suffragettes set fire to Lisburn Castle, County Antrim, to-night. They left a message for Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, vowing vengeance, Sir Edward having made the announcement several days ago that he was not in favor of the suffragette movement.

The fire was discovered before any serious damage was done.

Leave your order now for the coming numbers. These articles are the most fascinating Col. Roosevelt has ever written.

Writing from Interitat Falls on February 1st, Col. Roosevelt said:

> "The trip itself is certainly interesting. . . . I may be home in three months from this time; probably it will be four months, and possibly five."

In another letter he says:

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 2—On a charge that he tied his wife to a chair in their home and compelled his daughter to throw knives at her, Thomas Damed, employed in the Street Cleaning Department of this city, was held for the Grand Jury by Magistrate Jagmetty to-day.

Mrs. Damed caused the arrest of her husband. She testified that he had tied her to a chair and then forced their daughter to hurl knives in her direction. Damed denied the charge.

ALLEGE SEAL FRAUD, URGE COURT ACTION

SUIT ON $500,000 BOND

Proceedings to Collect Damages Also Recommended—Liebes Brothers Held Up as Pelagic Pirates.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—After an all-day struggle and after it had divided five to two on party lines, the House Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Commerce late this afternoon adopted a sensational report as a result of its three-year investigation of the fur seal industry in Alaska. The five Democratic members of the committee recommended:

That the Attorney General be requested to take steps to collect the bond of $500,000 from the North American Commercial Company and its sureties. This company, for twenty years prior to 1910, leased the Tribilof sealing islands.

That the Attorney General be requested to institute civil proceedings against Isaac Liebes of San Francisco and the other lessees or their assignees to recover such damages "as he and his confederate did to the seal herd of Alaska from 1890 to 1910," and to proceed against others "who may be or or are also implicated."

That the House turn over the testimony taken to the Attorney General and ask him to proceed "as the law and evidence direct for the good of the public."

It is now up to the House to decide whether it shall accept the Rothermen or majority report and refer the matter to Attorney General McReynolds. Meanwhile, the Republican members of the committee—McGuire of Oklahoma, and Patton of Pennsylvania—will file a minority report flatly contradicting the conclusions of the majority and opposing the reference of the case to the Attorney General.

The Rothermel report asserts that when the American Government took possession of the fur seal herd in 1867 and leased the seal islands for twenty years to the Alaska Commercial Company, beginning in 1870, the herd consisted of 4,700,000 seals.

How Seals Were Slaughtered.

"During this lease—from 1870 to 1890—the lessees," says the report, "took 1,856,224 seals, deriving a net profit of $18,753,911, while the net profit of the Government was but $5,264,230. On March 12, 1890, a second lease was entered into with the North American Commercial Company of San Francisco, for twenty years. When this lease was executed there were about 1,000,000 seals on the islands. This reduction of the herd was due to the combined effect of killing 100,000 seals annually on land since 1870 and the energetic prosecution of pelagic sealing.

"The conduct of the lessees, the North American Commercial Company, through its officers and agents, coupled with the work of and the interest they had in pelagic sealing, so reduced the herd of about a million seals, that in August, 1910, the number of seals on the islands did not, as officially reported, exceed 133,000. The lessees had killed in twenty years 343,356 seals, from which they derived a net profit of approximately $5,000,000, and by reason of which the Government, after paying expenses, derived no profit, but suffered a cash loss of more than $1,350,000.

"The record of forty years of leasing the seal islands of Alaska, 1870-1910, discloses that the Government has suffered a property loss of not less than $80,000,000, caused by the almost complete commercial ruin of the seal herd, while the net revenue received by the Government under both leases amounted to $3,914,000.

"Your committee finds that the second lease which the Government entered into with the North American Commercial Company was obtained by fraud, in part having consisted in the filing of a false affidavit on the part of Isaac Liebes, President of the company."

The report then alleges that Liebes filed an affidavit with the Treasury Department that neither he nor his associate lessees were engaged in pelagic sealing; that Isaac Liebes was aware, when he filed this affidavit, that his associate lessees, Herman Liebes, owned the schooner James Hamilton Lewis, and that this schooner had been outfitted by him and was illegally cleared in 1890 for hunting fur seals at sea.

A "Pirate" Their Ally.

The report further alleges that Isaac Liebes became part owner of the schooner and that both Herman and Isaac Leibes, officers and stockholders of the North American Commercial Company, as owners of the schooner, "corresponded, combined, and confederated with one Alexander McLean, known as a notorious British pirate, for the purpose of committing and did commit depredations on the high seas by way of unlawfully killing fur seals belonging to the Government of the United States."

The report expresses the opinion that the conduct of the officers of the North American Commercial Company were such that officials of the Government should have revoked the lease and "prevented this great loss of property."

The report goes on to say that on March 12, 1890, the North American Commercial Company gave a $500,000 bond to the Government to obey its laws and the Treasury regulations. It says this bond was signed by Isaac Liebes and H. B. Parsons and also by the late Darius O. Mills and the late Senator Stephen B. Elkins as sureties. The report alleges that "the lessee company took 128,000 yearling seals in violation of law during their lease," and "that this was done in collusion with the agents of the Government on the island."

The report alleges that the taking of seals on the Pribilof Islands from 1910 to 1912 during the administration of ex-Secretary Nagel was conducted in the same manner and by the same officials as in the latter years of the leasing company.

SEES FRAUD IN BANKRUPTCY

Surrogate Cohalan Orders Directors to Render Accounting.

Supreme Court Justice Cohalan issued an order yesterday for the Directors of the Neuberger-Phillips Company, manufacturers of textiles, to render an accounting of their management of the business. The order was issued on the application of Anton Schmid, who was appointed a trustee in bankruptcy. Mr. Schmid said that a study of the losses and assets of the concern seemed to indicate that the Directors had been guilty of neglect. The books on March 3, 1909, showed a cash surplus of $111,000, and the business of the firm was at the rate of $1,000,000 a year. One year later the books showed that the assets were only $251,021, and the liabilities were $366,346, leaving a deficit of $115,325.

Mr. Schmid said that this loss had not been explained. On April 12, 1910, a friendly petition suit in bankruptcy was begun. Mr. Schmid made an examination of the company from the time of its incorporation and found, he said, evidences of extravagance and waste. In his opinion, accompanying his order for an accounting, Justice Cohalan said:

"Nothing but fraud could have produced the loss of $226,000 in one year, there being no uncollectible accounts and no substantial depreciation of stock. It was fraud on the part of the Directors and officials to have obtained so large an amount of new goods on credit when they actually knew the company's financial condition or kept themselves in ignorance thereof by refraining from giving any attention whatever to its affairs."

No Matter How Busy You Are, Take Time to Attend to This To-Day

(1) The new Encyclopaedia Britannica will be out of stock in a few days. This tells you the news about a great enterprise.

(2) Orders will then only be taken subject to "delivery as soon as possible." This tells you why the news has an immediate interest for all buyers or readers of good books.

(3) If you decide to "take your time" and wait until next month, it is absolutely certain that your order will have to go on a waiting list. This will convey to you the urgency of doing something to-day to avoid the risk of being disappointed later on, if you should then decide to purchase this work.

The End of An Opportunity

In our previous advertisement we published the official letter from the Cambridge University Press of England, publishers of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, (new 11th edition), notifying us that the present prices must be terminated in this country, as they already have been in England, on May 28th next.

This announcement was published widely in the newspapers, and the American public has now received definite notice of the expiration of the present offer. The widest possible publicity—throughout the whole country—is being given to the forthcoming withdrawal of the present scale of prices.

The demand for the new Encyclopaedia Britannica consequent upon the announcement of the increase in price—from $29 to $50 more, according to binding—has been more than doubled, and it is now apparent that deliveries cannot under any circumstances keep pace with the daily volume of orders.

"Britannica" Means Authority

THE very name Encyclopaedia Britannica means and has meant for six generations authority, the final and supreme authority in all matters of general information or controversy.

That is one reason why you should have this encyclopaedia in your house. Nothing but the best is good enough for your children, even if you would be satisfied with something else for yourself.

It is hardly necessary to dwell on the point that the Britannica is everywhere accepted as the authority. You must be more or less familiar with the book's reputation. "The Britannica," says the New York Times, "is more than a book, it is an institution."

But maybe you think, as so many people do, that an encyclopaedia must be a heavy book—heavy in its physical weight, heavy in its contents. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Complete sets of the New Encyclopaedia Britannica—as long as they last—can be delivered immediately on payment of only

$5.00

With The Order

The balance can be paid almost in any way you may wish—in 4, 8, or 12 months—or at the rate of only $5.00 a month.

"Incredibly Light and Thin" Volumes Printed on India Paper

The Encyclopaedia Britannica contains the largest body of up-to-date and authoritative information ever issued: But it is not unwieldy. The use of India paper makes it a convenient book to house, to handle, to use. Each volume contains 1,500,000 words—the equivalent of fifteen or a dozen ordinarily printed and bound volumes. And this volume, printed on genuine India paper, is only one inch thick. On ordinary book paper, a volume with the same letter press would be three inches thick and would weight eight pounds. But the complete set on India paper takes up only two cubic feet, and a volume may easily be held in the hand. The physical form of the book is attractive; it promotes, actually invites constant reading. This invitation is augmented by the attractive style in which the contents are written. This feature is in marked contrast to the forbidding aspect of the "usual" heavy paper book of reference.

Another important innovation is price. Though India paper is more expensive than ordinary paper, and in spite of the greatly enlarged size of the new edition, it is sold at a much lower price than previous editions. And the sale has been greatly popularized by the privilege of small monthly payments.

The work consists of 29 volumes, of which the last is an Index containing 500,000 references,

It contains 44,000,000 words of text (the equivalent of 440 octavo books), 41,000 articles, 30,024 pages, 14,689 illustrations, 450 full-page plates in black and white and in color, 300 maps, showing 125,000 places.

It is written by 1,500 contributors from 21 countries in collaboration with an editorial staff of 64 members, with headquarters in New York and London, 214 of the contributors being Americans.

If You Do Not Already Know About This Great Work, You Should Send Your Inquiry Now

FIGHT FOR AUTOPSY ENDS SERUM SCARE

HEART DISEASE THE CAUSE

Appeal to Court Threatened When Dr. Goldwater Recalls Burial Permit Before Funeral.

After a protracted dispute, in which Health Commissioner Goldwater recalled a burial permit issued on Wednesday, and after John B. Merrill, a Queens County lawyer threatened to sue Dr. Goldwater and the city, an autopsy was performed last night to determine the cause of the death of Clarence Pantzer, a private in the Thirteenth Coast Artillery, National Guard, of Brooklyn.

Mr. Pantzer had been inoculated with anti-typhoid serum, and the autopsy was to determine the truth or falsity of a charge that it caused his death.

The dispute threatened to disarrange the plans for the funeral, which it had been announced would take place from the family residence, 1,620 Woodhaven Avenue, Ozone Park, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The services were finally allowed to proceed, but the body was turned over to Coroner Daniel M. Ebert of Queens, and to representatives of the Health Department, before it was interred.

While the autopsy was being performed Mr. Merrill remained on watch to see that no one not legally authorized to be present entered the room.

Lieut. Frank Harnden, Acting Surgeon of the Thirteenth Regiment, arrived in an automobile in company with three other medical officers of the National Guard. Merrill refused to allow them to witness the autopsy.

"I demand admittance in the name of the Governor of the State, who ordered me to come here to be a witness at the autopsy on behalf of the National Guard," said Lieut. Harnden.

"And I say I think you are a liar," the officer reported Merrill replied.

Lieut. Harnden and the officers who accompanied him finally withdrew without forcing admittance.

The result of the autopsy was a decision that Mr. Pantzer came to his death, not from typhoid fever, as stated in the application of Dr. John L. Casselberry, the family physician, for a burial permit, but from an acute form of heart disease, described by the Coroner's physician as "malignant, ulcerated endocarditis."

Attracted Keen Interest.

The case attracted the keen interest of the State Health Commissioner, the New York City Department of Health, the chief surgeon of the National Guard, and the Medical Department of the United States Army, because Mr. Pantzer, in common with all other members of his regiment, was inoculated with the anti-typhoid serum a few weeks ago.

The serum contains the dead germs of typhoid, and it has been credited with practically eliminating deaths from typhoid from the United States Army.

Health Commissioner Goldwater said on hearing the results of the autopsy that he was deeply gratified, and felt amply repaid for taking the stand which he held even against threats of suits that he would not permit the burial of the body until the cause of death had been determined by autopsy.

"The result is a triumph for scientific medicine," he said. "If it could have been established that Mr. Pantzer died of typhoid fever soon after taking a serum intended to make persons immune from the disease, it would have shown that the Health Department policy was wrong; that the army policy was wrong, and that the National Guard was doing a grave injustice to its enlisted men by compelling them to be inoculated.

"After I had fully determined that I would not accept the finding of the family physician regarding the cause of death. I received a request from Commissioner Bigg of the State Health Department to have an autopsy held and to reject the findings of the family physician in the case. I was glad to have this spirit of co-operation shown.

Objection by Lawyer.

"When Mr. Merrill objected and carried his objection to the point of stating that he knew the Coroner of Queens County would refuse to hold an autopsy, I replied that I would not reissue the revoked burial permit until the cause of death had been determined by autopsy. The statement was made that the family objected for sentimental reasons, but these objections were withdrawn as soon as the importance of the case was explained.

"The germs of typhoid used in the serum were of course dead. If this man had died of typhoid it would indicate that live germs had been used, which, of course, was not the case."

There were present when the autopsy was performed Coroner Ebert of Queens County, Dr. Francis Hart and Dr. William H. Nammack, Coroner's physicians; Mr. Barry, Assistant Sanitary Superintendent of Queens County; Dr. M. Nicoll, representing the Health Department, and Mr. Merrill.

The full official report of the autopsy was not made public, but will be filed to-day with the Health Department.

Dr. Casselberry said at his home in Ozone Park that he was entirely satisfied with the result of the autopsy.

"I diagnosed the case as typhoid fever," he said, "after observing symptoms that occur in typhoid cases. The symptoms for malignant ulcerated endocarditis are very similar to those of typhoid. Of course, I could not open the patient up to obtain my diagnosis, and there was no way that either myself or any other physician could have learned about the ulcerated condition of the heart before death."

FOR A STATE CONSTABULARY

Chamber of Commerce Favors a Force Like the One in Pennsylvania.

The Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution yesterday calling for the establishment of a State constabulary, such as Pennsylvania has.

"The experience of the State of Pennsylvania has been most interesting," said President John Claflin, in discussing the resolution, "and most instructive in this regard. With a comparatively small constabulary that State has succeeded in reducing crime remarkably, so that undoubtedly the expense of the force has been more than met by the decrease in the actual cost of following criminals in the attempt to bring about convictions."

The resolution was presented by Samuel W. Fairchild and was adopted unanimously.

Mortimer L. Schiff reported for the Committee on Commercial Education that the New York Stock Exchange and other business organizations had signified their willingness to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce in bringing the schools in closer contact with business. It will be recalled that $500,000 was promised by an unnamed donor several months ago to establish a college of business in this city.

Cornelius Vanderbilt moved that a special committee should be appointed by the Chamber to confer with the New York Commercial Tercentenary Commission about a celebration of the 300th anniversary of chartered commerce. The motion was carried and the committee will be appointed in a few days.

A Nominating Committee for the ensuing year was elected by the chamber, consisting of Augustus D. Juilliard, A. Barton Hepburn, Isaac N. Seligman, Philip A. S. Franklin, William A. Nash, Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., and William Jay Schieffelin.

PERMANENT CHAPLAIN, NOW.

N. Y. U. Students Never "Clock" on the Rev. Dr. Limouze.

The Faculty of New York University has decided to accede to the request of the students who petitioned that the Rev. Dr. A. H. Limouze, pastor of the Northminster Presbyterian Church, 116th Street, near Lenox Avenue, be made their regular Chaplain. He will serve in that capacity for the remainder of the school year. When the decision of the Faculty was announced to the men yesterday at the chapel they broke out into loud handclapping. Heretofore it has been the custom to invite a new Chaplain to serve every month, but this custom will be discontinued, at least for the remainder of this college year.

Dr. Limouze is an alumnus of the university and won the friendship of the students by his interest in their activities and his straightforward talks. He celebrated his appointment by telling the men that chapel exercises were organized for worship and that the time was not set apart for preparing belated lessons.

With several Chaplains in the past whose zeal outran the patience of the students, the men resorted to "clocking" to see how long the morning address would last. The present Chaplain has never been "clocked," and although he has not shortened the morning prayer he has always retained the attention of the students.

ALBANY STAFF MEN DINE IN 'PRISON'

Gov. Glynn Sees Himself and Others Caricatured at Correspondents' Annual Dinner.

ENTRANCE A BARRED GATE

Prison Idea Suggested by Revelations of Graft at Investigations —Many Digs at Murphy.

ALBANY, April 2.—Within the gray walls of the mess hall of a prison erected on modern lines and conducted in keeping with the drastic recommendations of various reform associations, Gov. Glynn and more than 300 others dined here to-night. It was only a prison of paint and canvas, though, for the diners were guests at the annual dinner of the Legislative Correspondents' Association. The recent investigations, with their numerous charges of crookedness, suggested the prison idea.

Armed guards, mounted on sentry boxes, reviewed the guests as they entered the outer corridor. Identification experts took guests' finger prints on chalked glass and measured their bodies with cork-tipped ice tongs. They were admitted to the banquet hall through a barred gate.

Twenty-four uniformed convicts, led by a keeper, lock-stepped their way to the Governor's table and pleaded for their "rights."

"For years and years," their spokesman said, "we have been doing our best, Governor, to make this a model prison. To-night we feel that we almost have attained perfection. We are all crooks, thieves, and burglars, and we believe that our honest efforts to uplift the institution should have some recognition from you. Why, oh, why, Governor, do you insist on sending politicians down here to disrupt our good work and tear down all we have built up?"

The warden was thrown into a nervous state when "Senator Windey" suddenly dropped in to inspect the prison. With only a minute in which to warn the inmates, the warden hoarsely threatened: "You're all little Tom Osbornes, or the solitary for yours."

Prevailed upon to speak, "Windey" said, in part: "Take things easy; most of you already know how to do that. I hope when you are liberated you will begin your new life right by voting the Democratic ticket."

Bagman Would Take Anything.

A bagman made the mistake of drifting into the room and dropping various articles, such as silverware, into his bulging sack. Arraigned before the presiding officer, he explained that he merely was doing his "duty."

"What makes your bag so fat?" was asked.

"Oh, if we can't get the dough we'll take anything," he said. "In this sack I've 17,000 opinions Attorney General Carmody gave me."

The "bagman's swan song," sung to the tune of "Heart of Maryland," also was a feature. The chorus wound up:

> There's a cell in the heart of Ossining

Trilby and Svengali appeared to throw light on a few knotty problems. Asked if the Workmen's Compensation Commission would give George M. Palmer a job, Trilby said it would. The members' duty, she explained, was to compensate injured workmen, and as he was the first man hit by the "uplift" machine, he certainly would be taken care of.

"William Sulzer" appeared, as he did at the last dinner, but he was changed slightly. One eye was black and his clothes were torn and mussed. But he was grinning and shaking a clenched right fist. He said nothing.

To the air, "The Curse of an Aching Heart," this chorus was sung:

> "You made me what I am to-day," said
> Sulzer to Mr. Murph,
> "You flagged me at the quarter on Gubernatorial turf;
> You pulled the checks and Polly stuff, you > had me from the start;
> But I killed off McCall and I saw you bawl
> From that curse of my aching heart."

Mention also was made of Mr. Murphy in a song to the air of "Mr. Dooley." The chorus ran:

> It's Charley Murphy, it's Charley Murphy,
> The great uplifter of Democracy;
> The real performer, the prize performer,

"Uplift" Elevator Falls.

When the "uplift" elevator in the "reorganized Democracy department store," owned jointly by Gov. Glynn and Charles F. Murphy, attempted to carry up Dudley Field Malone, the Governor, and others to various departments, it fell with a smash. Mr. Malone was on his way to the advertising department and the Governor was looking for a gubernatorial nomination. "Willis" Osborn was the elevator boy who tried to land every one where he desired to go, and thus wrecked the machine.

A sketch portraying the three months' life of the Assembly required less than two minutes. Most of that time was taken up by the Speaker pounding his gavel and shouting that the Assembly's work had the heartiest indorsement of Mr. Barnes. On the final night an appropriation bill, cutting out twelve Democratic departments and raising the pay of many Republican employes, was rushed through with a bang. Then the Speaker hurried over to the Senate, learned that the appropriation bill of the Upper House was on its way back to the Assembly, and, by knocking over two men and a boy, beat the measure to his desk by a nose, and hastily adjourned.

BARNES CALLS COMMITTEE.

Republican Chairman Hasn't Seen a Miller-Butler Slate.

Chairman William Barnes of the Republican State Committee sent out a call yesterday for a meeting of the committee to be held about May 1 to discuss the question of whether or not to hold an official convention next Fall. A Republican State Convention will have to be held between now and Jan. 1, 1915, to ratify the appointments of delegates to the next Republican National Convention, who were selected by the National Committee last December, and it has been suggested that if this convention is held in the Fall there might be a discussion then of candidates for the State ticket.

It was reported yesterday that Judge Nathan L. Miller of the Court of Appeals would be a Republican candidate for Governor, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia a Republican candidate for United States Senator. Chairman Barnes said yesterday:

"I am favoring nobody. Both Judge Miller and Dr. Butler are eminently fitted for the office of Governor and United States Senator, respectively. I have no knowledge that there is any group of Republicans urging upon them the desirability that their names be presented to the enrolled Republicans at the primary on Sept. 9. Under the new law it is of course uncertain how candidates are to be generated, it not having been determined whether or not the Republicans shall hold a conference or a coonvention. Probably no group of candidates will develop until this question has been settled."

MRS. POST HELD FOR TRIAL.

Must Answer to Charge of Attempted Suicide from Ferryboat.

Mrs. Hattie Post, who tried to end her life on Wednesday by jumping from the Municipal ferryboat The Bronx and who was rescued by a deck hand, was held in $500 bail yesterday by Magistrate Levy in the Tombs Court for trial on the charge of attempted suicide.

A man, who said he was Mrs. Post's brother-in-law, but who refused to give his name, told Magistrate Levy that Mrs. Post was getting $200 a month alimony. He said that several weeks ago she underwent an operation and that the attempt at suicide was probably due to worry following this.

ARRESTS THREE ON A TRAIN

Detective Rose Saw Them Jostle a Man Whose Purse Was Taken.

Detective Rose, recently assigned by Deputy Commissioner Rubin to run down a gang of pickpockets operating on the Williamsburg Bridge, was on watch shortly after 6:30 o'clock last night at the Essex Street station when he saw in the big crowd hurrying by a group of four men whose movements attracted his attention.

Following them he saw one of the four, conspicuous because of his height, brush up against a workman. The tall man's companions surrounded him so that Detective Rose could not follow their movements closely, but what he did see caused him to go after the men, who jumped on a train just as it was pulling out. The guard tried to prevent Rose from getting on, but opened the door for him when he showed his badge.

The detective found the workman who had been jostled just inside the car. When asked if he had lost anything the man felt in his hip pocket and exclaimed:

"Yes, I've lost my pocketbook. There was only $3 in it, but it was all I had."

The tall man stood near. Rose placed him under arrest, but the pocketbook was not found on him. A woman passenger told the detective that she saw the prisoner throw something on the floor. The pocketbook was found there.

Rose went through the train, and with the aid of several citizens placed under arrest two others of the group of four. He found the third just as the train, which was an express, was running by the Marcy Avenue station. The man guessed the detective's intentions and jumped off the moving train and got away.

The three prisoners were brought back to the Delancey Street Station, where they described themselves as Adolph Thorner, 27 years old, of 240 Eldridge Street; Jacob Weiner, 20 years old, of 24 Delancey Street, and Jacob Scholost, 20 years old, of 25 Delancey Stret. Thorner, according to the police, has been arrested seven times and convicted twice.

MANY CITY PENSION PLANS.

Mayor's Committee Hears Views of Department Employes.

The Mayor's Committee on Pensions held another hearing yesterday at the City Hall to allow the general public and city department employes to offer suggestions for the establishment of a general pension system for all city employes. There were a dozen speakers and no two agreed upon any particular plan.

Lawrence A. Cavo, of the Brooklyn Borough President's office, suggested that employes, after 25 years' service, be pensioned providing they were 55 years of age. If an employe served after he was 55 years old and had put in the 25 years' service, two per cent of his salary should be added to his pension for every year after the age limit of 55 years. Mr. Cavo thought the entire pension fund should be contributed by the city and that the employes should not be required to give any of their salary to the fund.

Stephen J. Whitlock, of the Board of Education, thought that one per cent of the employe's salary should be taken for the first ten years, two per cent for the next ten years, and three per cent for the remainder of his service, employes to be retired after thirty years' service at not more than one-half their salary for the last three years, or not more than $1,200 a year nor less than $600 a year. He suggested that the age limit be placed at sixty years and that after twenty years' service employes should be retired for physical or mental incapacity.

BENSEL REFUSES TO WAIVE IMMUNITY

Insult to Ask Him, State Engineer Tells Sullivan Committee—Advised by Carmody.

EXCUSED AS A WITNESS

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 2.—John A. Bensel, State Engineer, to-day refused to sign a waiver of immunity before the Sullivan Investigating Committee after Duncan W. Peck, State Superintendent of Public Works, and John H. Delaney, State Commissioner of Efficiency and Economy, had waived immunity and testified at length.

Mr. Bensel, with Mr. Peck, was a member ex-officio of the Dix-Murphy Highway Commission in 1912. C. Gordon Reel, the then State Superintendent of Highways, was the third member. It was by this board that 318 repair contracts made by James F. Foley, Deputy Superintendent of Highways, were approved at one time and, it is alleged, without proper investigation. James W. Osborne, Gov. Glynn's special investigator, brought out testimony in relation to these contracts, involving an expenditure of more than $1,000,000, and submitted the testimony to District Attorney Harold Alexander of Albany County. The matter was presented to the Grand Jury, but no report has been made.

"I desire to state to this committee as a State officer," said Mr. Bensel, "that I am here to give it any information I can, but that I regard it as an insult that I should be asked to waive immunity. Until I fully decide upon my course, I shall not say whether I will or will not consent to waive immunity. As I see it, after a conference with the Attorney General, you have absolutely no right to make such a request of me."

"We will not proceed with you as a witness unless you sign this waiver," said Chairman Sullivan.

"Did Attorney General Carmody advise you to refuse to sign?" Assemblyman Jones asked.

"I say his advice is that you have no right to ask any State officer to waive immunity in a proceeding like this," replied Mr. Bensel.

"Do you realize that, under the law, if anything has occurred in the way of a conspiracy or other offense against the State to which evidence may point to you as a party, if you were called here and gave testimony without waiving immunity, that would discharge you from the possibility of any prosecution?" Mr. Clark asked.

"I do not," Mr. Bensel replied, "and neither do I think it proper that you should put such questions as that to me."

Mr. Bensel thereupon was excused.

Duncan W. Peck, when questioned about the Highway Commission in 1912, said that the Superintendent of Public Works and the State Engineer had enough to do to take care of their own offices without having also to act as members ex-officio of the Highway Commission. As in his previous testimony, he said he never had signed an order or voted for a contract that was not recommended by Supt. Reel, who was virtually at the head of the Highway Board. He said he never had read a highway contract or examined the specifications, because he had no time. He refused to tell the committee what he thought of the ability and capacity of Mr. Reel, but declared he had confidence in his honesty.

Mr. Peck said that while he was a member of the Highway Board he had prevented the State from buying a patented paving material and thereby had saved the State $1,000,000. He said that in his opinion the material was worthless. He could not remember the name of the material, nor could he tell who offered to sell it.

Commissioner Delaney said he had examined many contracts proposed by the present Highway Department and had rejected about one-third of them. He favored a single-headed Highway Commission. If there were three Commissioners, he said, the State should be divided into three districts, and each Commissioner should have charge of a district. He did not agree with James W. Osborne, who had recommended a commission composed of one member from each Judicial District.

"I don't believe in scattered responsibility or authority," Mr. Delaney said. He added that in his opinion the present highway law and the present make-up of the Highway Department were adequate for road building.

The next meeting of the Sullivan Committee will be held at the call of the Chair.

BOY ORATORS COMPETE.

Medals Awarded in Columbia's Contest for High School Students.

Morris Debrosky of De Witt Clinton High School, speaking on "The Land of the Immigrant," won the gold medal in the New York High School oratorical contest before the Barnard Literary Society of Columbia University last night in Earl Hall. Charles D. Boies of Richmond Hill High School took second place, speaking on "The Promise of America," and Samuel Gleberman of the High School of Commerce was third. He spoke on "The Philippine Question."

The contest was open only to boys in the city high schools. Gold and silver prizes for the winner and second best speaker are awarded each year by the Barnard Literary Association, one of the Columbia undergraduate debating societies. The contest was organized four years ago to provide for the city boys who are barred from the State interscholastic contest which is held at Columbia each Winter.

SEEK NEW BRONX HOSPITAL.

Persons Living There Aroused by Grand Jury's Presentment.

Aroused by the presentment by the Grand Jury of the Bronx against inadequate hospital facilities in that borough, made as a result of investigations by District Attorney Frank Martin, persons of that county took steps yesterday to hasten the construction of the new Bronx Hospital, which is to serve the Tremont neighborhood. Dr. A. Goldman, President of the hospital, which now maintains a dispensary at 1,385 Fulton Avenue, said that before the District Attorney's revelations it had been hard to arouse interest in the new hospital. Lack of proper hospital facilities in the Bronx, he said, operated to the disadvantage of the city as a whole.

Before the investigations, the Bronx Hospital appointed a committee to make a survey, which included not only general hospital conditions, but also the number of patients treated at Mt. Sinai Hospital in Harlem, and at Fordham and Lebanon Hospitals, who lived within a mile and a half of the site of the Bronx Hospital's proposed building.

This committee has reported, according to the President, Dr. A. Goldman, that within the period of six months out of a total of 8,635 cases from the Bronx fully 2,287 have resided within the Bronx Hospital district.

"When it is realized," Dr. Goldman said, "that the Tremont territory, that is to be served by the Bronx Hospital, now has a population of more than 250,000, and that the nearest hospital is incapable, owing to its overcrowded condition, of caring for its own territory, the imperative need of added facilities becomes evident.

"Lebanon, situated on Westchester Avenue and 150th Street, was for a considerable number of years the major hospital of the Bronx, but in recent years the residential population has gradually moved northward, so that now, while it is sufficient in accommodations to care for all in its immediate territory, nevertheless it is the expressed opinion that owing to its location and the fact that it is surrounded by an elevator subway, its present plant should not be increased, as its location is far from being a good one for hospital purposes and must ultimately be abandoned."

Glynn Sets Hearings for April 13.

ALBANY, April 2.—Hearings on three Senate bills will be held by Gov. Glynn on April 13. The bills permitting Christian Science healers to practice without the use of drugs, compelling osteopaths who would practice bloodless surgery to pass the State surgical examination before taking patients, and changing the practice in Surrogates' courts, will be considered.

Even though the Equitable Building is about a year from completion, it is none too early to look into its advantages.

This is particularly true with respect to larger concerns to whom a change of location is an important undertaking.

Let us talk it over with you, show you the plans, explain the facilities and service, and in general give you a great deal of information which it is easier to tell in person than in print.

THE FUTURE
WORLD MAKERS
THE CHILDREN OF TODAY

Never before in all the history of the world have parents been so filled with the hope that their children may go forward to accomplish what they themselves have been unable to do. They are asking for help in the high and difficult task of educating those who are to be the world-makers of the future for a practical, powerful and purposeful life. And help is at hand. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE has come to give the child a working knowledge of the world, to make him think for himself, to awaken the imagination, to create the desire for investigation. The 16 Great Departments of Knowledge lay the foundations of a thorough education in the daily readings and occupations of the child.

Self-Education the Best

Is it not true that whatever interests us most educates us most? THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE has struck the key note of all true education,—INTEREST. It has a magnetism for childish minds which no other work for the young has ever possessed. The child quickly and easily finds what interests him most, and lured on by the wonderful pictures and fascinating talks, unconsciously educates himself.

Knowledge Made Visible

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE shows the children in series of delightful educational pictures what is being done and how, and where, the world over. It leads them through a hundred foreign countries, telling them the history of their peoples, their customs, art and architecture in simple and winning language. It takes them down into the mine where the coal is being dug, and up into the air where the worlds are spinning in everlasting cycles, and men are learning to fly. It lures them into the woods where the birds and beasts are making their many strange and beautiful homes; it shows them the wonderful living things in the world of waters. It teaches them how bridges are built and lighthouses made, and books printed, locomotives constructed and wireless operated—all those fascinating, familiar things which every child and every adult should know all about.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE teaches the child hundreds of interesting things to make and do,—outdoor sports and indoor games, how to make a little garden month by month, and the use of simple tools. The life of the child is a wonderful blend of activities, and he must not only enjoy his work, but he must learn how to play, for that is another great secret of true education and of the influence of this highly original work.

ONE OF THE FOREMOST EDUCATORS OF THIS COUNTRY SAYS: "Suppose a boy of ten were to spend fifteen minutes a day in reading these pages . . . he would at thirteen know more about the earth and life on it than the wisest men knew a few generations ago."

The Character-Builder

Best and most important of all, THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is a character builder. No other educational work for the young has ever had such a direct influence upon the heart of the child. The appeal to what is noble, brave, and true in his nature is irresistible, and is so interwoven with the very fibre of the book that the influence is constantly felt but never urged upon the child. The company of THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is like that of a high-minded friend, stimulating, inspiring and delightful.

Gentlemen:

The receipt of a card from you suggesting that I send for a sample page and a sample copy of the "Book of Knowledge," recalls my dereliction in failing to try to express a small part of our family's appreciation of this children's encyclopedia. Perhaps the best way to indicate how it has helped and interested is to tell the following: Recently Mrs. Allen started for the south with three boys—nine, seven, and four. When discussing books which should be taken, I protested that the very minimum should go, and specified that instead of taking the whole set of the "Book of Knowledge"—as the boys had proposed—we should take only the indispensable volumes. When I returned at night I found packed away in their trunk ten volumes. It is no reflection upon the encyclopedia that I manoeuvred until the number was reduced to three.

Sincerely yours,
WM. H. ALLEN.

Dear Sirs:

On my return home this afternoon I was met by my 7-year-old son, who waved the enclosed letter which he had written entirely on his own initiative and unassisted. He shouted, "I've read it all, mother, (it being your latest ad. received to-day,) and this letter settles it," I rather think it does!

Please send the books. I will stand by my son for the full amount. He has been most eager for the books since your prospectus came three weeks ago.

DR. DAVIS PICKS SITE OF PRISON HOSPITAL

Selects Also a Place for New "Disciplinary" Quarters on Blackwell's Island.

MYSTERY ABOUT ARCHITECT

Plans Drawn by Convict, Once Partner in a Big Firm, Whose Name Is Kept Secret.

Dr. Katharine B. Davis, Commissioner of the Department of Correction, inspected sites on Blackwell's Island yesterday for the proposed new prison hospital and for the "disciplinary" quarters to replace the "dark cells" in the west and north wings of the penitentiary. There are only a few small plots available for development of the prison facilities because the larger part of the island south and north of the penitentiary is taken up by the elaborate establishment of the Charities Department and its adjuncts, the hospitals, extending across the island.

It is thought not desirable to build in front of the prison on the west side, facing Manhattan, so the only land that can be used is that on the west side and in the rear of the penitentiary. It will be necessary there to remove the stone building used as an incineration plant to make room for one of the new structures. Dr. Davis decided that the "punishment" building could be placed north of the kitchens and commissary department, and the new hospital at the south, where it will be open to the sunlight most of the day and be swept by fresh air from both sides of the island.

A surgical ward probably will be installed in the new hospital unless some arrangement can be made with the Department of Charities for taking care of such cases. The new hospital will add greatly to the efficiency of the small medical department of the prison by providing for proper handling of patients on their arrival at the penitentiary without first having to enter them with the other prisoners in the general prison department. The present hospital will be continued in use as a dispensary for the treatment of ordinary prison cases.

A long-term convict in the Blackwell's Island Penitentiary has made a complete set of plans for the proposed "disciplinary" quarters. Commissioner Davis probably will use these drawings. The same convict made the plans and supervised the building of the new store house in the rear of the prison, which Warden Hayes says is one of the best constructed buildings on the Island.

Before the convict began this work he asked the Warden to keep his identity secret, and the Warden therefore refused to permit the name or history of the architect-convict to be made public. The imprisoned man was formerly in partnership with a large building and architectural firm which constructed many big buildings in New York. He was sentenced for a year as the result of financial troubles connected with his affairs in the firm, and in addition he was fined $500. It is this fine which he is now paying at the rate of one day's imprisonment for each dollar. His fine will be completely paid in this way in June.

Max G. Heidelberg, an architect, who accompanied Dr. Davis to inspect the sites for the building, said he had examined the convict's plans and found them practicable and well designed. Except a few modifications to comply with some modern features, they could not be improved upon, he said.

The cells in the punishment quarters are to be 8 by 10 by 10, more than double the size of the regulation prison cell. Unruly prisoners when under punishment within the prison are able to annoy the other prisoners with their noise, except when the double doors of the dark cells are closed. The convict-architect has so prepared his solitary cells that a boisterous prisoner can succeed only in annoying himself until such time as he voluntarily desires to retire from the "solitary" life and promises to be good.

William Denton, chief engineer of the department's heating plant, discovered the abilities of the "prison-architect," and called him to the attention of Warden Hayes and Commissioner Davis. Since that time he has been kept busy at work in a corner of the engine room making designs for the various buildings that have been put up on the Island within the last six months.

Commissioner Davis announced that the seventy women prisoners at Blackwell's Island would be transferred to the Queens County Jail, which was being remodeled and enlarged to provide for all of the women prisoners of the boroughs. Other improvements which Dr. Davis is making in the department include the new house of detention for women, of which Griffin & Wynkoop are the architects; the Boys' Reformatory, Charles B. Meyers, architect, and changes at the Tombs under the direction of Frederick B. Ware, architect.

ONE DEAD AFTER WRECK.

Locomotives Crash Into Freight Train in Long Island City.

Harry S. Davidson, 45 years old, of Union Hall Street, Jamaica, died in St. John's Hospital, Long Island City, yesterday as a result of the injuries he received when two locomotives, hauling what is known as the ash train, crashed into the rear of a freight train on the freight cut-off of the Long Island Railroad in Long Island City Wednesday midnight.

Davidson was conductor of the freight train, which had come to a stop on the cut-off, which runs along an elevated structure over the streets. The rear end of the freight was on the steel bridge which spans Borden Avenue, and the two locomotives hauling the ash train crashed in through the wooden freight cars until the track was covered with the wreckage. Both locomotives ran on top of this wreckage, and one, in charge of Engineer Peter Jones, jumped the track and fell half way over the steel viaduct above the avenue. Both the engineers and their firemen escaped with slight injuries.

Davidson was in the caboose on the rear of the freight train. Several wrecking crews worked all yesterday to get the locomotive back on the tracks. An investigation will be made into the cause of the collision.

SUPERBAS DEFEAT YANKS IN 10 INNINGS

Cy Pieh, who is not a dessert but a Yankee pitcher, has a heart as big as a German pancake, and couldn't bear to see Robinson Day at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn go down as a day of defeat, so he imitated Santa Claus, without the aid of whiskers or white hair, and gave the ten-inning game to the new manager yesterday by a score of 4 to 3.

With the score seriously complicated at 3 to 3 and the crowd shivering, Pieh lost the game unassisted. He jammed the bases with Brooklyn runners with two out, and then lost all sense of direction and location and magnanimously thrust a base on balls on Charley Stengel, which forced Zack Wheat home with the winning run. Thus was the first game of the season handed to "Uncle Robbie" and his accomplices on a cut-glass plate. Mr. Pieh hopes that his relatives and friends will never hear what Manager Frank Chance said to him after the game, because if they do young Cy will not be mentioned in the family will.

Prompt medical aid from experienced trainers probably saved the players from catching pneumonia, but in the case of the spectators the situation is more alarming. Those who are not under the doctor's care will probably go back and see the teams play again to-day. In Labrador it would have been considered just a mild Winter's day, but in Brooklyn it was like a blizzard, minus the snow. Here and there through the grand stand and about the field jolly little bands of germs gathered, looking for victims.

The frigid blasts whistling over Flatbush didn't prevent some 3,000 persons taking their lives in their hands to see the opening. Shannon's Band played "This Is the Life" and "Hello Wintertime," to which the spectators kept time with chattering teeth. Some of the folks were bundled up like patients at an open-air sanitarium.

Of course, the new Brooklyn leader, Wilbert Robinson, got most of the attention. Robbie's trip South did him a lot of good. He is down to about 350 pounds, and it doesn't take so long to walk around him as it used to. He was presented with a large basket of flowers, and, just to show his gallantry, Robbie had the roses distributed to the women in the grand stand. Kid Elberfeld, the former Yankee, also came in for much attention, but no roses.

Postmaster Kelly of Brooklyn tossed the first ball to Umpire Emslie with just about as much speed as if it had been sent by parcel post. All the photographers who could possibly be spared took their cameras over to the game. It looked like a photographers' convention. Pictures were taken of both umpires, Emslie and O'Brien, to be used for purposes of identification in case of accident. The Brooklyn team was taken in two groups, equally divided as to bulk. Manager Robinson was in one group and all the players in another.

Both teams showed much life in the face of the holdover Winter wind, and, except for Pieh's fit of generosity, the game was as well played and just as exciting as any that will be seen this season. Highly decorative fielding was displayed by both teams, Dick Egan and Roger Peckinpaugh, the rival shortstops, contributing dashing, fast plays. The Yankees had the upper hand during the greater part of the game because the Dodgers found it difficult to smash the Yankee pitching.

It looked very much like a Yankee victory until the eighth inning, when Zacharias Wheat whaled a home-run hit over the right-field wall and tied the score. Up to that time Manager Robinson's face wore an expression which suggested that he might be suffering from a jumping toothache, but after Wheat's prolific blow he dared to smile.

The Yankees started out bravely, and, after Ed Reulbach had fanned Fritz Maisel, Hartzell got a hit. Jimmy Walsh walked and Williams bounded a hot grounder off Reulbach's glove and filled the bases. The big pitcher settled down, and the side went out without a run. In the Dodgers' first turn at bat Jack Dalton, who has been reclaimed from Newark, got a pass from McHale, went down on Daubert's out, and scored on Zach Wheat's single to left. The Yanks tied the count in the third, when, with two out, Walsh walked, and scored when Williams singled to left and Wheat allowed the ball to trickle through his feet, which were planted in the mud in the outgarden.

Ed Sweeney, who was lured away by the Feds for a while, got a loud shout of appreciation of his return to the big league when he slammed forth a two-bagger into the left-field quagmire. The Yankees were a bit livelier and more accomplished at the bat in the seventh, and went to the front. Wagner, who succeeded Reulbach in the box, passed Peckinpaugh, who then stole second when McCarthy dropped the ball. Sweeney singled to left, scoring Peckinpaugh, and Warhop, who had succeeded McHale, sacrificed Sweeney to second. Maisel got a pass and Hartzell flied out to Dalton. A stiff jolt to right by Walsh scored Sweeney. Maisel was asleep off third and was caught when Walsh attempted to steal second.

The Brooklyn crowd became deeply depressed when it saw Robinson Day becoming a day of sorrow instead of one of joy, so the fans began to implore the Dodgers to wake up and do something. With one out in the eighth, Dalton walked for the third time. Daubert almost sprained his shoulders trying to "kill" the ball, and then ballooned to Gilhooley in right. Wheat became the great figure of the day and knocked the ball into right field, where it landed on the top of the wall and bounded out of the park. That tied the count, and both teams went into the tenth inning with a change of pitchers, Pieh for the Yankees and Sir Walter Raleigh Aitchison for the Dodgers.

New York's hopes ran high in the first half of the tenth inning, when, with one out, Walsh got a pass. Williams, however, fanned, and Walsh was caught off first by McCarthy's quick throw. That was the second time during the afternoon that the Yankees were peacefully asleep.

Then came the last of the tenth, when Cy Pieh gave evidence of his large heart and philanthropic spirit. First he struck out Dalton. Daubert singled to centre, and so did Wheat. Cutshaw rolled to Peckinpaugh, and Daubert was out when he attempted to score. Smith rolled a grounder to Pieh, who made a lurid throw past first, filling the bases. Pieh was high up in the air, and Stengel just waited for him to throw the game away. Pieh had no idea as to where the plate was, and Stengel was passed, forcing Wheat home with the winning run.

Wheat was the whole shooting match for the Dodgers. He scored three of the runs and got three hits. The score:

The Calumet team defeated the Union Club nine yesterday afternoon, in the race for the Interclub Baseball League championship, by a score of 12 to 4, the game being played at the Fifth Avenue grounds. It was "Billy" Tilt, one-time 'Varsity pitcher for Columbia University, who contributed largely to the victory for the Calumet Club. Some of his college cunning still remained at his call, and, although he was pitching the indoor baseball, he was able to puzzle his opponents. It was the third victory that the Calumet Club has acquired, while the Union Club stands in second place, and the reversal in form was a decided surprise. Possibly the fact that the winners were attired in something of a costume, all the men wearing jerseys with a large black "C," gave inspiration, for the Union men were without any of the embellishments of baseball regalia. One never can tell.

Tilt said he couldn't hold the ball, and thought it a few sizes too large, but to the Union men it looked as small as a quinine pill. Harold Weeks was particularly dim of eyesight when batting. He could touch the edge of the sphere, but as for a good, clean hit, there was positively nothing doing. "Bob" Wrenn, too, suffered from a like malady, but when all is said the Union Club was out of the running from the start. The big time for the Calumets came in the fourth inning, when seven runs were scored, enough to sew up any game in a big sack. The line-up of the teams:

Calumet Club—C. W. Schultz, first base; W. R. Biglow, catcher; Grady, second base; H. Mellick, third base; Aten, shortstop, and W. Tilt, pitcher.

Union Club—Bob Wrenn, shortstop; H. F. Benjamin first base; G. Washington, third base; H. Weeks, catcher; D. Gibbons, second base, and E. Delafield, pitcher.

FEDERAL STANDS TO WIN

No Matter How Killifer Case Is Decided, Says Outlaws' Attorney.

CHICAGO, April 2.—The Federal League stands to win, no matter what the outcome of its suit to enjoin William Killifer from playing with the Philadelphia Nationals, according to E. E. Gates, the league's counsel.

If the United States Court at Grand Rapids, after the hearing on Saturday, grants the Federal League its injunction the "outlaw" organization counts on having Killifer, Blanding, Kahler, Baumgardner, and Williams forced to live up to the Federal contracts they are said to have signed.

If the court refuses to grant the injunction, thus denying the binding power of the contract Killifer signed with the Federals, Gates holds that the contracts of organized ball would be considered equally useless, so that dissatisfied players could jump from organized ball to the Federals without regard to contracts. As there are dozens of first-rate players in the American and National Leagues said to be held to their clubs only through fear that the courts would enforce their contracts, Gates figures that the Federal League would be winner in the general raid.

Gates, President Gilmore, and Charles Weeghman of the Chicago Club will go to Grand Rapids to-morrow.

Latest reports concerning the Seaton case to-day were that the pitcher probably would be returned to the Brooklyn club.

MATTY SHOWS TEXAS FANS HOW TO PITCH

Beaumont Batsmen Get Only Five Hits and One Run in Six Innings Off Him.

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 2.—The Giants made hits and runs in obese groups this afternoon, once they had the measure of the Beaumont pitching. They manhandled the home team by a score of 12 to 1, hitting riotously and stealing freely. In the first four innings they were supine at the bat, and at the end of the fourth the Oilers reveled in a one-run lead. After they had made that run Beaumont could not forage any further than second off the pitching of Mathewson and Hearne.

Brant, who pitched the first six innings, perplexed the Giants for a while. He did it with speed, but as it turned out the Giants were merely studying the situation. There was not enough variety to Brant's pitching to remain effective, and the Giants lammed it right and left in the fifth and sixth innings. There was a rich haul of seven runs off Brant, then McCollough pitted his art against the Manhattan sluggers. McCollough has one of those snappy wind-up, quick deliveries. The Giants raked fore and aft and broadside with quick chops with the bat.

The Oilers got to Matty for a run in the third. Matty in the main was at his best with men on bases, but this time two hits were bunched on him and Snodgrass booted a grounder with heartfelt sincerity. Billy Maloney, who retains the speed he had in the big league days, beat out a bunt, seeing that Mathewson wasn't fast in getting to first to cover. Snodgrass's error and a high-blown single by Dodd brought Maloney to the portal. Murray fielded Dodd's hit inaccurately, but remissness in the New York infield allowed it to go out to the stand. Burgess tried to come in on this play and was thrown out, McLean to Mathewson.

Among those who filched bases were McLean and Mathewson. The stealing was due to the big lead the Beaumont pitchers allowed the runners to take. Matty got there with the help of a violent stride, which sprawled his liberal length all over the adjacent acres, but McLean's eventful feat was because he was involved in a double steal and the play was on the other man. Still, you can't take it away from Larry. He stole a base. The splendid throwing of Edmonson, a thrower of sterling quality, collared two Giants at third base.

Merkle, Murray, McLean, and Snodgrass swung their shillelahs for hits in the fifth. The net income of these, plus two walks, was four runs. Three were added in the sixth. Singles by Merkle and Matty and doubles by Murray and Bescher were the contributing factors. In the eighth McLean was passed, Hearne made a dinky scratch hit, Bescher poled a triple to left, Doyle walked, and Merkle lifted a home run over right-field fence.

Doyle's arm was hurt in this inning. He was struck by a thrown ball and held his arm as if it pained him. Fletcher played second in the ninth. Hearne's pitching was first class. The score:

Giant Colts Defeat Paris Nine.

Special to The New York Times.

PARIS, Tex., April 2.—Donlin's young Giants continued their string of victories by defeating the Paris Club to-day, 5 to 1. Young Herring was in the box for the Colts during the entire game and showed good form, allowing only six hits and striking out six men. His control was excellent, he issuing only three passes. Catcher Johnson again starred, not allowing a steal and obtaining two doubles and a single in his four trips at bat. Prieste played a good game at second and also hit the ball for a single, double and triple. Thorpe brought the fans to their feet with a remarkable one-hand catch. The Giants play at Texarkana to-morrow. The score:

CONTRACTS IN COURT.

Arguments Heard in Injunction Proceedings at Hot Springs.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 2.—Evidence in defense of organized baseball players' contracts was introduced to-day in Chancery Court in the injunction proceedings brought against S. H. Camnitz, agent of the Pittsburgh Federal League team, by the management of the Pittsburgh Nationals. Barney Dreyfuss, President of the Pittsburgh National team, and William M. Kavanaugh, President of the Southern League, and members of the National Board of Arbitration were among the witnesses for the plaintiff. As documentary evidence contracts between the club and players Viox and McQuillan were produced. A copy of the agreement between National League clubs also was identified.

Counsel for the Federals contended that the contracts and agreement are in violation of both State and United States anti-trust laws and that therefore the charge that Camnitz was attempting to have the Pittsburgh players break their contracts are without standing.

The temporary injunction against Camnitz to prevent him from attempting to induce his former team mates to sign Federal League playing contracts was secured under the so-called Arkansas labor contract law, and organized baseball is seeking to have this injunction made permanent.

Viox and McQuillan were the only witnesses called besides Dreyfuss and Kavanaugh. Viox testified that he had an offer of $3,500, then $5,000, to sign a Federal contract. McQuillan said he was offered $5,000. Denial also was made that a "blacklist," in the common acceptance of the term, existed in organized baseball. Arguments probably will be concluded to-morrow.

N. Y. U. Defeats C. C. N. Y., 9 to 5.

New York University took an easy game from C. C. N. Y. yesterday at Berkeley Oval by the score of 9 to 5. Because of a cold wind and a rain-soaked field, the game was a slow one. Both teams showed the lack of practice. In fielding the wearers of the Violet showed up far superior to the City College men, the latter displaying a lack of the elementals of the game, especially in the second inning, when errors gave five runs to New York University. The City College men showed an inability to hold the ball when they got it. New York tried out two pitchers. "Babe" Kranichfeld twirled the first three innings and was then succeeded by Tyler, a former High School of Commerce man. Each was credited with two strike-outs and each walked four men. Score by innings:

C. C. N. Y. .... 0 2 0 3 0—5 3 4

Rubber-Cored Golf Ball Best for the Ordinary Player.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 2.—Great interest was attached to a golf match over the Sandy Lodge course to-day, in consequence of a heated discussion of the respective merits of the old solid india-rubber ball known as the "gutty" and the modern rubber-cored ball, first introduced from America. Taylor and Braid opposed Vardon and Duncan in a four-ball match over thirty-six holes.

One couple played with "gutties" and the other couple with "rubber cores" for the first eighteen holes, each side changing balls for the second eighteen holes. The result, as was expected, ended in a victory for the "rubber cores."

Vardon and Duncan, using the modern ball, were 5 up on their opponents at the end of the first round. Changing to "gutties" in the afternoon, Vardon and Duncan lost four of these five holes, gaining the victory on two rounds by 1 up. The net victory for the "rubber cores" thus was nine holes in thirty-six.

During the afternoon a driving competition was held, Braid driving a rubber-cored ball 278 yards and Duncan sending a "gutty" 240. The test clearly showed the advantage of the rubber-cored ball, certainly in distance of "run" after the ball's first bounce, and proved conclusively that it made golf easier for the ordinary player, although the difference it made to champions was not so great as might be expected. The best round with the "gutty" was Braid's 70, and the best round with a rubber core was Vardon's 67.

OLD STAKES AT AQUEDUCT.

Brooklyn Handicap and Carter Renewed by Queens County Jockey Club

Twelve important stake events will be decided this year at the Aqueduct race track, eight of which are for three-year-olds and upward and four for two-year-olds. The Brooklyn Handicap, for many years a Gravesend feature, will be transferred this year to Aqueduct instead of Belmont Park, where it was run a year ago. In addition to a subscription of $25 each and $100 additional for starters, $2,500 has been added by the Owners' Fund. The Queens County Jockey Club will also renew the Carter Handicap, which will have a guaranteed value of $2,500. The Brooklyn Derby, with $2,000 added, will be another feature of the division for the three-year-olds and upward.

In the four stakes for youngsters the Great American and Tremont lead with $2,500 each, the former at five furlongs and the latter at six. The Clover at $1,500 and the Canarsie at $1,000 complete the important events for the two-year-olds. In all, $20,000 has been added or guaranteed for the twelve races, which will insure high-class sport for the Summer meeting. Entries close May 12, and the events are as follows:

Brooklyn Handicap, $2,500 added by the Owners' Fund, one mile and a quarter.

BURNLEY IN CUP TIE FINAL.

British Soccer Championship to be Decided on April 25.

LONDON, April 2.—The replayed English Cup tie between Burnley and Sheffield United took place to-day at Everton before 40,000 people and ended in a win for Burnley by 1—0, which will play Liverpool in the final tie on April 25 at the Crystal Palace.

Preston North End caused a big surprise in the first division of the Association League by beating Aston Villa 3 to 2 on their own ground, and for the first time this season got away from last place. Newcastle United journeyed to Liverpool and lost a close game by 2—1. Watford, on their own ground, easily defeated West Ham United by the score of 6—0, which will now save them from relegation to the second division of the Southern League. Reading went to Gillingham and an even game ended in a draw 0—0.

Celtic received Third Lanark, and, winning by 3—1, once more got to the top of the Scottish League, exchanging places with Rangers, who lost to Falkerd 4—1. Other results: Hearts 2, Motherwell 0; Queens Park 3, Dumbarton 6; St. Merren 1, Partick Thistle 0.

Telegraphic Bowling Tournament.

The third annual Ocean-to-Ocean Inter-City Athletic Club telegraphic bowling tournament for the Col. Robert M. Thompson Trophy will be contested on April 25, all the returns to be received at the New York A. C. by Dr. J. Breen. Ten prominent athletic clubs from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast have entered and the start will be made simultaneously according to Eastern time. The first contest for the trophy three years ago was won by the Montreal team, which took the prize with its single victory, but a new stipulation made last year makes it necessary for a team to win the competition twice before the trophy becomes their permanent property. Last year the first leg on the new prize was won by the Illinois A. C. of Chicago. Among the clubs represented are the Seattle A. C. and Olympic A. C. of San Francisco, Denver A. C., Chicago A. C., Cleveland A. C., Montreal A. C., Providence and New York A. C. and Crescent A. C. of New York.

Cut in Fordham Baseball Squad.

The Fordham baseball squad was reduced to twenty-two players yesterday. Coach Robertson gave most of the candidates a chance in the Brooklyn college game Tuesday, and is now pointing his team for the Lafayette game to-morrow and Cornell next Tuesday. A final cut in the squad is expected next week after the Williams College game, when Manager Moynihan takes the Maroon team on its annual Easter trip. Fordham's prospects took a boost when Capt. Billy Walsh donned a uniform yesterday after two weeks' absence because of a poisoned finger. Walsh will probably pitch the Cornell game on Tuesday. The game scheduled with Columbia Wednesday and postponed because of rain, will be played the first week in May.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Statisticians to-day figured that during the fifteen years he was a professional baseball pitcher George Edward (Rube) Waddell, who died yesterday in a sanitarium at San Antonio, Texas, pitched to 13,742 batters. It was figured the batters made a total of 2,299 safe hits, an average of only .210. These hits were spread over 409 games and netted 1,124 runs, about 2.74 runs per game.

GAMES EASILY WON IN PINEHURST GOLF

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2.—Dr. C. H. Gardner of the Agawam Hunt Club, Providence, R. I., and Paul E. Gardner of Ontwentsia, Chicago, R. S. Worthington of Shawnee, Del., and W. M. Paul of the Mecklenberg Club, Charlotte, N. C., advance for to-morrow's semi-final in the fourteenth annual United North and South amateur golf championship.

To-day's play was mostly easy going and the best match was a 3 and 2 win by Paul from his clubmate, C. T. Dunham, who put Travis out of the running yesterday. Worthington was 5 and 3 in his play with C. L. Becker of Woodland and he went out in 33, gaining a lead which was too large to overcome. Paul Gardner defeated Robert Hunter of Weeburn and Dr. Gardner won from M. F. O'Connell of Alpine, both matches being 4 and 3.

In the consolations J. M. Thompson of Springhaven disposed of Walter J. Travis of Garden City by 2 and 1, but the match created little comment. Thompson was one up at the turn, two up at the sixteenth, laid his ball dead on the seventeenth, missed a putt and halved the hole for the match. He is up against Harold Weber of Toledo to-morrow. In the upper half of the bracket Harold B. Lee of Detroit plays R. W. Harvey of the Philadelphia Country Club.

QUASH TRAVIS'S GOLF PLAN.

Wanted to Take Team to England as His Guests to Lift Title.

By giving out correspondence yesterday between himself and the United States Golf Association, Walter J. Travis disclosed the fact that last Fall he contemplated an organized attempt to bring the British amateur golf championship title to America this season. It was Travis's idea to have the members of the party go abroad as his guests, and the reason for the correspondence between Travis and the United States Golf Association was the desire of Travis to obtain the sanction of the governing body in American golf.

The possibilities of Travis being able to organize such a combination of representative golfers as he contemplated is not discussed nor the probable attitude of the leading American amateurs toward the proposition gone into. Travis asserts that the United States Golf Association in awaiting the action of the Executive Committee is opposite to the similar circumstance when the Woodland Golf Club offered to defray the expenses of Francis Ouimet and the the governing body gave its prompt sanction under conditions permitting no doubt as to the disposal of the funds. Travis claims the two cases are analogous except that in one it is a club and in the other an individual.

Robert C. Watson, President of the United States Golf Association, did not care to discuss the matter last night, except to say that the association in its correspondence has explained that it did not like to approve such an undertaking. This, Watson said, was the gist of the situation without going into details. He said he would write Travis a personal letter in which he would give good and sufficient reasons.

Columbia Loses Pitcher Smith.

All hope that George Smith, Columbia's best pitcher, will be able to represent the Blue and White this year, following his recent accident, whereby he fractured his kneecap, was abandoned yesterday. Harry Fisher, graduate manager of athletics at Columbia, announced that the injury showed serious aspects, and that there was practically no chance of his pitching this season. With Smith out Columbia loses one of the best college pitchers of the year, and also its chance to make an exceptional showing among the college teams. Williams College has received permission from Columbia, Fisher further announced to use South Field for practice Friday of next week and on the first two or three days of the week following.

Brooklyn "Feds" Release Players.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 2.—Hildebrand and Watkins of the Brooklyn Federal League Club were officially notified to-day by John M. Ward that they were released because they are the property of the New London, Conn., Club, which club is in organized ball. Both players were showing in fine form with Brooklyn. They will remain in the city until Manager Bradley returns from his scouting trip. From here they will go to their homes in Ohio. Only one practice was held to-day and that was in the morning. The team looked good.

Oldfield to Drive at Indianapolis.

As a result of negotiations which have been under way since the recent Vanderbilt and Grand Prize races, Barney Oldfield, holder of the mile circular dirt track record has succeeded in landing an entry in the 500-mile race on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Oldfield will drive a Stutz, and will have as teammates Gil Anderson and Earl Cooper, Eastern and Western road race champions for 1913, respectively. This will be Oldfield's first opportunity to measure his skill with the best of the Speedway talent since 1911, the first event of its kind at Indianapolis. Oldfield was for several years an A. A. A. outlaw, but since his reinstatement nearly a year ago he has maintained a clean record.

8,000 MORE POLO SEATS.

Additional Space for Standees Also to be Provided at Meadow Brook.

In order to give the general public a better chance to see the international polo match this year, the joint committee of the Polo Association and the Meadow Brook Club which is arranging for the match decided at a meeting yesterday to build 8,000 additional seats at the Meadow Brook grounds and enlarge the space for persons without seats. The additional seats and standing room will bring the capacity of the grounds up to nearly 35,000. This step is in accord with the movement to popularize the game and is warranted by the large crowds which attended the match last year.

The joint committee consists of six members, three from the Polo Association and three from the Meadow Brook Club. Those who attended the meeting yesterday, which was held at the office of the Chairman, H. L. Herbert, 17 Battery Place, were Mr. Herbert and W. A. Hazard of the Polo Association and J. A. Rawlins and August Belmont, Jr., of the Meadow Brook Club.

At present there are no stands at the ends of the field, and a number of additional seats may be built by rounding the present stands into the form of an arena. The building work will be started as soon as the weather permits, so as to have the new stands ready in plenty of time for the match in June.

The ponies of the American team will be shipped to-day from the stables of Harry Payne Whitney at Westbury to Lakewood, where the team is to start practice on April 11. There will be about fifty-five ponies in this lot, making five carloads.

OPEN FOOTBALL FOR TIGERS

Coaching Committee Decides Style of Play—Penfield for Coach.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, April 2.—All doubt as to the style of game which the Princeton football eleven will play next season was cleared up to-day by the receipt of a letter from Knowlton L. Ames, '90, Chairman of the Graduate Football Coaching Committee at Princeton, which has practical charge of all the plans. He states that the Tigers will employ the open game, because the committee, the Captain, and the coach all favor it.

It was also made known here to-day that arrangements had been concluded finally which will permit Wilder Graves Penfield, '13, a Rhodes scholar, who was scheduled to begin his residence abroad next Fall, to return for the first half year and act as field coach at Princeton. There has been some delay due to formalities of getting permission until this time.

NEW TOD YACHT LAUNCHED.

Katoura, 165 Feet Long, Christened by Mrs. Tod at Bristol, R. I.

BRISTOL, R. I., April 2.—The Katoura, a steel schooner yacht built for Robert E. Tod, former Commodore of the New York Yacht Club, was successfully launched to-day, in the presence of friends of the owner from New York and Boston. The vessel was christened by Mrs. Tod. The Katoura is 165 feet long and built to carry an unusually large spread of canvas.

Defiance to Take Water Bow First.

BATH, Me., April 2.—The sloop Defiance, under construction for the America's Cup trials, will take the water bow first when she is launched on May 11, it was announced to-day. George M. Pynchon, managing Director of the sloop syndicate, said that this departure from the usual method of launching, was a hobby of Designer Owen, who believed that it would lessen the possibility of any accident to the rudder. After the Defiance slides down the ways three days will be required to set up her rigging. Her hollow spars of Oregon pine are on the way here, and the sails are expected soon. Like the other aspirants for the honor of meeting the Shamrock IV., the Defiance will have a centre board with an estimated drop of 8 feet.

To Get Yachts Ready for Season.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 2.—The crews of Harold S. Vanderbilt's schooner yacht Vagrant, George F. Baker, Jr.'s steam yacht Viking, and Henry Walter's steam yacht Narada arrived to-day to prepare the craft for the season. Mr. Vanderbilt's Vagrant will go into commission on May 8, and will cruise to Bermuda.

Power Boat Races Postponed.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., April 2.—Because of the disastrous water-front fire here to-day, in which the Power Boat clubhouse was destroyed, events of the Southern Speed Boat races scheduled for to-day were postponed until to-morrow. None of the valuable speed boats here for the Southern races were damaged by the flames.

Yamada Shows Good Form with Cue

Koji Yamada, the Japanese player, who is practicing at the Morningside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Lenox Avenue, for the coming 14.1 balk-line billiard tournament, displayed excellent form last night, and had little difficulty winning from E. Brown, 250 to 27, in six innings. Yamada's average was 41 4-6 points. His high runs were 130 and 98.

Empire's Show To-night.

Three ten-round bouts, bringing together six well-matched lightweights, will provide the entertainment to-night at the Empire A. C. In the main event Young Brown of the east side and Benny Leonard will be the principals. Much will depend on the showing of Brown against his opponent as to whether Jimmy Johnston, representing "Snowy" Baker, will send him to Australia for bouts in the Antipodes. Johnston is in search of good material to strengthen the American invasion of Australia and has promised the East Sider a chance providing he shows that he is deserving of it.

In the other two ten-rounders there should be no falling off in the work of the contestants if they live up to their reputations. Knockout Brown, one-time peer of lightweights excluding the champion, will exchange punches with Packey Hommey. In the curtain-raiser Johnny Wilson will try conclusions with Bert Fagin of California.

Referee Stops Two Bouts.

The referee in the New Polo Athletic Club boxing bouts was kept busy last night. In the ten-round bout between Johnny Kelly and Young Dyson, local lightweights, he disqualified both boxers for holding in the ninth round. The men repeatedly went to clinches and in spite of the warnings from the referee held on. The bout was even up to the time it was stopped. George Jordan of New York and Tommy Murphy of Jersey City, welterweights, put up an unsatisfactory contest for eight rounds. Jordan outclassed his opponent and at the end of the eighth round the referee decided Murphy had taken enough punishment and stopped the contest.

Bombardier Wells Knocks Out Lurie

LONDON, April 2.—Bombardier Wells, the English pugilist, to-night knocked out Albert Lurie, a practically unknown French heavyweight, in the seventh round.

Big Billiard Run by Otis.

In a spectacular game of three-cushion carrom billiards George Moore of New York at the Orpheum Billiard Academy in Brooklyn last night defeated Charles Otis of Brooklyn by the score of 50 to 48. It was a closely contested game throughout, and the lead frequently alternated. About the middle of the contest, and at a disadvantage of six points, Otis made a remarkable run of ten carroms and obtained the lead. Moore, however, by steady and accurate playing, soon passed his opponent, and from this stage until the final point had been scored both players took turns at leading. Moore executed many difficult shots with apparent ease, and made a high run of six points. Both players made several runs of four points also. This evening John Dankelman will play for New York against Dave Lauderbach of Brooklyn.

Yankee Recruits Turned Loose.

After the game in Brooklyn yesterday, Manager Frank Chance of the Yankees made the first big cut in his squad of players. Owen Quinn was released to New London and James Eschen to Jersey City. John Sullivan, Frank Ruddy, Merrall White, and J. Hutchinson, all recruits who have been at the Yankees' training camp at Houston, were unconditionally released.

TRAFFIC COMMITTEE TO STUDY 34TH ST.

Will Examine Problem of Fourth Ave. Widening — Cycle Car Tour Planned for May.

To look into the question of street widening and, especially, to study the question of the widening and improvement of Fourth Avenue at Thirty-fourth Street, a sub-committee of the Citizens' Street Traffic Committee of Greater New York has just been appointed. The Thirty-fourth Street improvement has interested motorists and traffic men for some time, as it is felt that by making a through street of practicable width at the junction of Fourth and Park Avenues, Fifth Avenue can be relieved of some of its present congestion and a new artery provided for north and south automobile travel. The sub-committee in question is composed of Samuel W. Taylor, Chairman; W. R. Addicks, Prof. Collins P. Bliss of New York University, J. Adamson, and J. Bernstein.

⁂

It was learned last night that Claude Johnson, the General Managing Director of the Roll-Royce Company, Limited, has set on foot the establishment in New York of a repair shop exclusively for cars of that British make, a number of which are now owned in this city and vicinity. The shop will be manned by mechanics who have been trained at the factory in Derby, England, and it will be furnished with a very complete stock of parts. Another repair shop with a smaller stock of parts is about to be established also at Toronto. A service system is to be established as well. Inspectors from Derby are traveling at present through the United States and Canada. The head of the new organization is James Royce of Toronto.

⁂

A demonstration is being arranged by the cycle car clubs of the Middle West to take place at the time of the 500-mile race at Indianapolis. The Detroit Cyclecar Club, of which F. Ed. Spooner is President, will call its first official run to Indianapolis, going south by way of South Bend, where it will be joined by the Chicago Cyclecar Club, Charles P. Root, President. The Hoosier Motor Club of Indianapolis, headed by Frederick P. Mertz, will tour out to meet the Detroit-Chicago delegation and escort it to the city, where the cycle, light and small cars will be seen in a parade. It is believed that at least fifty, and perhaps one hundred, cars will take part in the event.

⁂

George Franklin, special representative of one of the motor companies of Detroit, is said to hold the unique distinction of having attended every automobile show of importance held in America in the last seven years. During each exhibition season, which is of about three months' duration, he "makes" from twelve to fifteen shows.

⁂

Truck shows, by the way, seem to have fallen upon evil days, for word comes from Boston that, as was the case with New York last year, the exhibition recently closed will probably be the last held there for commercial vehicles. The arguments against truck shows are that they do not pay as a business proposition and that they are unnecessary to stimulate the already aroused interest in motor trucks.

Easy Soccer Victory for Harvard.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 2.—Harvard's soccer team, playing its first match game of the intercollegiate championship series against Cornell this afternoon, won, 7 goals to 1, and generally outplayed the Ithacans. The match was played on a very muddy field and therefore was not a very scientific exhibition. The play in the first half was very close, Harvard leading only 2 to 1 at the end of the first forty-five minutes of play. The line-up and summary:

Harvard.	Position.	Cornell.
Nichols	Goal	Creifelds
Storer	Right full back	Thomas
Francke	Centre half back	Ufland
Grant	Right half back	Gordon
Weld	Left outside	Newbold
Smart	Right outside	Marks
Baker	Centre	Lynch
Jennings	Right inside	Russell

Goals—Baker, 4; Jennings, 2; Carnochan, 1; Lynch, 1. Substitutes—Rickertson for Smart, Ebrick for Newbold. Referee—Mr. Williams. Time—Periods of forty-five minutes.

Columbia and Cornell in Soccer.

Columbia opens its home season in soccer this afternoon in a game against the Cornell eleven on South Field. The Blue and White team has been defeated by both Haverford and Yale, while Cornell has been beaten by Haverford and Harvard. A close battle is expected.

Lehigh Ties Cornell at Lacrosse.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Penn., April 2.—With neither side able to score in the first period, Cornell and Lehigh battled to a 1 to 1 tie in a spectacular lacrosse game to-day. The field was soggy. Cornell had the best of the first half, but Lehigh came back strong in the second. The locals scored first, Mayor to White to Buck. Randolph scored on Robbin's pretty pass soon afterward.

Clarke House Pool Players Win.

The intersettlement pool tournament, which has been going on among six teams representing the various settlements, was decided last night at Doyle's Billiard Academy when the Clarke House cueists won first place by defeating the Hudson Guild players in the play-off of a tie. In the final games Millenbach, Clarke House, defeated Coen, Hudson Guild, 50 to 46, and Appelroth, Clarke House, defeated Smith, Hudson Guild, 50 to 35. Patterson of Hudson Guild won the prize for the high run of the tournament. The best run was 18.

CAPTAINS FOR SHORT RACE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 2.—College crew captains are divided on the question of a three or a four-mile annual rowing race, but they are practically unanimous in desiring the abolition of the four-oared two-mile race and the substitution of a two-mile event between junior eight-oared crews.

Harvard, alone of the universities, failed to respond to the invitation of The Yale Daily News to state its views. Yale, Pennsylvania and Syracuse, urge the retention of the four-mile event. Princeton, Annapolis, Columbia, Cornell, Wisconsin and Leland Stanford request that the distance be changed to three miles in the annual event. Views of the captains follow:

Captain Denegre, Yale: "I prefer the four-mile race because it is a better test of superiority."

Captain Briggs, Princeton: "The substitution of the three-mile race would go far toward opening the field of college rowing to more colleges."

Captain Ingram, Annapolis: "Three-mile races should have the preference because suitable four-mile courses are less often found. The time spent in training for a four-mile race is more than the ordinary college man can spare."

Captain Hadsell, Columbia: "College men cannot devote enough of their time and energy to training for a four-mile race. Furthermore, I think that the shorter race is all that is necessary to prove which is the better crew."

Captain Watrous, Pennsylvania: "It would be just as hard to row a three-mile race as a four and there is the danger that the race will be reduced to two miles if we begin cutting."

Captain Rich, Syracuse: "There is more interest in a four-mile race, although it is not necessary to row this distance to decide which crew is better. I think that men will train more conscientiously for a four-mile race."

Manager Greenwood, Cornell: "Cornell is in favor of a three-mile race since less time is necessary in preparing for it, and therefore, a correspondingly increased amount of work can be applied to university work."

Captain Wittich, Wisconsin: "It seems to me that the first three miles have constituted the races and that the last mile, although the most spectacular, is merely an exhibition of brute strength and the dying kicks of the totally exhausted oarsmen. It is the training for that last mile that has sent many an oarsman countless paces nearer the grave."

Trenton to Pay Tribute to Pullen.

Trenton's tribute to Edwin Pullen, driver of the winning car in the Grand Prize race at Santa Monica will take the form of a civic reception to-morrow in which a parade of several hundred cars will be an important feature. Mayor Donnelly and various city, county, and State officials will review the parade. The presentation of the Gold Cup of the Automobile Club of America will follow the parade, and Mayor Donnelly will present Pullen and Andrew Vollman, Jr., his mechanician, with gold watches suitably engraved. Pullen will also receive his share of the special cash prizes offered by accessory manufacturers. Following the city celebration will be a smoker arranged by the Mercer Automobile Company, manufacturers of the winning car.

THE MAYOR AND THE POLICE.

Mayor Mitchel will have to get an extremely good man for Police Commissioner to justify or even to excuse the change that is made inevitable by the resignation of Commissioner McKay. We think it is not too much to say that he will have to get a better man than any that have been, by his own friends, mentioned as likely to be appointed.

It is not necessary to accuse the Mayor of ill-faith in his treatment of Mr. McKay. We may assume that the selection of this gentleman was made as the best practicable at the time, and that he was informed that the Mayor intended it to be temporary. But the fact remains that the understanding to that effect could not be confined to the persons immediately concerned and that the knowledge of it by the police was inevitably a source of embarrassment and difficulty to the Commissioner. Mr. McKay has performed the duties of his office with marked fidelity, sound judgment, energy, and efficiency. He has, in other words, shown the essential qualities which should be sought in any one selected for the head of the police force. The one thing lacking has been the clearly defined authority and the prestige that would come from the assurance of the greatest practicable continuity in the office. If this assurance had been given, as, obviously, it was in the power of the Mayor to give it, there is every reason to think that the administration of Mr. McKay for the remainder of the Mayor's term would have been highly satisfactory. The feeling with the police that the Commissioners will not last for more than one term of a Mayor is acknowledged to have been in the past a source of much difficulty. The feeling that the Commissioner is to drop out in a few months is, naturally, still worse. That is what Mr. McKay has had to contend with.

There is no denying that the management of this important matter by the Mayor has not been very encouraging. His desire to get a man like Col. Goethals was a sound desire. His eagerness to believe that he had secured the Colonel conditionally when the evidence that he had done so was so far from convincing, and his still greater eagerness to secure radical and needless changes in the law on the actually indifferent chance of getting him, showed a certain waywardness and levity of temperament that made a decidedly unpleasant impression on the public mind. When the vanity of his somewhat fanciful hopes and designs was demonstrated, his decision to let Mr. McKay go does not remove this impression. His next step is awaited with deep interest and some anxiety. We repeat that he will have to get a very good man to win back the confidence that has been lost, and a better man than any one of those from whom his friends appear to think that he will make his choice.

A LAND TAX FOR MEXICO.

While the hot contest of arms has been going on in the neighborhood of Torreon, 600 miles north of the Mexican capital, Gen. Huerta has been carrying on the business of governing Mexico in the manner of a ruler who has no intention of abdicating and no idea that he will be forced out of office. So much of the Provisional President's message to Congress as has been transmitted by telegraph is marked by sobriety of judgment, and the proposal to institute immediately an equitable tax on all uncultivated lands will undoubtedly serve to satisfy his supporters that he is still master of the situation. The chief trouble in Mexico is agrarian. Millions of acres of land which might be made arable are held by hacendados who do nothing whatever to cultivate them and pay little or nothing for the support of the Federal Government. A just tax on lands would inevitably compel these hereditary lords of the soil to part with much of their holdings. Madero proposed a land tax, but never instituted one, probably because the members of the prolific family of Maderos preferred to hold their untaxed lands. Diaz, just before his abdication, made plans for the purchase of lands by the State for distribution among the agricultural laborers on easy terms. Obviously, the institution of a tax on uncultivated lands must precede any such wholesale purchase of land by the Government.

Until a serious experiment of this sort has been tried, it is folly to keep on saying that the Mexican people are not fit for self-government. In spite of the Constitution of 1857, and the efforts of many liberators, the masses have been living under a modified feudal system, shut off from the right to own farms and work them for their own profit. Peonage has been the result and peonage has been the cause of the national discouragement. Huerta has gone to the root of the matter. A land tax is the first essential step toward peace and good feeling in Mexico. Artesian wells driven on any of the now arid northern lands will serve to make them fertile, and the agricultural possibilities of Mexico are not to be questioned.

There is no immediate promise, however, of putting Huerta's plan into effect.

THE CITY'S BOND SALE.

Taxpayers will hear with relief that the forthcoming $65,000,000 of New York City bonds will be issued on the old-fashioned method of a long-term security with a sinking fund, instead of a short-term bond with serial redemption. Ten-year bonds, with additions to the budget sufficient to pay them in equal annual installments, would be a sad burden for realty, already overtaxed merely to pay interest. It is true that the calculations show an economy of interest by the serial-payment plan. It needs no argument to show that ten years' interest is less than fifty years' interest. But there is no reason why this generation should pay both principal and interest of permanent improvements in order that posterity, which does nothing for its ancestors, may get for nothing what it troubles the city to pay for now. But while the long-term bonds are necessary, and are as welcome as any bonds can be, there may be some regret that the method proposed for the short-term issue could not be applied to the long-term bonds. To amortize the bonds over a fifty-year term would add hardly appreciably to the interest service in the budget, and the serial method has the advantages claimed for it in connection with the short-term proposal now laid on the shelf.

The reason for shelving it is the improved prospects for the city getting its accommodation upon improving terms. In each year since 1909 the city has sold its bonds at steadily falling yields to the city—that is, on terms constantly more favorable to the buyers. Now there is a turn in the market favorable to the city. The interest rate is to be 4¼, and the buyers are to fix the price above par. The conditions favor other cities as well as New York, and the extent to which advantage is taken of the opportunity is cautionary as well as unsuspected. In March of this year the municipal issues are $35,865,111, against $16,269,972 last year. For the first quarter this year the total of $140,955,578 is unprecedented, the nearest approach being $134,692,671 in 1911. This huge city borrowing comes at a time when the railways are denied accommodation, and all private borrowers have to pay competitively with the cities for what they can get. There is no money for private mortgage funds except above city rates, and when such borrowers have to pay those prices activities customarily sustained at lower charges for credit are checked or suspended. In this manner it happens that corporate financing for the year's first quarter has dropped from $701,500,000 last year to $431,000,000 this year, the railways' loss being the largest single fall. In March the railways sold no stock and nearly $80,000,000 less bonds than in 1913. Such money as they got was on short terms, such as the city declines. There is only so much money available for anybody, and the same dollar cannot be lent twice. If the cities get so much, private borrowers get only the leavings.

These facts lie at the root of the economic situation. It is only exceptionally that city borrowings go into reproductive enterprises, like our subways. Generally speaking, city borrowings are spent for streets, prisons, schools, or at best for necessities like waterworks. Such expenditures make no fresh money, and provide no jobs for workers after they are completed. The interest does not come out of profits, or rather ahead of profits, but goes into tax budgets, which burden property and dishearten constructive enterprise. When times were what all wish them to be again the railways were borrowing on terms nearly like the cities, now. The cities either were not borrowing or were paying 3 per cent., or a trifle more. If the wage-earners are to get their jobs back, the constitution of peace must be carried to the point that capital can feel confidence in the future and that enterprise can revive. No law that is pending promises this, and some laws are pending that threaten it.

REGULATION GONE MAD.

As nearly as can be gathered from the Washington dispatches, Mr. La Follette intends to imprison the Interstate Commerce Commission, so far as concerns railroad rates, within the chamber where they give public hearings, and punish any one who communicates with them elsewhere by letter or in person, or who even ventures to address them an open letter in the papers, by a fine of $2,500 for each "offense." The motive of this savage outbreak of regulating and repressive passion on the part of the Senator seems to be that the Commission is in danger of learning more than he thinks proper as to the needs of the railways.

It seems that the Commissioners were rash enough to visit the White House and to talk with the President. And though Mr. Wilson is acquitted of the dark crime of expressing any opinion on rates, the report has gained currency that he would not be entirely surprised if the railways had some justice on their side, nor displeased if justice were done to them. He may have conveyed that impression to the Commissioners, possibly by telling them one of his large and select assortment of pertinent stories, or, if not so directly as that, then by according a subtle smile instead of a sour frown to the mention of the railways. In either case it is doubtful if he would not come within the terrors of Mr. La Follette's punitive measure. It is true that this is an extreme case, but it is logically stated, and the Senator never shrinks from logic after he has got his premises to suit him.

A NEW SOCIAL CENTRE.

Well within a century fashionable society of Manhattan Island found its centre northeast of the City Park, where the historic City Hall stands, along East Broadway, Madison and Monroe Streets. The famous Bowery Theatre was built to meet its requirements. Frequent removals of the centre since have never carried fashion very far west. There used to be some sort of distinction, of course, in an address in the northern part of Greenwich Village or in Chelsea, but for the most part society has chosen to keep pretty close to the line of Fifth Avenue. Nobody has ever dared to call the west side of Central Park fashionable, no matter how many millions may have been expended on living there.

But business has been driving homes off Fifth Avenue until Millionaires' Row is now along the east side of Central Park, and there has been much speculation as to where the jumping off place might be found. It has seemed that society was traveling northward with no definable north to travel to, for Harlem has always been thought "out of the question." The report, therefore, that a social leader, whose leadership is unquestioned, will build a mansion on Cathedral Parkway, vulgarly called 110th Street, at the corner of Lenox, which is really Sixth, Avenue is therefore of extraordinary interest. One such mansion soon becomes the centre of a social colony. Let the news be spread. Society has taken Harlem. Beyond lie many new and pleasant fields to be conquered and transformed socially. Once the supposedly impassable barrier has been passed there will no longer be any doubt as to the direction social growth will take, and that will be comforting to all of us, including, of course, real estate dealers, grocers, and other tradesmen.

A PEAK IN WAR PENSIONS.

For the second time since the end of the civil war, and for the first time since 1875, this year records a slight receding of the huge wave of expenditures for war pensions. President Garfield predicted in the late 70's that by the dawn of the twentieth century the amount spent in pensions would be little or nothing, because the pensioners would be dead. Yet in 1910 the budget of $160,000,000 was almost precisely ten times that called for in 1866, which, supposedly, covered all cases of wounds and disability at the close of the civil war. Fifty years later the volume of pension expenditures was still rising. This year the falling off of $21,150,000 in the bill reported on April 1 embodying an appropriation of $169,150,000, is due to the deaths of 57,459 veterans.

Has the wave merely retired into the sea to gather strength? With the dispatch to The Times recording the cutting of the Pension bill came the announcement that the House has passed the "entering wedge" bill of the Spanish war veterans, which may begin a new series of pension extravagances. We shall have next a dollar-a-day pension for the heroes of the Spanish war. The present bill pensions widows and children of the Spanish war veterans, regardless of whether their widowhood or dependence is due to the service to his country of the husband or father. Existing law covers the cases of dependence on account of disabilities incurred during service.

President Wilson, whose attitude toward the "entering wedge" bill and all pension legislation is yet to be determined, will note that this bill computes the length of service "from "date of enlistment to date of dis-"charge, including all furloughs." The bill applies, therefore, not only to widows of men who actually served ninety days or more, but to men who on account of absence on furloughs never saw field service, never smelled gunpowder, never incurred any disability whatever.

This is in accordance with the policy of Congress in dealing with veteran soldiers and sailors and their dependents. How otherwise than by padding the pension lists and by fraudulent devices of every kind could the people of the United States now be paying out in pensions annually, to men and women presumed to have suffered by a war finished fifty years ago, a sum ten times as great as that paid out in the year following that war? To pensioners of the civil war alone nearly four billions have been paid, forty times as much as has been paid to pensioners of all previous wars in American history. Besides the deserving veterans whose pensions nobody grudges, drunkards, "bounty jumpers," deserters, malingerers, "dead beats" have had their claims entered, and, by "amending" or "correcting" the records against them, they have been made eligible to pensions in bills introduced by the score on every private bill legislative day. At the close of the civil war 117,247 deserters were at large, a great proportion of whom have thus been converted into "heroes" and "worthy soldiers," and their wives, widows, and descendants are to-day receiving the "liberal pensions" demanded for them.

Woodrow Wilson is acquainted with this history of pension frauds. Will he take the stand that Grover Cleveland took against them?

THE EARLY TROUT SEASON.

In signing the Jones bill, which opens the season for brook trout tomorrow, the first Saturday in April, instead of April 15, Gov. Glynn has struck a blow at flyfishing, one of the cleanest outdoor sports. More than that, he has struck at the whole principle of protecting the State's game, and for the sake of benefiting a few private individuals he would deplete resources created by the spending of large sums of the State's money.

The trout streams were not many years ago so "fished out" that it was hardly worth while to go after trout. Many thousands of dollars were spent in restocking the streams, and the season was shortened to open on May 1. The season has since been improvidently lengthened by the law setting April 15 for its opening, and now, despite protests from disinterested persons familiar with the conditions, it is further lengthened.

The only interests benefited are those of hotel and boarding-house owners in the fishing districts. These people are to reap benefits from the State at the expense of the general public and of all true sportsmen.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Loneliness Was Self-Imposed.

As a description unquestionably accurate of sufferings unquestionably real, the letter printed on this page yesterday, in which "B. E." told of her experiences in New York, should have won sincere sympathy for the writer, even from those who saw most clearly that her loneliness was largely self-imposed.

To say that had she chosen to adjust her notions of the proprieties to the circumstances in which she found herself she could easily have found friends and acquaintances would be to tell the truth, of course. To condemn her, however, for her obstinate refusal to make any change in her habits, acquired where or when conditions were entirely different—to find cause for blame in her evident scorn of ways as innocent as her own, but different—that would be to ignore the fundamental quality of "temperament" and the impossibility of changing it by taking thought.

The harmless pleasures and safe associations that numberless women situated as was "B. E." ask of New York and more or less promptly get were not here for her simply because a certain mental rigidity prevented her from having either desire or ability to violate the artificial laws of conduct which heredity and training had created for her. She had fixed ideas as to what it was and was not "nice" for women to do. They could not be alone on the street after nightfall, for instance, and as for a supper to which guests contributed a part of the eatables, that struck her as depraved, disgraceful, and intolerable. These are indeed illusions, but they are pathetic rather than ridiculous.

Somewhat mysterious is the fact that "B. E." did not seek escape from the torture of her loneliness by offering to assist in any one of the hundred phases of what is called "social work." She was seemingly competent to render such services, and her aid would have been gladly accepted wherever offered, but if she made any efforts to do something for others she does not mention it.

And what was it that she expected, or thinks she expected, from the people whose seeming indifference to her existence so pained her? Any advances from these strangers she probably would have resented as violating by their irregularity and informality her iron code of conduct, and of this something in her manner probably gave effective warning to all who saw her.

Lessons in Manners Are Needed.

That a man as distinguished as Gen. Gorgas should have been rudely and roughly addressed at the moment of landing by a wharf employé is in itself rather humiliating to the rest of us, but the fact that he did not escape a too common experience is in a way not to be regretted. The incivility displayed by the surly porter was not the worse because its object is a big man with an international reputation, but because of that fact the episode attracted attention and found its way into print, and presumably it would have passed unnoticed by anybody except the victim had the latter been somebody of less or no interest to the world at large.

As it is, the steamship companies almost certainly will take promptly in hand their servitors of this rank, and either teach them some much-needed manners or replace them by others who can profit by such instruction.

The reform should begin, or be most vigorously conducted, on the Jersey side of the Hudson. The wharf underlings on the hither bank are none too courteous to the patrons of their lines, but observation reveals a certain moderation of tone in the reproofs and orders they find it necessary or convenient to give us, and their impatience with our stupidity and ignorance is usually veiled, though sometimes thinly. Across the river appreciably less allowance is made for the landsman's unfamiliarity with nautical customs and for the confusion of mind into which he is apt to be thrown by the excitements of arrival.

This difference is not easy to explain, for, of course, all the steamship companies have a like desire and determination to win public favor by courteous treatment. Hoboken would resent the assumption that it supplies a cruder sort of humanity for doing work of this kind than does Manhattan, so that assumption shall not be made, but the difference does exist, according to competent judges. And it shouldn't. Gen. Gorgas could afford to smile, and did, at the gruffness of the orders he received as to the transportation of his baggage away from the pier. He could also coolly ignore them. Not all are so fortunate.

A Feminist Revision of History.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman was perhaps, or possibly, somewhat more severe than necessity compelled or facts warranted in her latest arraignment of men and males in general, but it cannot fairly, and therefore not safely, be denied that there was some force in her contention for a reversal of the judgment long ago pronounced against Helen, always, though rather inaccurately, called "of Troy."

Homer and innumerable other poets and commentators have blamed that too fair lady for the woes that befell Priam's tall town, and through all the centuries that have passed since the most famous, if not the first, of Big Fires, Helen has been the favorite exemplar of woman's inveterate tendency to disturb the peace of men and make trouble of the most serious kind for them. This treatment of the Grecian charmer Mrs. Gilman resented and reproved.

Troy fell, she said, not because Helen was beautiful, or because she wanted to stir up evil passions and strife, but because the men of her time were a poor lot, with no control over their emotions and so little regardful of municipal and national interests as to sacrifice both when "tempted" beyond their puny powers of resistance. Paris ruined Troy, not Helen, according to Mrs. Gilman, who scorns the common assumption that the Trojans were wife-stealers under a wicked compulsion no man can be expected to resist.

And as a matter of fact, Helen does seem to have played a rather passive, and therefore rather innocent, part in that old scandal. She couldn't have well helped being a beauty, nor was her pulchritude a crime. Had the men around her been different and better, her good looks would have done no harm at all!

CIVIL SERVICE DISCIPLINE

Saved by Defeat of Bill Establishing Court Review.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The defeat in the closing days of the Legislature of the Walker bill granting to all competitive employes in the State, city, county and village services not only a trial on removal but the right to review their dismissal in the courts through a writ of certiorari is a matter of such importance as to deserve some special attention. That the enactment of the bill would have disrupted discipline in the public service and ultimately would have brought the civil service law itself into disrepute is, in the opinion of impartial public officers, not open to question.

The bill lacked four votes of passage in the Assembly, and its defeat was due in part to the firm stand taken by twelve Assemblymen from Manhattan and the Bronx, who, in the face of tremendous pressure from the organized civil service employes, were willing to stand up and be counted against the bill. The names of these Assemblymen should be remembered by your readers as legislators who voted in the public interest. They are, with their districts, as follows: Sulzer, Sixth; Sufrin, Eighth; Bleecker, Tenth; Ellenbogen, Fifteenth; Eisner, Seventeenth; Murray, Nineteenth; Nelson, Twenty-first; Crane, Twenty-third; Stoddard, Twenty-fifth; Meyer, Twenty-seventh; Schaap, Thirty-first, and Patten, Thirty-fifth, Bronx.

"Domestic Scientists."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems to me that the schools where "domestic science" is taught should furnish "domestic scientists" who could take places either as "general practitioners" in small apartments or as "specialists" in houses where the home was more luxurious, requiring several workers. These graduates should command good salaries and enter upon their work with the same definite conception of hours and duties in detail that trained nurses have. Perhaps this is being done. If so, the public should know it.

Many business women would keep house under such conditions, where now they must be content to board. As such a position would be more permanent than a nurse's, probably many a "domestic scientist" would prefer to make her home in the family where she is engaged. Otherwise the eight-hour day, with stated hours for recreation, ought to be satisfactory. Let us by all means dignify our home laboratories and scientists; as the importance of such work demands the best skill and labor.

MAYOR GILL'S CASE.

George Creel Defends Suffrage Vote in Seattle.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Miss Alice Hill Chittenden, commenting in your columns adversely upon my article about the voting woman in the March Century, seeks to make a case against equal suffrage by citing the fact that Hiram Gill, recalled by the women of Seattle in 1911, has been re-elected Mayor in 1914.

Her emphasis upon the Gill case serves two purposes very admirably. Not only does it prove that the "antis" prefer hair-trigger attack to careful investigation, but it stands as a refutation of the charge that the voting woman will show utter unreason in all matters connected with morals.

Gill was recalled in 1911 because he stood for a "wide-open town." He entered the field again in 1914 with the declaration that his former attitude had been no more than the reflection of the community's belief in the theory of necessary evil, and that study and observation had changed him into the uncompromising foe of commercialized vice. He went before the people as a repentant, eager for a chance to reflect the new and finer public sentiment so that the stain of disgrace might be taken from his name.

His opponent, Trenholme, took no position on the vice question at all, and, in addition to this, it soon became apparent that he was running as the candidate of the Employers' Association, the public utility corporations, and the brewing interests. An investigation into campaign funds, conducted by the women, revealed the fact that Gill's entire resources were $700 of his own money, while Trenholme's purse contained thousands contributed by employers, franchise grabbers, and brewers.

Because of these things, then, the decent, privilege-fighting men and women of the community put themselves behind Gill and elected him. One of his first acts was to appoint as his Chief of Police a man named Griffiths, who had been the Mayoralty candidate of the Ministerial Alliance, and his next announcement of policy was to the effect that the police force should not be used by the employers as a club in labor disputes.

To those who believe that one mistake merits eternal damnation in this world and the next, Gill's re-election will appeal as vicious, but to those who have not entirely lost the meaning of Christianity it will come as something very fine and inspiring.

THE ALTMAN PICTURES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Allow me to express my admiration for your beautiful reproductions from the Altman collection. It is a modern miracle that such wonderful work can be reproduced so closely and circulated so broadly. Art can only profit by such support.

CHARLES DANIEL.
New York, April 1, 1914.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It gives me great pleasure to state that the reproduction of the Altman collection in The New York Times last Sunday has never been equaled, in my opinion, in any newspaper in this or any other country.

Such reproductions serve to increase interest in matters artistic not only among those well versed in the arts but those whose opportunities for cultivation are not so great.

JOSEPH DABISSI.
New York, April 2, 1914.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For those who, like me, knew already part or the whole of the Altman collection, (as indirectly we have framed most of it,) the fine reproductions of your last Sunday Supplement brought back such memories as one always keeps of unique manifestations of the highest art of bygone centuries, and for those not fortunate enough to have admired yet these paintings it certainly was a welcome "foretaste" of the artistic thrill they will experience when they are able to do so at the Metropolitan Museum. I wish to congratulate you on this number of yours, and eagerly await that of Sunday next with the reproductions of the remaining masterpieces of the collection.

New York, April 2, 1914.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to congratulate you on your supplement of last Sunday containing reproductions of the paintings in the Altman collection. I had enjoyed the privilege of seeing the originals of these paintings in Mr. Altman's residence, and was surprised and delighted at the marvelous manner in which they were reproduced.

UNWRITTEN FEUD LAW.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

To one who has lived for some years among the people of the Southern Appalachian Mountain system the chances of trouble from such an advertisement as that reprinted by you from The Kanawha (West Va.) Citizen seem very slight. The truth is that in these feud countries, where family honor is backed up by a most potent sense of community honor, and where public opinion is enforced by a most potent use of tar and feathers or guns, we find crimes such as stealing, breach of trust, and the molesting of women almost non-existent. Almost any young man would be entirely equal among these people to the trust placed in him, even if he were not quiet and did drink, and almost any mountain community would be quite equal to protecting the young couple against a breach of the trust by the force of its unwritten laws merely. The execution of these laws would be swift and sure.

In seven years of residence among these people I never even heard of a case of a betrayed girl. I do know of one instance of a woman of loose morals. Her lot was not encouraging to those of similar ambitions. She attempted to entice away a husband and father from his family. The wronged wife warned her and then promptly shot her when she persisted. The crime was committed in the presence of many witnesses at a Berea College commencement, and the woman was shot directly in the back. Yet the verdict brought in by the trial jury was that she "killed in self-defense, the defense of her family honor." There was general satisfaction with the verdict, and no word of criticism to my knowledge.

Not All Man's Fault.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I say that it seems to me that most of Mrs. Gilman's arguments are more emphatic than logical, and more convincing than true. It is, in the first place, all very well to lay at man's door the responsibility for the world's greatest evils, because he has been compelled to take, in the operation of those evils, the most prominent and executive part. Where, however, woman has assumed the initiative, as in the case of Joan of Arc, she has not been by any means free of blame, for it must be remembered that that wonderful and most lovely of characters, inspired by the most unselfish and most heroic of motives, cut as good a figure at the head of the armies of France as did Alexander or Napoleon in their time, and for a better cause. This is admitted, and more, for when woman has placed on her breast the fell aegis, it has been for a more glorious cause than mere gain, personal achievement, or innate love of destruction. When there has been a really unworthy cause to uphold, woman has always "let George do it."

"George" has, I am afraid, been "cat's-pawed" to the limit. It is perfectly useless to pretend that men have fought, struggled, and labored for themselves, while women have stayed at home, wishing they wouldn't, praying before the shrines for peace, and using every atom of their influence to bring about a holy calm.

ART NOTES.

M. Paul Philippe's Sculpture on View—Pictures by Western Painters

At the Gorham Galleries M. Paul Philippe is showing examples of his sculpture, a few of them portraits and figures on a large scale, but the greater number are "bijoux," dainty bits of modeling in bronze, marble or ivory, many of them enhanced with color and conceived and executed in a playful temper. In spite of the general effect of prettiness and triviality there is excellent modeling in the figures and the flesh has the elasticity of life. The surfaces, exquisite in finish, are not inappropriate to the size and significance of the gay little figurines, and the actual quality of the material is brought out through the modeling, so that it becomes in itself a source of pleasure. "La Diseuse" in marble and ivory offers the artist a peculiar opportunity to make use of the special character of the former, the markings of the gray marble having the drollest resemblance to a certain old-fashioned figure much in vogue for dress silks in the early part of the century.

One cannot find fault with the deft, expressive treatment which thus catches at all extraneous aids to effectiveness; it is only when the atrocity of real glass in a mirror is encountered that the mind of an art lover fills with noble rage. For all the other pretty devices, the colored draperies and flowers, the pink flush on ivory lips, the straying curls and loose ribbons, why not? Great art suggests without imitating, but this is not great art; it is pretty artistry, and as such has its place, particularly as all the graceful dancers and sleepy young women stretching their smooth limbs with lazy ease do convey the sense of movement and latent energy and a well-understood anatomy. Nothing so much like the eighteenth century artfulness has been seen in modern work for many a long day.

At the National Arts Club are pictures by a group of Western painters. There are portraits by Louis Betts which have the look of likenesses, but betray no special interest in the character of the medium used. Lawton Parker contributes a number of nudes and figures of women in light draperies, charmingly drawn as to line but not very thoughtfully composed in light and shadow. The one called "Sylvia," in which a beautiful half-tone is tortured by spots of light of ugly shape and quite distorting the natural forms of the throat and chest, is a case in point. The "Day Dreams," two girls out of doors on a sunny day, the warm light sifting through the shadows, is perhaps the most attractive of the works by this artist. Frederic Clay Bartlett shows a beautiful little picture called "Spring Recess," which is lent by the Chicago Art Institute, and which is characterized by unusual probity of design and breadth and frankness of touch. "Blue Blinds," by the same painter, and also lent by the Institute, is still freer in manner and somewhat finer in color. Both pictures have the unmistakable stamp of authority. T. C. Steele has painted a peony bed that is powerful in color, and Ralph Clarkson is represented by his "Nouvart Ozaron," in which the blues are not yet fully harmonized by the tone of time. Energy, rather than subtlety, is the "note" of the group as a whole.

⁂

The officers of the School Art League announce that they have received nearly a thousand acceptances for the reception at the Fine Arts Building this afternoon. Mrs. John W. Alexander, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, says:

"This reception has been organized as a benefit for the league through the courtesy of the National Academy of Design. The Academy generously offered, in recognition of the league's service in promoting the interest in art on the part of the teachers and children of public schools, to give the entire proceeds of the day's attendance on Friday, April 3. Every visitor, therefore, who comes at any time on that day to the exhibition will contribute to the work of the league.

"It is particularly important at this time that the league complete its fund for the establishment of 'docents' in Manhattan and Brooklyn. The Board of Education has given the league permission to send these docents, or traveling teachers, into the schools to interest the children in the museums and to arrange for the personal conduction of parties of teachers and children through the museums in Manhattan and in Brooklyn.

"Mr. Edwin E. Jackson, Jr., and Mr. George D. Pratt of Brooklyn have led a fund for the establishment of this docent service. That it may not be a brief experiment, these gentlemen have promised an annual contribution for three years. Other contributions are in view, so that it is assured that a docent will be appointed in Brooklyn in the early Fall, and in Manhattan as soon as the fund now contemplated can be completed. A thousand dollars a year for three years will maintain this service in either of the two boroughs. Once organized, it will serve to bring thousands of children in the course of the year to the museums to be helped there by kindly and interested teachers."

The establishment of docent service in the museums, especially if the docents are chosen with reference to their thorough knowledge of the collections, is an extremely important matter, and the first requirement, as usual, is money.

ERIE RAILROAD CONVICTED.

Liable to $20,000 Fine for Granting Unlawful Concession.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 2.—A jury in the United States Court to-night found the Erie Railroad guilty of having granted an unlawful concession to Marden, Orth & Hastings of Boston on a shipment of goods from Jersey City to South St. Joseph, Mo. William S. Cowie, General Eastern Freight Agent of the company, was acquitted.

The indictment charged that the company gave an import rate of 44 cents a hundred pounds on a shipment of 1,476 bags of valonia, while the domestic rate, which should have been charged under the law, is 55 cents a hundred pounds. The total amount involved in the concession was $250. Cowie's acquittal was on the ground that he did not knowingly, within the meaning of the law, grant the concession.

The company upon its conviction is liable to a total fine of $20,000.

THE VAN MAN.

And now the van man comes again
In answer to my call;
I have not seen his visage plain
Since—let me think—since Fall,
When I confided, with much pain,
To him my utmost all.

I hoped upon that Autumn day
His form no more to see;
In fact I almost yearned to slay
Him and his helpers three;
For oh, the dreadful, awful way
That van man treated me!

He tattooed all the gilded chairs,
And broke the rocker's back;
Lost all the casters—fourteen pairs!—
And nicked the bric-à-brac;
And I was forced to mend the stairs
That man saw fit to crack.

He piled my treasures high inside,
Then on the box he sat,
And after an uncertain ride
The remnants reached my flat;
But to this day they've all denied
Which 'twas that stole my cat.

Now comes the van man, as I said,
To move my goods once more;
I almost wish that I were dead
And all my movings o'er;
For this man, I observe with dread,
Is he who came before!

SHAKESPEARE FETE PLANNED BY MAYOR

PICKS COMMITTEE OF 400

Mr. Mitchel Names Several Men Who Took Part in Similar Ceremony Fifty Years Ago.

Mayor Mitchel yesterday appointed a committee of some 400 prominent citizens to arrange for the celebration of the three hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Shakespeare. Henry Holt, Henry Clews, and Levi P. Morton, who were members of the committee that celebrated the three hundredth anniversary of the poet's birth in 1864, will take part in the proposed celebration. In making the announcement, the Mayor said:

"April 23 will be the three hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Shakespeare's birth. It will be celebrated appropriately by the public schools, by the Shakespeare Club of New York, and by various other societies. It is now suggested that the Mayor appoint a committee of citizens to take general charge of the celebration, in order that it may be wholly befitting of the occasion.

"I am glad to do this, paricularly since, in appointing the committee, I am to have the pleasure of naming Henry Holt, Henry Clews, and ex-Governor Levi P. Morton, who were members of the notable committee that celebrated the three hundredth anniversary of Shakespeare's birth in 1864.

"It will be recalled that that committee erected the statue of Shakespeare by the late J. Q. A. Ward. The celebration in 1864, in the stress of the civil war, was under the direction of this distinguished committee, representing the literary, commercial, professional, and official life of the city. It seems entirely fitting to me that the three hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Shakespeare's birth should be similarly celebrated, and that the city should take an official part.

"By doing so it will repeal and extend the civic occasion instituted in 1864 in order (in the words of the circular issued by the committee in 1864) to keep it 'worthy of the event to be commemorated, and a fitting expression of an intellectual people in recognition of our obligations to a man endowed with genius, the most brilliant, comprehensive, and unlimited kpown in any age or country.'

"I have also appointed the following as representative citizens, descendants of men who gave the city distinguished service on this committee fifty years ago: William H. Appleton, Peter T. Barlow, Hiram Barney, James Gordon Bennett, Morris A. Bernheimer, John Claflin, Bernard G. Gunther, James K. Hackett, William Butler Duncan, William M. Evarts, Irving Grinnell, George B. McClellan, Richard Howland Hunt, Edwin D. Morgan, J. Fred Pierson, Edward S. Rapallo, Theodore Roosevelt, Samuel Sloan, Henry A. C. Taylor, Cabot Ward, Egerton L. Winthop, and R. A. Withaus.

"Because of the importance of the occasion to the schools of the city and the extent to which the celebration will be conducted by school children I have asked the Hon. Thomas W. Churchill, President of the Board of Education, to serve as Chairman of the committee."

Besides the members of the Board of Estimate and the Board of Education the following are among those the Mayor has asked to serve on the committee:

FAVORS FIXING OF PRICES.

Morgan Suggests the "Oklahoma Idea" for Federal Trade Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—In a speech in the House of Representatives to-day Representative Morgan of Oklahoma, a Republican member of the Judiciary Committee considering portions of President Wilson's Administration trust programme, suggested that the "Oklahoma idea" should be carefully studied in connection with the Presidential suggestion for the creation of a Federal trade commission. The Oklahoma State Corporation Commission has the right to fix prices in that State. According to the situation as viewed through Mr. Morgan's spectacles, the "Oklahoma idea" has worked successfully.

"I am an ardent advocate," said Mr. Morgan in his speech, "of the proposition to create a Federal trade commission. I believe such a commission, with adequate power and jurisdiction, is absolutely necessary to protect the people from large industrial concerns, possessing more or less monopolistic power. The Republican and Progressive Parties by platform declarations and the Democratic Party by the message of the President are committed to the proposition to create a Federal trade commission."

HYLAN AND ROY ACT.

New Kings Judges Retain Counsel to Settle Appointment Question.

John F. Hylan and Robert H. Roy, appointed by Gov. Glynn as additional County Judges in Kings County, announced yesterday that they themselves were preparing to take steps to settle the question of the legality of their appointment. They have retained Charles J. McDermott, President of the Brooklyn Bar Association, to act for them in the matter. Lawyer McDermott said he had not decided what course of action would be taken.

The new Judges were named under a Constitutional amendment, passed last Fall, creating the additional places on the county bench of Kings. Those who question the legality of the appointments contend that by the provisions of the amendment the offices must be filled at the general election next year.

FEMINISM MAKING A TOMCAT OF FATHER

By Destroying the Family Unit, Mrs. Martin Says, It Puts Him Out of Business.

LOWERS HIS SOCIAL STATUS

Rallying Cry of Her Sex, She Asserts, Should Be "Homes for Women," Not Votes for Them.

Feminism and the woman's movement last night received such a drubbing as only a sister woman could give, when some 200 active members and friends of the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage gathered in the home of Mrs. Henry Seligman at 30 West Fifty-sixth Street to hear Mrs. John Martin, the Charlotte Perkins Gilman of the No-votes-for-women movement, tear to tatters the great new Cause.

Mrs. Martin did her best. James M. Beck, who was advertised as co-star with her, pleaded that there was little left for him to add to her demolition, and his audience seemed in hearty agreement with him. Mrs. Martin's attack upon the larger feminism stripped language of almost every epigram, and Mr. Beck had to content himself with discussing the subject with the calmness of a constitutional lawyer.

Miss Alice Hill Chittenden, President of the association, was Chairman of the meeting, which was attended by a dazzling audience that filled the ballroom and streamed out into the halls at either end. Among those present were Mrs. Annie Nathan Meyer, Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, President of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage; Miss Alice Edith Abell, President of the Wage Earners' Anti-Suffrage Society, and Miss Margery Dorman, its Secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Francis S. Bangs, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Achelis, Miss Elizabeth Cockroft, Mrs. K. B. Lapham, and Mrs Barclay Hazard, Vice President of the Consumers' League.

Mrs. Martin asserted that between feminism and the family there was an inherent and irreconcilable conflict.

"Feminism seeks to break up the family group," she said, "its keynote being the right of every individual to lead her own life with individual independence, whereas the keynote of the family is the mutual interdependence of its members. Feminism would have woman lead her own life by herself. The family is either a unit or nothing. When its unity and the mutual interdependence of its members are destroyed it becomes merely a place, like a boarding house."

Politically the family unity was represented by the father, and this political unity, she said, feminism attacked. The social unity was likewise attacked, Mrs. Martin said, in the doctrine that every woman had "the right to take for her children the father, or fathers, of her choice."

"When the day sought by feminism comes," she continued; "when the sexes see so little of each other in the family relation that they grow unaccustomed to each other, the family of the present day will disappear, although mating will continue.

"Feminism is the process of putting father out of business, deposing him as the breadwinner and political representative of the family, and rendering him unnecessary. Feminism is showing women how to get along without him, winning their own livelihood, and letting man wander through the world with nothing but his cigars to comfort him, like a male drone in the beehive. The work of society is to be carried on only by independent and industrious spinster bees. The male in the beehive is to be permitted to drag on in a subordinate and somewhat surreptitious position, sneaking in and out of the back door when sent for, like a guilty plumber—the lord of creation reduced to the social status of a tomcat."

Speaking of woman's activity as carried on in England by the ultra-suffragists, Mrs. Martin said:

"False prophets are calling these things progress. They are writing vast books of biology, anthropology, zoology, and the like to prove that women are human beings.

"Sewing on buttons for your son is merely being a female, but if you sew buttons on for a boss in a factory you are engaged in a human occupation. To wrap up a parcel for your mother is merely being feminine, but to wrap parcels all day for a shipping clerk in a shop is being a free and independent human being. To scrub floors for your husband and be repaid by mere gratitude is only feminine, but to scrub floors in a barroom for a saloon keeper is human. You have then ceased to be a woman and become a human being.

"Suffrage means to earn one's own living and remain single. There is nothing praiseworthy in turning one's back on society and family ties, in earning one's own living and remaining single, lonely, and childless. Indeed, it seems to be a fact that the competent women are being drawn into commerce and only the incompetent marrying. If this continues, in a century or so only incompetent women of infirm intellect will marry at all.

"When the best young men in labor make good, they marry and rear families. In every high salary paid to men society is the gainer But with women in business it is the reverse—every raise in salary makes her less likely to marry and raise a better race. High salaries bribe women to sterility. You couldn't run a chicken ranch on that principle.

"When society pays a higher salary to women it not only does not gain but it has to mortgage its future to pay the indebtedness. Man's selling his labor power does not interfere with his fatherhood, but woman's selling hers does interfere with her motherhood; she is selling a part of the race with it, and the race should never be for sale.

"Why is the State obliged to enter more and more into the home, in physical and moral education? Because of our lack of skill and our absorption in other things, and our lack of proper care for the children. The family blames the street, the street blames the newspapers, the newspapers blame the Mayor; and now women are being taught to blame the law and demand a vote.

"Little Willie is not to be taught morality. Oh, no! But the mother is to vote to put saloons under regulation, and gambling dens and vice dens under regulation. The real place to carry out reforms is in the heart and soul of little Willie.

"The most significant thing about woman suffrage, however, is that the women urging it really don't themselves care for it. They admit that, but say: 'We feel we ought to care for it.' Politics is intensely uninteresting to women. The tariff, bimetallism, ad valorem—who cares for any of those? What woman in her senses, I ask, cares anything about ad valorem? I always used to suppose it was some sort of drug. One woman told me she thought it was a new perfume.

"Mrs. Blatch told me I ought to learn something about ad valorem, because a woman smugler landed in the Tombs for not knowing something about it. There are lots of men who know ad valorem and still land in the Tombs. The woman should have learned something, not about ad valorem, but about the Ten Commandments; and she wouldn't learn them in woman politics.

"If women get the vote men are likely to say mentally what the Irishman said when the horse he was riding got his hoof in the stirrup: 'Well, if you're going to get on, I'm going to get off.'"

Mrs. Martin said the anti-suffragists were not merely opposing, but had a positive goal as well:

"We are not merely against feminism, but for the family; not merely against suffrage, but for woman. When this is fully made plain then some day we shall have a real woman's movement. In that day may be heard the tramp of women's feet, away from the factory and back to the home. They will march home singing, and bearing banners on which is written not 'Votes for Women' but 'Homes for Women.'"

SAY MRS. THOMPSON IS AN AMERICAN

HUSBAND'S RESIDENCE HERS

Lived in England with Her Father, but Marriage to Griswold Thompson Made Her American.

Mrs. May Van Alen Thompson, wife of Griswold Thompson of this city, and granddaughter of the late Mrs. William Astor, is a resident of this country, according to a decision by the Board of United States General Appraisers, handed down yesterday. Mrs. Thompson, who, before her marriage to Mr. Thompson in England on Sept. 24 last year, was well known in society as Miss May Van Alen, daughter of James J. Van Alen, raised the question of her citizenship when she arrived from Europe three weeks after her marriage.

She arrived at Boston on the steamship Arabic on Oct. 16 last with about $5,000 worth of jewelry, and wearing apparel. Many of the articles were wedding presents. She told the Boston customs officers that she considered herself a foreign resident within the meaning of the tariff law, and therefore privileged to bring in her personal effects duty free. The customs men demurred, claiming that as she had married an American citizen, she became such herself, and that her effects, in excess of the $100 limit provided by law, were subject to duty.

Mrs. Thompson thereupon paid the duties under protest, and engaged James F. Curtis to present her case to Secretary McAdoo. A hearing was given at Washington, following which some of the articles were decided not to be dutiable. Mrs. Thompson then appealed to the Board of General Appraisers for a reversal of the Collector's action at Boston in regarding her as a resident of this country and levying duty on her belongings. Mr. Curtis argued in behalf of Mrs. Thompson's claims, while William L. Wemple, Assistant Attorney General, maintained that by her marriage Mrs. Thompson ceased forthwith to be a non-resident and became an American citizen. Mrs. Thompson testified that while she was born in the United States her home was with her father in England, and that, although she freqnently came to this country for sojourns in New York and Newport, she had always considered herself a foreign resident, and had so declared herself to the customs officials, who passed her effects free of duty.

Judge Hay, in his decision for the board, affirming the action of the Boston officers, holds that the residential status, like the political status of a married woman, follows that of her husband. In short, a woman whose husband is a resident of the United States is also a resident of this country under the existing tariff laws. The decision says that the residence of the husband becomes that of the wife instantly upon the celebration of the marriage ceremony. It is pointed out that a woman who is a resident of England becomes a resident of the United States immediately upon her marriage in that country to a man who is a resident of the United States.

The decision holds further that residence may be changed by commencing to remove from one country to another without intention of returning. Judge Hay cites the case of Mrs. Florence S. Bache, wife of Jules S. Bache, the banker, of this city, who maintains an apartment in Paris, where she spends much time, although her husband has a residence here occupied by her when in New York. When this case was before the board it held her effects to be dutiable as a resident of this country by virtue of the fact that the status of a married woman was the status of her husband since they live in amicable relations. The Court of Customs Appeals later affirmed the board's interpretation of the revenue laws.

Judge Hay says that Mrs. Thompson ceased to be a resident of England in any event at the moment she began her return to the United States, and that at the same time she ceased to be a non-resident and became a resident of the United States, because having entered into the marital relation with a resident of the United States and begun her removal thereto she, by her own act, constituted herself a resident of this country.

"While there seems to be no decided case in this country fixing the exact time when the residential status of a married woman becomes that of her husband, treating the word 'residence' as synonymous with 'domicile,' as we think we must in this case," says the decision, "the English as well as the French law seems to have been fairly well settled for many years.

"While we have traveled far since the learned French jurist (Demolombe) laid down the rule that at the instant of the celebration of marriage the wife passes under the power of her husband and ceases to a certain extent to have a propriam personum, our progress has been forward and not backward. While under the law of most of the States of this country a married woman is in many respects a feme sole, with most of the powers of independent legal action that she had before the celebration of marriage, we have not sought to disturb the family relation.

"The institution of marriage has been the central point from which Christian civilization has evolved. Advancing with the progress of that civilization, the tendency of adjudication in the United States as well as in England, has been to render even more secure that sacred relation. So long as the marriage relation remains what it is, the residence of the husband and wife must be the same except when that relation be dissolved either by law or by agreement.

"As society is now and has ever been constituted, the husband is the provider and the head of the family. While that condition continues his home is his wife's home and in contemplation of the statute here under consideration, his residence is her residence. We therefore reach the conclusion that Mrs. Thompson by virtue of her marriage to a resident of the United States and departing from England to take up a residence with him, became a resident of the United States, and was such upon her arrival at Boston on Oct. 16, 1913. The protests are, therefore, overruled."

It was said yesterday that Mrs. Thompson will apply to the Customs Court for a review of the board's decision.

TWO SUITS OVER FITCH PLAY

Engel and Horst Say They Wrote "The Blue Mouse."

Two suits were begun against the Shubert Theatrical Company in the Supreme Court yesterday, one brought by Alexander Engel and Julius Horst and the other by William G. Fitch. Both suits were over the late Clyde Fitch's play, "The Blue Mouse."

Engel and Horst say that they wrote "The Blue Mouse" and sold the English rights to the Shuberts on March 4, 1908. It was agreed, they say, that they were to receive 3 per cent. on the gross receipts from all performances. On Oct. 3, 1908, they allege the Shuberts engaged Clyde Fitch to write an adaptation of the play. This play was later produced to crowded houses. Engel and Horst say that in December, 1908, the Shuberts wrote to their agent that, even with the greatest amount of advertising, such a play as "The Blue Mouse" was almost impossible. Engel and Horst are suing for $50,000.

William G. Fitch, who brings the second suit, confirms the story told by Engel and Horst, and says that he is the heir-at-law of Clyde Fitch. He says that Clyde Fitch was asked to prepare an English version of the play of which the Shuberts had a German version. For this work, he says, Clyde Fitch was to receive half the royalties from all productions of the play in stock. This agreement, Fitch says, was never lived up to. Fitch is suing for $51,490 with interest.

A MIXED MASS MEETING.

Labor Unions and I. W. W. in Union Square To-morrow.

Ernest Bohm, Secretary of the Central Federated Union, which will hold a mass meeting at Union Square at 4 P. M. to-morrow to enlist the sympathy of the unions here on behalf of the striking copper miners at Calumet, Mich., said last night that Joseph Cohen, a member of the Unemployed Defense Committee of the Industrial Workers of the World and the anarchists, had asked him if the I. W. W. could take part in the meeting. Cohen said his committee had tried to get a permit for Union Square to-morrow afternoon, but the C. F. U. was ahead of them.

Secretary Bohm said there was no objection to the I. W. W. people coming so long as they behaved in an orderly and law-abiding manner and did not try to run the meeting. Joseph Cannon, an official of the Western Federation of Miners and a leader of the copper strike, will be among the speakers.

It is believed that in view of the permission to attend given by Secretary Bohm the I. W. W. will be out in force on the occasion, and that its leaders will try to be listed among the speakers.

At a noon meeting in Printing House Square yesterday a young woman distributed handbills, on which were printed large black flags, with the words: "Mass Meeting of Unemployed, Saturday, April 4, 3 P. M. Union Square. Come to protest against the class verdict that railroaded Tannenbaum and others of our brothers to Prison." Policeman John Shea of the Oak Street Station arrested her on a charge of violating the city ordinance. Before Magistrate Levy in the Centre Street Court she said she was Louise Berger, 28 years old, of 595 Tinton Avenue, the Bronx. Justus Sheffield, who defended Tannenbaum, the I. W. W. leader, appeared for her.

Magistrate Levy decided that there had been a violation of the ordinance, but instructed the police to warn, instead of arresting, persons under such circumstances, for, he said, many of the violators were foreigners and were ignorant of the ordinance. He suspended sentence on Miss Berger. The handbill itself, the Magistrate said, he considered incendiary, but said that it did not enter into the case.

$330 FOR A EUGENE FIELD.

"Tribune Primer's" Price was 25 Cents in 1881.

The library of the late James A. Alexander was sold at the American Art Galleries yesterday. Thomas E. Kirby conducted the afternoon session, and Otto Bernet the evening sale. The most interesting item was a copy of the rare first edition of Eugene Field's "The Tribune Primer," 16mo., in the original printed wrappers, Tribune Publishing Company, Denver, Col., (1881.) There was keen competition for it between Willard Morse and James F. Drake. It was finally knocked down for $330 to Mr. Drake. This is a new record price, the highest previous one being $261.

This copy has attached to the front cover the rare advertisement saying that the pamphlet will be "sent postage paid to any address in the United States or Canada on receipt of 25 cents. Tribune Publishing Company, Denver, Col." This copy has special interest, as it was sent by the author to his old guardian and friend, M. I. Gray of St. Louis. Only about 100 copies of this pamphlet were issued, and to-day not more than ten copies are known to be extant. Accompanying the Alexander example was a letter from Roswell Field, brother of Eugene, to Walter M. Hill of Chicago, saying there could be no doubt as to its genuineness. Roswell Field was an interested spectator at yesterday's afternoon sale.

"Echoes from the Sabine Farm," by Eugene and Roswell Field, one of thirty copies on Japanese paper, signed and numbered by Francis Wilson, the actor, and Eugene Field's friend and admirer, went to Willard Morse for $85. He also paid $32.50 for the original manuscript of a poem of eight lines by Field, and $30 for "A Little Book of Western Verse" with autograph inscription on the flyleaf, reading:

> Whenever I've this heartache an' this > feelin' in my throat,
> I lay it all to thinkin' of Casey's tabble
> dote. EUGENE FIELD.
> Jan. 16, 1893.

Gabriel Weis gave $140 for an extra-illustrated copy of "The Brothers Dalziel, a Review of Fifty Years' Work."

STUDENTS WILL AID FUND.

N. Y. U. Undergraduates to Help Alumni Raise $1,000,000.

The students of New York University, following the good example of the alumni in starting a fund for $1,000,000, decided yesterday at their regular weekly meeting to begin a voluntary subscription campaign to collect from the student body at the Heights not less than $1,000. The senior class of the School of Commerce, numbering 350, has voted to contribute $5 a man.

The New Yorker, the college weekly, said yesterday:

"New York University must take as an example and inspiration the many colleges and universities which have recently conducted similar campaigns with signal success. Before another week is up we should have a minimum of $1,000 to represent the undergraduate contribution."

The meeting of the students yesterday was their answer to the editorial.

FRESHMAN INVITE DUCKING.

Vote to Submit, but Hope the Faculty Interferes.

The February freshmen of the Medical Preparatory Division at New York University voted yesterday to submit to the annual Spring ducking administered by the upper classmen as a college custom to all those students who enter at the mid-year. The regular students are ducked in October, but the candidates for the football team who are in training do not receive theirs till the Spring. This year the February freshmen will join them in amusing the upper classmen and sophomores.

A few of the freshmen who did not care for college customs rose and left the meeting. Their fate will probably be severe, unless the Faculty frowns on the Spring ducking. The date is not yet decided on, and the freshmen still have hope.

MRS. MARY KYDD ARRAIGNED

Becker Witness Accused of Sending Her Child Out to Peddle.

Mrs. Mary Kydd, who testified at the Becker trial that Harry Vallon was among the men who shot Herman Rosenthal, was arraigned in Special Sessions yesterday on a charge of having sent out her son Joseph, 7 years old, to peddle matches. The charge was preferred by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The court discharged her, holding that the case was one of improper guardianship, which will be tried before Judge Hoyt in the Children's Court.

According to a report submitted by the society, many complaints have been received against Mrs. Kydd in the last twelve years. Eleven children have been found with her, of whom some were her own and others, she said, children of relatives.

Thousands of people lined the streets in the neighborhood of the church as the funeral cortege started for Calvary Cemetery. The procession was headed by the police band, and a big escort of policemen. At the services, Father William T. McGuirl, the police chaplain, spoke of Patrolman Wynn as one of the heroes of the Department, who had died in the performance of his duty. Four policemen who figured with Wynn in the fight with the burglars were among the pallbearers.

STROKE KILLS DR. WALLACE

Former City Official's Death Due Remotely to Robbery in His Home.

Dr. John C. Wallace of 203 East Fifty-first Street, formerly Deputy Superintendent of the Street Cleaning Department and well known as a veterinary surgeon, died of apoplexy at his home Wednesday. His death was remotely due to a robbery of his home.

Mrs. Wallace, who died in 1910, left her husband some jewelry, including a pair of diamond earrings, which he cherished greatly. The gems were kept in a small safe in his room, and when he came home one night recently and discovered that burglars had opened the safe and stolen the jewelry the shock over the loss of the keepsakes brought on a stroke of apoplexy. He had been confined to his bed ever since, and the second stroke came Wednesday.

Dr. Wallace was retired from the department in the administration of Mayor Gaynor and received a pension of $1,500 a year. He was well known in the Yorkville district.

RAISE RATES TO SAVE ROADS, REA PLEADS

P. R. R. President Tells Commerce Board That Otherwise Railways Face a Crisis.

DRAIN ON SURPLUS SERIOUS

Gap Between Outgo and Income on Present Rates Too Narrow—May Have to Retrench More.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Testimony of the Eastern railroads in support of their application for a 5 per cent. increase in freight rates was virtually concluded before the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day by President Samuel Rea of the Pennsylvania system. To-morrow the lake and rail shippers will be heard in opposition to the increase, and it is probable that all evidence for both sides will be completed within a few days.

Presidents Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio, Delano of the Monon, Smith of the New York Central, and Rea of the Pennsylvania will be recalled for cross-examination as soon as counsel can digest their evidence.

Mr. Rea was on the witness stand nearly all day. His review of the financial condition of the Eastern railroads related concretely to the Pennsylvania system, but he indicated that his observations and conclusions applied alike to all the lines.

Mr. Rea said that present rates did not yield a fair return upon the capital invested; that the return had been decreasing continuously, and that unless the downward trend was arrested it would undermine railroad resources and cripple their power satisfactorily to serve the public. He insisted that unless the roads were permitted to increase their net income, serious retrenchment in expenditures for labor, improvements and extensions would have to be made—a policy which he earnestly hoped it would not be necessary to adopt, because he felt that the public interest demanded that well managed railroads should earn a reasonable return upon their efforts and their property.

Mr. Rea added that only recently the Pennsylvania and some other lines had been obliged to curtail their operating expenses by laying off employes and reducing the number of trains operated, because of the falling off in freight tonnage and passenger traffic, which had induced a heavy decline in revenues.

Narrow Outgo and Income Gap.

"Unless the gap between receipts and expenditures can be widened," Mr. Rea testified, "we must begin to retrench, and retrenchment must begin on betterments and improvements not directly necessary to the movement of tarins. We should be very reluctant to do this, as it would be to run counter to our traditions and practice of half a century, and we are sure that it would not be in the public interest, and we do not believe the public desire it.

"Now we have as much public support as can possibly be given to a plea almost national in its scope and effect, and we firmly believe our application for a very moderate freight rate increase is in accord with the best public interest."

While he did not assert that the advance was "necessary to the maintenance of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's dividends in the immediate future," Mr. Read declared that, "any general idea that the Pennsylvania's position was so strong as not to need any additional revenue is not correct."

He added that the Pennsylvania had earned only 4.84 per cent. during the fiscal year of 1913.

Mr. Rea's conclusions, which, he indicated, applied specifically to the Pennsylvania and generally to all other roads, were these:

1. The margin of surplus is steadily diminishing, and the company is not receiving any return either on the additional capital invested or for the value of the service rendered and the facilities provided for public use.
2. Had there been no surplus in earlier years, and had the whole of the improvements been made for out of capital, the margin would now have reached the vanishing point.
3. If surplus steadily decreases, improvements, if made at all, will more and more need to be made out of new capital.
4. But if the margin of safety decreases, new capital will only be raised with greater difficulty and on more onerous terms.
5. Indeed, it is questionable whether, if new capital is to continue to earn no income, the Directors will be justified in attempting to raise more than a modicum of what they believe necessary, as the effect must be to reduce the percentage return on the shareholders' capital already invested.

Rea Questioned.

In response to an inquiry by Commissioner Clark as to what had caused the net decrease in operating revenues of about $4,000,000 in the eight months of the present fiscal year as compared with the corresponding period of last year, the witness said:

"A falling off of tonnage and an increase of expenses of operation. The latter was due to higher wage adjustments, the semi-monthly pay law, extra crew laws, limited hours of service law, increased cost of fuel, and general increase in cost of train operation. On our lines east of Pittsburgh these increases aggregated $3,433,700 during the first seven months of the present fiscal year."

"Is it regarded as sound policy," inquired Commissioner Clark, "to replace wooden with steel equipment?"

"We so regard it," said Mr. Rea. "Although the initial expense of steel equipment is much greater, the capacity of the cars also is greater. The conversion, however, costs a great deal of money."

Mr. Brandeis asked about returns upon passenger traffic.

"It probably is a fair conclusion," said the witness, "that there is a comparatively insignificant return on capital devoted to passenger business. Precisely what the return is I cannot say. I always have felt that the returns on passenger traffic were too small, but we were obliged to conform to State laws which are controlling as to passenger fares. We have been forced recently to make retrenchments in our passenger service amounting to about 5 per cent. on lines east of Pittsburgh, because of a falling off of business."

Both Mr. Thorne and M. Lyon as counsel in the case questioned Mr. Rea as to the recent large expenditures of the Pennsylvania for maintenance and why such charges had greately increased

Mr. Rea replied that maintenance charges naturally varied from year to year, in lean traffic years being less and in great traffic years more.

"In 1908, for instance," said he, "we did not buy a single rail because of the panic of 1907. That was a mistake, and it will not be repeated. So long as I remain President of the Pennsylvania the property will be well maintained, whether our business is good or bad."

J. S. Rodgers, General Superintendent of the Pennsylvania, testified that "charges to operating expenses on the Pennsylvania System east of Pittsburgh were $24,855,624 in 1910, and $29,411,210 in 1913—an increase of 18.3 per cent." He said that expenses for maintenance of way during 1913 were much greater than ever before and probably would remain at the present high level, because of large increases in wages, the policy of regulatory bodies, increased demands of the traveling and shipping public, &c.

FIGHT ON DANIELS DEADLOCKS SENATE

A WAR OF PROFESSORS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The fight against the confirmation of Winthrop Moore Daniels of New Jersey as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission became so vigorous to-day that the Senate recessed until to-morrow to allow time for the Democratic leaders to devise an escape from a difficult situation. There is a strong feeling in favor of re-committing the nomination so as to avoid a vote at this time, when it might result in a flat rejection of President Wilson's nominee from his own State.

That indirect retreat is closed to the President's supporters, however, by a unanimous consent agreement to vote finally on the legislative day of yesterday. Under the practice of the Senate, a unanimous consent agreement may not be vacated even by a subsequent unanimous consent, so that parliamentarians say that the only way to avoid a vote is for the President to withdraw the nomination. If a vote is taken now it is generally admitted that Mr. Daniels's margin of safety would be narrow.

The fight began in committee some weeks ago, and since yesterday has raged almost without intermission on the floor of the Senate. The statement cannot be made too emphatic that there is nothing in the fight that reflects on Mr. Daniels's record or personality. But among the more radical Senators of both parties there is a conviction that his rulings as a member of the Public Utilities Commission of New Jersey reflected views economically unsound.

The heaviest blow struck against his confirmation came to-day when Mr. Martine of New Jersey, a Democrat, who owes his position in the Senate to President Wilson's support when, as Governor of New Jersey, he insisted that Mr. Martine's success at the primaries be ratified by the Legislature, declared outright against Mr. Daniels. Yesterday Mr. Martine spoke in high admiration of Mr. Daniels's personal qualifications, and to-day he retracted nothing of what he had said, but he took the position that his appointment would give an undesirable point of view to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Besides Mr. Martine Mr. Daniels is opposed by Mr. Walsh of Montana and Mr. Thomas of Colorado—both Democrats—and by such progressive or radical Republicans as Mr. Borah of Idaho, Mr. Bristow of Kansas, Mr. Cummins of Iowa, and Mr. La Follette of Wisconsin.

The fight over Mr. Daniels is described as a sort of "professors' war" of conflicting economic principles. Mr. Daniels believes that public service corporations have important intangible values. Mr. La Follette and the radicals generally insist that the valuation should be strictly physical and that returns on investments in public utilities should be pruned absolutely to the point of a fair return on the physical value. The dispute is of particular interest in connection with the pending plea of the railroads for an increase of 5 per cent. in their freight rates.

The particular ruling cited against Mr. Daniels related to the adjustment of the Passaic gas case. In that case Mr. Daniels voted to allow the company about 17 per cent. of its physical valuation for intangible assets and 30 per cent. in addition for its value as a going concern. This made a total of 47 per cent. of the physical value, and upon this total he allowed an annual return of 8 per cent.

MODELS WILL SHOW NEW SUBWAY PLANS

COMMISSION'S WORK SHOWN

Visitors Will See How Materials Used in Subway Construction Are Tested by Utilities Board.

Models of the complicated work, which the Public Service Commission must undertake at Times Square and at the Grand Central Station in connection with the new subways, will be on view at the exhibit of the commission at the Efficiency Exposition, which will open at the Grand Central Palace next Monday night. They have been constructed by a clerk in the employ of the commission and have been built carefully to scale.

From the Times Square model it will be seen how natural it will be to have the two express stations of the Interborough and the B. R. T. at the same point. The model shows also that passengers desiring to go from one system to the other will be able to walk underground without going up to the street. The Interborough station extends to the north to Forty-second Street, and a sub-grade passage will be provided in front of the Heidelberg Building to the mezzanine leading down to the B. R. T. express station, which also touches Forty-second Street.

Through the Times Building an entrance will be obtained to an underground plaza, stretching under the intersection of Broadway and Forty-second Street, from which it will be possible to go either to the Interborough or the B. R. T. trains. Moreover, this plaza opens immediately on the platforms from which the shuttle trains to the Grand Central and the trains to the Steinway Tunnel line may be taken. There may be some change when the final plans are worked out, in the arrangement of these platforms; but at present it is intended that the Steinway Tunnel trains shall come in on the two southerly of the present tracks and shall be dead-ended at Times Square, while the two northerly tracks shall be given up to the shuttle service.

This means that the Times Square station of to-day, after it has been reconstructed, will be united with the Times Square Interborough and B. R. T. express stations, so that from entrances from the street contrived at many different points between Forty-third and Fortieth Streets, both in Broadway and Seventh Avenue, it will be possible to reach, without again going up to the street, the trains on four different lines and running in eight diferent directions.

Equally as ingenious is the model displaying the Grand Central connection. This shows how, in order to avoid grade crossings, the Lexington Avenue tracks, as they take the diagonal line from Forty-third to Forty-second Street, separate. The northbound local line can be cut fairly straight through, as that will run into the present northbound local track under Park Avenue without crossing any other set of rails. But the three other tracks must be carried down, so as to pass beneath the existing rails they have to cross and will come up to grade again at their points of junction with the existing line

The model also shows how the station of the shuttle line from Times Square will be constructed in front of the present Grand Union Hotel, and how the new Grand Central subway station on the Lexington Avenue line has been devised, so as to reduce the inconvenience of transferring from the shuttle to the east side Interborough line to the minimum. Moreover, the direct connection between the subway station and the New York Central's station is displayed in detail.

The B. R. T. will display a model of its own to show the kind of subway cars it intends to put on. These cars will be 67 feet long, 16 feet longer than in use on the Subway, and 10 feet wide—that is, 1 foot 3¼ inches wider than the present cars. They will seat during rush hours, it is asserted, 78 persons instead of 44, the number which the Interborough type of cars can accommodate.

The commission has also arranged for other exhibits, which will explain sides of its work less known to the public. They will see how all the material used in subway construction are tested by the commission before the contractors use them, and a chemical laboratory will be set up to demonstrate how the purity of the Subway air is tested. Moreover, a special section of the commission's exhibit will be devoted to the work it does in regulating the gas, electric lighting, and transportation companies of the city.

"LEFTY LOUIE" GETS GUITAR

Gunman Is Learning to Play It in the Death House.

Charles G. F. Wahle, attorney for the four convicted slayers of Herman Rosenthal, visited his clients in the Death House at Sing Sing yesterday and heard from them about the attempts made by the District Attorney's men to obtain identifications. The gunmen wept and hid their faces when confronted with the witnesses William Shapiro and Louis Kruse.

"The boys were quieted down when I saw them," said Mr. Wahle on his return from Sing Sing. "The incident is closed, and I understand that the District Attorney will make no further attempts to have them identified in their cells."

"Lefty Louie" Rosenberg, one of the gunmen, is now learning to play the guitar. A crude instrument which was made in prison by Morris Lustig, who occupied a cell in the Death House for many months and who was freed on a reversal of conviction, was bequeathed to "Lefty" by Lustig. The other gunmen are devoting themselves to literature.

"Lefty's" wife, Mrs. Lillian Rosenberg, Mr. Wahle said, had obtained 700 signatures on her petition for a reprieve of the gunmen. She circulated two separate papers. One of the petitions, Mr. Wahle said, bore the names of Warden James N. Clancy and Chief Clerk Malloy of Sing Sing, also the name of Father W. E. Cashin, one of the chaplains at the prison. Warden Clancy discovered quite recently that he and "Dago" Frank had attended the same public school in Marion Street. The Warden has taken a personal interest in the fancies of the gunmen.

HOBBEMA

ONE OF THIRTY-EIGHT BEAUTIFUL ROTOGRAVURE PICTURES IN THE ART SECTION OF THE NEW YORK TIMES NEXT SUNDAY

The example of Myndert Hobbema's art in the Altman Collection, "Entrance to a Village," is considered the best picture by that renowned Dutch painter. The rotogravure reproduction of this landscape, which is one of the thirty-eight pictures of the Altman Collection to be presented in an Art Supplement to next Sunday's Times, seems to catch the very charm of the original. This one picture, though it may not generally be accounted better than the really wonderful reproductions of the Rembrandts, for instance, illustrates the extraordinary merit of the rotogravure process. The general opinion will be that, in the interpretative quality, this rotogravure work is superior to color printing. There is a landscape by Ruysdael among these thirty-eight pictures which is in its way quite as remarkable, while the Rembrandts, including the Pilate and some famous portraits, the examples of Frans Hals and the early Italian religious pictures, are all so effectively reproduced as to make this supplement a fit subject for art study and a most useful introduction to the forthcoming public exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of the Altman Collection, which is now the property of the people of New York.

Besides this notable Art Supplement, The Sunday Times will include the Spring Book Number of The New York Times Review of Books, with a comprehensive, classified, and descriptive list of the new books of the season, reviews of the latest publications and special articles by distinguished writers on subjects of immediate interest in the literary field.

TOLLS BILL OUTLOOK BRIGHTER IN SENATE

NO PRESSURE FROM WILSON

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The President's supporters in his fight for the repeal of the tolls exemption clause of the Panama Canal act are much encouraged by the turn of affairs in the Senate since last night. Then the closest poll that could be made they now admit showed a majority of only five votes. This morning, said the Senator who made this statement, the margin had increased to eight or nine. He seemed to think that in spite of the efforts of Mr. Penrose and Mr. Oliver of Pennsylvania to line up a nearly solid Republican Party against the President, many Republicans would refuse to make a party question of repeal and would vote their original convictions against the tolls discrimination.

On the other hand, the opposition were far from discouraged, and were evidently as determined as ever to fight to their utmost strength. They feel that a few Senators like Mr. Sterling of South Dakota, a Republican, and Mr. Newlands and Mr. Pittman of Nevada, Democrats, can turn the scale one way or the other. They put some confidence in the fact that the recommendations of Mr. Newlands and Mr. Pittman for the appointment of a District Attorney and other Federal officials in Nevada have been ignored by the Attorney General. Mr. Newlands, however, has supported the President loyally so long, and as sponsor for the trust bills that will need all the President's support for their quick passage, is not expected to let his irritation carry him too far.

Wilson Not to Press Senate.

The President let it be known to-day that he had said nothing to indicate that he favored a motion to discharge the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals in case it did not promptly report the Repeal bill. Senator Owen of Oklahoma announced his purpose to force the bill from the committee in this way when he left the White House yesterday, and, though it was known that he had not seen the President, the impression arose in certain quarters that the President was threatening the Senate.

Mr. Wilson's disclaimer of Mr. Owen's threat will have a soothing effect on Senators who have not yet decided to support the President's measure. It is not going too far in deduction to say that, while the President is confident that talk of a party split has been exaggerated, he does not wish to do anything to accentuate or make permanent any division that has arisen over tolls. This is particularly true of his attitude toward the Senate, where the working majority is slight and a division in the party might imperil Democratic control.

The significant feature of the party division in the House is that it is not along lines that could possibly be repeated on any other question. The danger line in the Democratic, as in the Republican, Party is that separating the conservative and liberal wings, but the cleavage on tolls cannot be gauged by any tabulation to parallel that split. The alignment on the next general measure will close the breaches made by the tolls repeal.

The President said he hoped there would be no factional or filibustering delay in the Senate. That expression merely emphasized his disclaimer of the riot act as read by Senator Owen. The President expects two Democratic Senators on the committee to vote the measure out, though they oppose it on its merits, and that will be enough to get it before the Senate, where its proportionate strength is greater.

When the committee meets on Tuesday it will have to determine, first, whether or not there will be hearings. Senators sponsoring the various substitutes and amendments that have already been proposed have asked for an opportunity to explain them to the committee. A committee rarely refuses this request from a Senator, and many private citizens also want to be heard. If the committee should grant these requests a week or two would intervene before debate in the Senate was launched.

Four separate modifications of the repeal measure are already before the committee. One would make the repeal with the proviso that no principle was involved and that tolls might be remitted in the future. The second would make the levying of tolls discretionary with the President under certain conditions. The third would limit the repeal to two years, and the fourth submits the whole question to arbitration. It is not unlikely that Democratic opponents will attempt to win over the few Republicans now lined up with the Administration by indorsing some modification along the lines of one of these.

There is no talk of a Democratic caucus to force the Democrats together. The President has not urged this drastic course, and the party leaders realize that its only effect will be to exclude from the party councils the half-dozen or more Democrats who are fighting the bill. A caucus would accentuate the party split and have little effect in corralling votes.

Secretary Bryan, who was a member of the sub-committee at the Baltimore Convention that drafted the no-tolls clause, was said to have tried this morning to induce Senator Ashurst of Arizona to come to the support of the President on the tolls dispute when he visited the Capitol to discuss the arbitration treaties.

The subject of tolls came up indirectly in the Committee on Foreign Relations this morning, when Andrew Furuseth of the International Seamen's Union, who was one of the American delegates to the recent conference at London on safety at sea, appeared in opposition of the convention adopted by the conference.

"How many American ships are there that might be penalized if we rejected this convention and adopted our own rules?" asked Senator O'Gorman of New York.

"Six on the Atlantic and twelve on the Pacific," answered Mr. Furuseth.

The Senator seemed to think these small figures were an additional argument for the development of an American merchant marine by the grant of free passage through the Panama Canal.

When Secretary Bryan appeared before the committee he argued for the indefinite extension of the general arbitration treaties instead of their extension for a period of five years. The suggestion received little encouragement. Mr. O'Gorman, Mr. Chamberlain, and Mr. Smith of Michigan, all of whom are opposed to toll repeal and to arbitration, feel that these general treaties throw the doors open to international trouble, and they indicated that they would move slowly, if at all, in the direction pointed out by Mr. Bryan.

There is much anxiety here to know the feeling of the country on the subject of tolls. The belief is that popular sentiment, if it expresses itself in time, will turn many votes one way or the other.

Oliver Now Against Repeal.

To-day Mr. Oliver of Pennsylvania declared emphatically that the sentiment in Pennsylvania was so strongly against repeal that he had decided to reverse the position he took when he voted against the exemption two years ago. At that time he thought the treaty was binding but he thinks now it is a debatable question. In this course Mr. Oliver is supporting his colleague, Mr. Penrose, who is up for re-election.

Mr. Oliver made this explanation to-day:

"After considering the subject from every point of view, I have decided to vote against the repeal. I voted against exemption in the last Congress, because it then seemed to me that it was a violation of our treaty obligations, and I am one of those who believe in sticking to a bargain, no matter at what cost, but the subsequent discussion has convinced me that this point is at least debatable, with the weight of opinion in favor of the contention that no violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is involved.

"Less than two years ago the Congress by an overwhelming majority decided on exempting our own coastwise shipping from tolls. That action stands as the settled policy of the American people. We are now asked to reverse that policy without a single reason being given for such reversal. I cannot see why I should favor any such action.

"If I had any doubt about my duty in this contingency, that doubt would be solved by the sentiment of my State, which is so overwhelmingly against repeal as to be practically unanimous."

Seeking to have members of the House of Representatives go on record officially that they have surrendered no American right, Representative Hunter H. Moss, Jr., of West Virginia offered to the House to-day a resolution asserting that the passage of the Sims Repeal bill was "in no sense to be construed as waiving or denying any right possessed by the United States to grant exemption from tolls to her vessels of war and commerce."

So far as could be learned there is no present disposition to pass the Moss resolution, which was referred to a committee for consideration, because there is little desire in the House to revive the controversy which raged there so bitterly prior to the passage of the Sims bill last Tuesday. The Senate is now in possession of the Sims bill, interest in the tolls fight is focusing on that body, and House members generally prefer to await the action of that body instead of precipitating another fight over the same proposal in the House.

The Administration's attitude on the tolls issue will be a feature of a speech Secretary Bryan will make at Paterson, N. J., to-morrow night, in support of the candidacy of Mr. O'Byrne, Democratic nominee for Congress in the Seventh District.

CAT ATE THE BAROMETER.

Chef Mourns the Loss of Frogs That Foretold the Weather.

M. Ricroche, the chef of the Vanderbilt Hotel, was grieving yesterday afternoon. It was on account of the animal barometer which he had installed in the kitchen of the hotel and which had become the chief attraction of those who work therein. The barometer had disappeared and the boy Giovanni was responsible.

The barometer was working splendidly. The two frogs which constituted the major part of it went up and down the ladder in the fruit jar with the pressure of the air. As long as it was damp, they remained in or near the water at the lower end, but when the sun came out they would climb to its topmost rung.

Yesterday morning M. Ricroche noticed that the water had almost disappeared from the jar, and he told the boy Giovanni to put some more in the jar. Giovanni hastened to obey. In his hurry he splashed the water in the vessel and the two frogs, on whom already the chef had conferred the names of Abelard and Heloise, because of romantic associations of his early youth in la belle France, forgot their business was to indicate weather. The splash was too much of a shock, and they shot up in the air like the red alcohol of a cheap thermometer when you put a match to the bulb.

Nearby crouched Mimi, the cat, who was just snooping around for a dainty of some sort. M. Ricroche does not know to this hour whether it was Abelard or Heloise that first caught her eyes. One or the other perished at her first spring, and then the other was captured on its second hop.

FURLOUGH AT PASSOVER.

Government Grants Committee's Plea for Jews in Army and Navy.

The officers of the Jewish Soldiers and Sailors' Passover Committee, organized on March 21 at a meeting in the Hotel Astor to request a furlough for Jews in the United States Army and Navy during Passover week, met yesterday at the Broadway Central Hotel to hear reports. The officers of the Committee are A. Alexander, President of the National Gum and Mica Company, Chairman; Joseph B. Marcus, President of the People's Bank, Treasurer; Capt. Lewis Landes, Secretary, and Henry Berlin, Chairman of the Arrangements Committee. Among the members of the Executive Committee are Borough President Marks, Judge Rosalsky, and Judge Joseph I. Green of the City Court.

Mr. Berlin said after the meeting that letters had been received from Secretary of War Garrison and Secretary of the Navy Daniels announcing that the army and navy men of Jewish faith would get the desired furlough.

"We will have special celebrations on April 10 and 11 at Tuxedo Hall, 594 Madison Avenue, with a Passover dinner each day," he continued, "at which there will be many prominent people from New York and vicinity. The services will be conducted by the Rev. S. Schulman of the Temple Beth-El, and the Passover dinner will be under the supervision of Rabbi M. S. Margolies."

QUITS WEIGHTS BUREAU.

Mayor Accepts Walsh's Resignation as Commissioner.

John L. Walsh, Commissioner of Weights and Measures, resigned yesterday. The Mayor announced that he expected to be able to appoint his successor before May 1.

"Commissioner Walsh, of the Bureau of Weights and Measures, has notified me that he desires to be relieved from service by May 1," the Mayor said, "in order to accept an attractive business offer which has been tendered to him. I regret that he is leaving the city service, as I believe that his administration of the Bureau of Weights and Measures has been exceptionally good, and that he has built it up into an effective and businesslike department."

Commissioner Walsh was appointed by the late Mayor Gaynor on Dec. 15, 1910, to succeed Clement Driscoll. The salary is $5,000 a year.

MRS. MORSE'S ANTS ESCAPE

Recaptured and Placed in Explosives Jar by Entomological Officials.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Mrs. Charles W. Morse's pet ants, already the cause of many complexities, escaped in the Department of Agriculture to-day and threw the entomological office into an uproar. After an hour's pursuit they were recaptured and placed in a jar labeled "explosives."

The legal officers of the department are trying to decide whether they must be returned to the banker's wife or excluded from the country as pests.

Arrests Booking Agent as Pickpocket

Detective John J. Finn arrested Irving Wingate, a vaudeville booking agent, of 1,526 Boston Road, in the Bronx, at the Ninety-sixth Street Subway station last night and took him to the Mulberry Street Station. The detective said he had seen Wingate open the chatelaine bag of Mrs. Lena Rinaldo of 31 West 111th Street and take out a purse containing a $2 bill, some small change, and a latch key. He said he had called Mrs. Rinaldo's attention to her loss and had then followed Wingate onto a northbound train, where he found Mrs. Rinaldo's purse, emptied of the money, beside him. Wingate denied the charge.

Dollar Grafting in Borough Hall.

An instance of what he considered the "pettiest of petty grafting" was detected by Building Superintendent P. J. Carlin of Brooklyn yesterday, and because of it the corridors of the Borough Hall were cleared of loiterers. An Italian who could speak but little English called to see about a building law violation. A hanger-on obtained $1 from him on the pretence of having the violation removed. Supt. Carlin compelled the grafter to return the money.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The disturbance that was over the east lower Lake region Wednesday night continued its rapid northeastward movement with increasing intensity, and to-night it is off the northeast Canadian Coast.

General rains and snows continued over the north districts east of the Mississippi River with a considerable fall in temperature, and it is also cooler in the East Gulf States, but with fair weather.

In the South Atlantic States temperatures were high, with fair weather except in Florida, where there were scattered rains. Marked high pressure prevails over the Northwest, but low pressure over the Southwest has resulted in generally unsettled weather with some rains in the Missouri Valley and the Southwest, and rains and snows in Western Montana.

It is considerably colder in the Northwest, while in the Southwest and Far West temperatures are high for the season.

Generally fair weather will prevail over the East and South during the next two days, with moderately low temperatures over the North and some fall over the South districts. In the West conditions will be unsettled.

Winds for Friday and Saturday along the North and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be moderate north breezes; South Atlantic Coast, gentle west to northwest except light, variable winds off the Florida Coast.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday.........3¾@4% for the best names
Wednesday.........3⅞@4% " " "
The quotation is for six months' paper.

A Welcome Customer.

One bright spot in the dry goods market has been supplied in the last two or three days by the buyers for a New England concern, which has recently taken over a well-known store in that part of the country. It is estimated that these buyers alone have contracted for $50,000 worth of merchandise since their arrival in this market, and it is said that they want the goods so badly that they are ordering express deliveries in many instances.

⁂

Weather Holding Up Dry Goods.

The weather is said to be holding greater sway than ever this year over the fortunes of the dry goods trade, and a day of rain or cold is said immediately to show its effect on the buying done in this market on seasonable goods. Complaints of quiet were heard on almost every side yesterday, and a practically unanimous belief was expressed that sunshine, taken once a day for eight or ten consecutive hours, was the only cure for present ills along this line. The silk merchants seem to be the only real optimists in sight at the moment.

Handicap for the Foreigner.

Besides the delivery question, another handicap that is placed on foreign manufacturers who would do business here is that of allowances. The clothing manufacturer in this market examines his fabric closely, and, if a flaw appears, the mill has to make good. For instance, the mill will make good for excessive shrinkage, and if goods are manufactured that are poorly shaded, the domestic mill foots the bill. The foreign piece goods manufacturer, from all accounts, does not like to do business in this manner. Once the goods are delivered and out of his hands, his responsibility for their condition ceases.

Styles for Fall Overcoats.

Two or three weeks should give clothing manufacturers a line on just how the overcoat demand will shape up. Orders will then begin to come in from the men on the road. To liven up the situation, manufacturers have broken away from the close, form fitting overcoat and a number of styles are shown in the freer effects. Balmacaans and adaptations of this design figure largely in the offerings. The usual Balmacaan and buttoned-up collar is embodied in the garments, along with the regular lapel and military collar. An overcoat a little out of the ordinary is made with the sleeves and back of one piece of goods. This gives the desired kimona sleeve effect. It is doubtful if shawl collars and belted backs will be featured very strongly for the Fall.

What Fixes the Price.

It is not the quantity of foreign merchandise that is sold in this market that is hurting the business of the domestic people, it is said, but the lower prices on the goods from abroad. While the amount of foreign manufactured dress goods sold here is small, and the low prices consequently should not exert the influence they do, domestic mills are compelled to meet this competition and make prices accordingly. Another feature that is vexing mill agents is the proportions that the sales of cuts have assumed. If he had the same number of orders for sample pieces that he has taken for cuts, according to one seller, his mills would be sold up for the season. The cut piece business is a profitless one, and no relief seems to be in sight while the cutters up continue to turn out the number of styles they do.

Effect of the Balmacaan Fad.

The present fad for balmacaans and similar styles has created a demand for fabrics of the better grades, according to a dress goods factor. The reason for this is, he explained, because no lining is used, and to give the garments the necessary finish and appearance more expensive goods are required. While this is particularly true of cloakings the general tendency seems to be among the coat and suit manufacturers to use better suitings as well. Aside from this, the question of just how long balmacaans and donegal tweeds will continue to remain popular is a source of worry at the present moment to sellers. No one seems to have the answer, and opinions on the subject are for the most part admitted to be guess work. The fact remains, however, that the mills have a good many more orders on hand for these fabrics than they expect to fill. One case is cited where the orders exceed by two-thirds the amount of deliveries that can be made.

Times Have Changed.

Times have changed a good deal since the days of the Garden of Eden, when a single fig leaf was supposed to have been the wardrobe of the mother of men, Madame Eve. Nowadays, Japanese scientists have figured, it requires 288 pounds of mulberry leaves to make a single dress for the modern woman. Eighteen moths also do their part in making the dress, they having laid the eighteen packages of eggs from which were hatched the 6,400 worms that ate the 288 pounds of mulberry leaves. These worms produced about 5.6 pounds of cocoons, from which were reeled ten skeins of raw silk, or 1.6 pounds of silk. These data have been obtained from an exhibit recently put on display by Tata Sons & Co., raw silk dealers of 450 Fifth Avenue, and which is described in the current issue of The American Silk Journal. The exhibit was originally shown by the Tokio Sericultural Institute at Tokio, Japan, but was afterward purchased by the Tata Company.

Raw Silk Prices Advance.

An advance of about $5 per picul of 133 pounds featured the past week's activities in the Yokohama raw silk market, according to cables received here by H. L. Gwalter & Co. Sales for the week amounted to 4,000 bales, and really good silks are now getting extremely scarce there. The Canton market is reported firmer in sympathy with the Japanese advance, and reelers are showing a disposition to hold off on new silks unless full prices are offered. A better feeling at Shanghai is also reported as a result of the resumption of buying of tsatlee silks for American account. Steam filatures continue to be firmly held at recent high prices. Reports from Milan tell of a quiet market, with prices firm. Offerings are very light there, as half of the filatures are closed. The local market continues active on silks wanted for immediate or nearby delivery, but manufacturers show a lack of willingness to contract for future deliveries until the trend of the style demand for Fall becomes more definite.

Cotton Men Need Export Trade.

Prominent sellers of cotton goods in the Worth Street district were firm in their opinions yesterday that business in cotton goods as a whole could not show the desired improvement until there was a real awakening of the export demand. Foreign business on sheetings and similar constructions is especially desired, for it is contended that no profit can be made on these goods by the producers so long as they are maintained at their present price levels. The recent strengthening of the print cloth end of the market has brightened the business atmosphere a little, but, as small evidence of improvement has been seen in other lines following this advance, a good part of its stimulating effect has been lost. Experienced merchants admit that under present circumstances they can do no more than speculate on the future, the usual signs telling which way the wind will blow being almost entirely missing. It is conceded by many, however, that until the export demand becomes large enough to consume the surplus produce of the domestic looms there is little chance for real improvement. In other words, it is maintained that production has become too large for home consumption under anything less than boom conditions.

Gray Goods Business Quiet.

The strength of the local gray goods market at the moment is tending to keep buyers a little less active than they were a week ago this time, when the upturn really began. There was a fair business done yesterday, however, a few very good lots of 38½-inch 64-60s being disposed of at 5⅛ cents. This is the figure at which the mills had been holding these goods since the advance began, but yesterday was the first time that the buyers seemed willing to accept it. The same thing held true of 38½-inch 60-48s, which were sold at 4⅜ cents. These sales were the dominating features of the day's trading, though some good sales of 39-inch 68-72s were put through at 5¾ cents. Buyers were again looking for 80 squares at 7 cents, but the sales made on them for delivery this side of the half year were put through at 7⅛ cents, though some of the mills are now asking 7¼ cents. In narrow goods 27-inch 64-60s led, being disposed of at 3 5-16 cents. A better call for sheetings and drills was reported during the day, but there were no price changes reported. Current figures on these goods are regarded as low by sellers, and, though buyers seem unwilling to admit the possibility of it, there is a firm belief in well-posted quarters that values on these goods will share the upturn of print-cloths before long.

Low Prices and Poor Estimates.

The statement was made to a TIMES reporter yesterday by one of the best-known men in the dry goods trade that much of the present complaint concerning the lack of profit in the manufacture of cotton goods at their present selling prices was due to improper methods of cost calculation on the part of some of the less-experienced mill Treasurers.

"There isn't a doubt in my mind," he said, "that some of the cotton mills, both in the North and the South, are selling goods to-day at figures that admit of no profit, if they do not mean actual loss. This is especially true of mills making narrow print cloths. While many of the mills may be accepting such prices because they cannot get better ones and want to keep their organizations intact, I believe the real root of the trouble to be that the Treasurers of other mills are making these prices and thinking that they are at least breaking even. In more than one instance a poor cost calculator has worked havoc with business for some time by underfiguring until he has either had his mistake pointed out to him or has been handed over to a receiver. I am told that in the ribbon trade there is an association Cost Calculation Bureau that has worked miracles in putting that business on a profitable basis by showing how the work should be done. There is certainly room for some Good Samaritan in the cotton goods business to come forward with a similar project."

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Among Others One That Wheat, Even if Frozen, Is Still Wheat.

Steel needles used in phonographs and gramophones were held yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers to be properly dutiable as parts of talking machines at 45 per cent. ad valorem, as provided for in Paragraph 468 of the Tariff act of 1909. Landay Brothers of this city were the importers. Judge Sullivan, in overruling the contention of the protestants to have the needles classed as manufactures of wire, says that it is established beyond dispute that the needles are of no use except in connection with the machines, and are used entirely in the production of records.

It was decided yesterday by the board that frozen wheat does not cease to be "wheat" within the meaning of the Tariff act of 1909 so long as it is capable of being used to make bread for human consumption, as well as of germinating to a limited extent. Wilfred Schade & Co., Chicago, imported from Canada 84,045 bushels of the commodity, described on the invoice as "feed wheat." Of this amount 80,000 bushels were invoiced at 5½ cents per bushel, and the balance at 55 cents a bushel. On entry the importers added 3 1-3 cents a bushel to make market value. The Collector took duty at 25 cents a bushel as wheat, whereas the protestants claimed the shipment to be an unenumerated unmanufactured article dutiable at 10 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 480.

The testimony showed that the freezing of the wheat had checked its maturity, reducing the starchy parts of the commodity and tending to make it lighter by weight. Some of the wheat was sent to the Department of Agriculture, where it was tested for its bread-making qualities. The test showed the loaf from the frozen wheat to be about two-thirds the size of the standard loaf, somewhat sticky, but with an odor and flavor not unpleasant. It was also demonstrated that a certain proportion of the frozen wheat would germinate. In finding against the importers Judge Waite says that the wheat could be used successfully, if the necessities required, as wholesome food for human use, although not likely to satisfy the most fastidious taste. It is accordingly held to be wheat within the meaning of the law.

A contention raised by J. C. Klein, New York, regarding the classification under the old law of table damask articles composed of flax was overruled. Collector Malone returned the goods for duty at 45 per cent. under the provision in the law for manufactures of flax.

The L. Weisberg Company, Philadelphia, stated in a protest that the shipper inadvertently gave to a certain item of basins a lower value than that given to larger size basins on the same invoice. This was claimed to be a manifest clerical error. The board, however, holds that the error was not "manifest" to the Collector in the official papers and overruled the claim.

CALL WATER BILL INFAMOUS

Queens Democrats Condemn "Rapacious" Foley-Maier Measure.

Opposition to the Foley-Maier water bill is increasing in Queens and indignation meetings are to be held in all parts of that Borough. Resolutions condemning the measure have been passed by the regular Democratic organization of the county. The resolutions refer to the measure as the "infamous Foley-Maier water bill," and continues, in part:

"Resolved, That we, the members of the Queens County Democratic Executive Committee do unqualifiedly denounce this rapacious measure and, should it be enacted into a law, one that will place the Borough of Queens entirely at the mercy of the grasping private water companies now operating in this borough."

It was also resolved to send representatives to the public hearing in Albany on April 10.

Would Drop Time Limit on Treaties.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Secretary Bryan proposed to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to-day that arbitration treaties be drawn to run indefinitely instead of being negotiated for periods of five years, as at present. Mr. Bryan pointed out that several treaties would expire under the five-year limit in a short time.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

M. T. C. WATERMAN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Martin T. C. Waterman, wholesale dealer in leather, at 20 Spruce Street, by Lesser Brothers for these creditors: Monarch Leather Company, $1,315; United Leather Company, $500, and Samuel L. Agoos, $27. It was alleged that he is insolvent, made preferential payments, and delivered $1,000 worth of goods to a creditor named Beebe to prefer him.

IDEAL WAIST BAND COMPANY.—Judge Hough has appointed Nathaniel Walkof receiver for Isidor Pilser, doing business as the Ideal Waist Band Company, at 50 Lispenard Street, under a bond of $500. Frank Duberstein, a creditor, said that on April 1, at 9:30 A. M., a wagon full of goods was removed from the place of business. He learned that the goods were marked to P. Grady, Newark. Mr. Duberstein went to the place again at 12 o'clock and saw other goods put on a wagon and the driver said he was ordered to take them to the Pennsylvania Railroad depot, but had no shipping instructions. Mr. Duberstein prevented the disposal of the second load and the goods are now in a storage warehouse. The two loads were worth about $500 and the goods left in the place of business are probably worth $300.

A. STERN & CO., (corporation), dealers in millinery at 448 Fifth Avenue, have filed schedules which show liabilities of $46,100 and assets of $2,000 in stock and some accounts, amount unknown. Among the creditors are Andrew J. Robinson & Co., $15,000, secured; M. J. Krause & Co., $8,000, secured, and C. Callmann, $2,687.

CHEMICAL REFINING COMPANY, of 111 Broadway, has filed schedules in an assignment which show liabilities of $17,386, nominal assets of $28,967, and actual assets of $3,589.

PERFUMERS' DISCUSSIONS.

One of the Topics the Price-Fixing on Trade-Mark Goods.

The second day's convention of the Manufacturing Perfumers' Association at the Whitehall Club in the Battery Place Building was devoted to talks on various matters connected with the trade. John Clyde Oswald, President of the National Editorial Association, discussed the business outlook at considerable length. The speaker said the present was an age of regulation by the Government in business, and should be accepted as inevitable under all the circumstances. Mr. Oswald's address was optimistic in tone, and concluded with the prediction that all would turn out favorably for business in the end.

Gilbert H. Montague, member of the Legal Committee of the American Fair Trade League, described the so-called Stevens bill, which has been introduced into the House of Representatives. This measure, if enacted, permits the fixing of prices on trade-mark goods in such a manner as not to conflict with the Sherman anti-trust law. The bill has been referred to the Judiciary Committee. In case of a favorable report its passage is anticipated.

To-day's session will be given up to the reports of committees and the election of officers. This evening the annual banquet of the association will be held at the Hotel Biltmore.

THE IDEAL INVESTMENT

Some securities combine a great degree of safety with a very low yield. Others return a liberal income, but are not sufficiently secured. Between the two lies the ideal investment for the average business man—the security which combines a fair yield with reasonable safety. We are competent to assist business men in the selection of their investments and are glad to do so.

Good Security For Your Money

Cheap power reduces materially the cost of manufacture. Cheap power is, therefore, a very important factor in the economic development of industrial and commercial enterprises, and in the sound growth of those communities situated within its area of distribution. Hence when hydro-electric plants have available ample water supply, ample generating capacity, and an assured market for their output, the properties constitute one of the best forms of security on which to base conservative investment bonds. Ask us to send you Circular 1427 describing Hydro-Electric Bonds.

Prices rose a little further yesterday, but the pace was slower notwithstanding some increase in the volume of transactions. The issues which were effected only by general influences moved very little, and the items of news which assumed importance in the eyes of the market were not numerous enough to affect more than a few issues. The denial of the injunction sought in one of the actions to prevent the Union Pacific's distribution of its Baltimore & Ohio holdings caused an advance in Union Pacific and a decline in Baltimore & Ohio. This was on the theory that the former would receive market stimulus in the proposed distribution, while the market for Baltimore & Ohio would have to absorb a large additional supply of that stock.

Action recently taken by the company will delay the proposed distribution until July 1 even if all legal obstacles are cleared away by that time, and there is still pending another injunction suit which remains to be settled before the Union Pacific plan can be carried through. This matter hardly looms large, however, as a market influence inasmuch as the Union Pacific's purpose to reduce its dividends from 10 per cent. to 8 per cent. in connection with the distribution of its Baltimore & Ohio shares more or less neutralizes the distribution so far as the stock market is concerned.

Missouri Pacific figured even more largely in the trading than on other days since the stock was brought into prominence by the reports of an impending change in the controlling interest in this property. Such an arrangement lies, apparently, entirely in the future, although it is understood that banking support for such a transaction is assured should the controlling stock become available for purchase. Meanwhile, the recent forward movement, apart from the rumors which stimulated the advance, finds partial explanation in the fact that there has of late been considerable absorption of the stock in odd lots. This buying apparently has been based on inferences drawn from the programme of upbuilding upon which the Missouri Pacific management entered some time ago.

Further recovery in New York State and New York City issues, which reacted on Wednesday's news of a large new bond offering by the City, carried practically all of these issues within an eighth of the high prices lately recorded in them with the exception of the City 4¼s, which, of course, most directly feel the effect of the forthcoming issue of $65,000,000 4¼ per cent. bonds. The advance trading in the new bonds carried their price yesterday to 101½, and even above, advancing them over the price of the outstanding 4¼s. These movements emphasized the belief entertained in the financial district that the City had chosen a very opportune time for this new issue.

Financial Notes.

Arthur L. Mohler, President of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, and Michael Dreicer of Dreicer & Co. were yesterday elected Directors of the Harriman National Bank.

The Bank of New York received $200,000 and the Chase National Bank $175,000 in gold from Canada yesterday. In the last ten days banks in this city have received $1,375,000 in gold from the Dominion.

The syndicate composed of Colgate, Parker & Co., White, Weld & Co., and Herbert Winthrop & Co., which offered $1,400,000 Buffalo, Richester & Pittsburgh 4½ per cent. consolidated mortgage bonds, announces that the issue has been sold.

The Southern Railway has ordered forty passenger and combination coaches from the Pressed Steel Car Company and ten from the American Car and Foundry Company.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Regularity of Trouble.

When railroad Presidents pointed to the lamentable showing made on most of the Eastern lines in February the lawyers opposing the freight increase answered that the big losses were the result of extraordinary snow storms and that it would be manifestly unfair to base an increase in rates, effective the year round, on the peculiar conditions obtaining in a single month. That is true enough, but the years are rare in which the railroads do not suffer from some record breaking catastrophe in one form or another. If there were no droughts and no floods, no hurricanes, no strikes, no periods of extremely low temperature, no tariff changes, the work of a railroad executive would be too dull to interest the class of men holding positions of responsibility. What the railroad management can always expect is the unexpected. The surplus of to-day may be the deficit of to-morrow.

An Echo From Last Year.

A year from to-day the annual report of the Panhandle will almost certainly contain a brief account of the recent storms that upset all operating estimates. Last year's report, issued yesterday, tells of the disastrous floods which raised havoc with the Panhandle in March, 1913. Commencing on the 23d of that month, more than three months' normal rain fell in less than three days over the northern parts of the drainage basin of the Ohio River and its tributaries. In the districts affected hundreds of miles of track were submerged, and bridges, roadbed and tracks were swept away. The Pandhandle lines, crossing valleys that were made wide lakes, were seriously damaged. Fifteen large bridge spans were destroyed and fifteen more badly damaged, which necessitated the construction of two and a quarter miles of trestle for temporary use, and 105 miles of track had to be relaid. The floods caused a complete prostration of business for many weeks in some of the larger cities in the district and the loss in revenue to the railroad was very large, not only during the period that the lines were closed to traffic, but for many weeks afterward. On the main line the principal divisions were put out of service on March 25 and service was not completely restored until April 13. The floods caused a total expenditure of $1,800,000 just to put back what had been there before.

A Lull in Brokerage.

It was so quiet in Wall Street yesterday that the shouts of the men at work on the new Morgan building could be heard from Trinity Church to the East River. Everybody said that there ought to be business—and that there certainly would be business just as soon as the Interstate Commerce board saw its duty—but there was not enough trading to keep more than a small proportion of the clerks in the stock and bond houses busy. The total sales were only 210,000 shares. A broker who had been fishing in Southern waters telegraphed his partner on touching port to know if he should hurry back or prolong his trip. The partner listened for a moment for the ticker and then wired to the sportsman to keep on fishing.

***

Lake Strike Now a Memory.

Officers of mining companies in the Lake Superior copper region say the strike has entirely played out and that labor is plentiful. The mine owners are standing as firmly as ever on their determination not to recognize the Western Federation of Miners, and there is occasional evidence of friction over the re-employment of men who took out union cards when the strike was on. The companies are not in a position to increase their forces to the size they were before the trouble began, for the reason that there are many repairs to be made after the long suspension. It is not expected that operations will be at full capacity until Spring is well advanced.

***

Europe's Demand for Copper.

Europe continues to take American copper on a heavy scale. In consequence, the skepticism recently heard in some circles of the trade about copper exports has considerably abated. There were many who maintained when huge shipments of the metal were reported from day to day in March that little copper sent abroad was for immediate consumption. The argument was that most of it was going into storage, to relieve a dull market of its presence. Copper producers say frankly that large quantities of copper undoubtedly have gone into stocks abroad, but they point out that the persistent flow from this side means a great deal more than an increase of supplies in Europe. The reflection of a real manufacturing demand was given yesterday in a fractional increase of the price for electrolytic in London. At the same time, the quotation at this centre remained at 14⅝ cents.

***

No Talk Heard of Wage Cuts.

Although the steel mills have been working far below capacity since the middle of last month, there is no talk of impending wage reductions. In many plants the men are working on part time, and this has relieved pressure on pay schedules. A leading factor in the maintenance of wages, however, is the attitude which employers have taken toward the matter. They realize that wage reductions tend to decrease efficiency and bring about the disruption of a competent staff of men. For the same reason employers think long before taking any drastic measures during a strike, such as evictions from houses furnished by the company. The training of a proficient force of men is a task difficult enough to insure forethought in responsible quarters.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Nearly one-third of the business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was in Union Pacific. The decision against the Equitable Life on its application for an injunction to prevent the Union Pacific from making an extra distribution to holders of its common stock stimulated large buying of Union Pacific in the early trading. At the same time Baltimore & Ohio declined sharply. The market undertone generally reflected firmness, with the opening prices at 9:30 o'clock showing, as a rule, small fractional gains, which were improved upon somewhat afterward.

London Market Benefits by Improved Political Situation—Paris Prices Firm.

LONDON, April, 2.—Money was dearer and discount rates were harder today on the Bank of England statement.

The stock market continued to benefit by the calm political atmosphere and cheap money. The letter helped investment issues most, while Kaffirs and copper shares advanced on increased speculative buying. Consols declined in the afternoon under realizing.

The £16,000,000 Austrian 4 per cent. bond issue, which has been expected for sometime, will soon be offered, at about 95¼.

PARIS, April 2.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes 86 francs 92½ centimes for the account.

BERLIN, April 2.—The Boerse opened weaker to-day. Later the market reacted, and closed generally higher.

U. S. EXPRESS WINDING UP.

Cancels Railroad Contracts and Is Closing Foreign Agencies.

The United Express Company has notified the railroads over which it carries packages that all its transportation contracts will be terminated by June 30. The company's fiscal year ends on that date, and the officers plan to drop completely out of the express business when the fiscal period is completed. Thereafter the sale of assets will take place as fast as possible, and the affairs of the company wound up.

A number of railroad contracts will be abrogated on April 30, others on May 31 and the remainder on the last day of June. The reason for setting different dates is that the contracts call for 30, 60 or 90 days' notice in case they are to be discontinued. As a matter of fact, contracts over several important roads ran out some time ago. The Reading Railroad contract, for one, expired in 1908 while that with the Lehigh Valley ended in 1906 and business has been continued under a stipulation that either party could annul the agreement on 90 days' notice. The contract with the Baltimore & Ohio has until 1917 to run. The express company simply informed the Baltimore & Ohio that it would cease doing business over its lines on June 30, and so far no intimation has come from the railroad that this summary action will be opposed.

The principal roads over which the express company has an exclusive privilege are the Baltimore & Ohio, the Central of New Jersey, the Reading, Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Rock Island, the Frisco system and the Pere Marquette. The contracts required that the company pay the roads from 45 to 50 per cent. of gross revenue obtained from the transportation of packages.

The United States Company will also wind up its foreign business on June 30. J. S. Biggar, head of the foreign department, has been in Europe for a month attending to final details in closing the agencies there.

NEW BAILEY WILL TRIAL.

Justice Tompkins Sets Aside Verdict for Contestants.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 2.—The verdict of the jury in the Supreme Court setting aside the will of the late Mrs. Ruth Louisa Bailey, who inherited $5,000,000 from her husband, James A. Bailey, the circus man, was set aside by Justice Tompkins to-day. In a long decision he finds that the verdict was contrary to the evidence and grants a new trial, which may tie up the estate for many months. The contest was brought by Mrs. Anna Isabel Hutchinson, a sister of Mrs. Bailey, who inherited $10,000 a year for life. If the verdict of the jury had been upheld she would have been $500,000 richer.

Justice Tompkins in his decision says: "There is no proof of the exercise of any undue influence by Joseph T. McCaddon, nor do the circumstances justify such an inference. I have reached the conclusion that the verdict is clearly against the weight of evidence on the question of undue influence, and that it ought not to stand. To find undue influence, under the circumstances of this case, would be mere conjecture, or speculation, or the possibility that it may have been used by McCaddon from the fact that he had a motive and an opportunity, by reason of his confidential position, to exercise it.

"It was only natural that Mrs. Bailey should select her brother, who had been previously connected with her husband's show business, to manage and direct her affairs, after her husband's death. I fear the jury undertook to do this in this case what juries often undertake in actions of this character, namely, to make such a will for Mrs. Bailey as they thought she would have made, disregarding altogether her right to make it to suit herself."

DEAL FOR GOULD ROADS OFF

Helen Gould Shepard Wouldn't Sell for Sentimental Reasons.

Despite denials from those supposed to be most directly concerned in the report, belief persists in the financial district that negotiations for the sale of the Gould family's large stock holdings in Missouri Pacific and its allied properties had reached an advanced stage when they were broken off. The negotiations were ended, it was reported yesterday, because of the refusal of George Gould to sell enough shares to give the oil capitalists a dominant interest.

A representative of the Goulds admitted that the deal might have been consummated only for a leak in the negotiations that enabled outsiders to take the market away from the contracting parties. It was also said that Mrs. Finley J. Shepard had for sentimental reasons refused to include her holdings with those of her brother.

An attempt was made yesterday to see John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in regard to the rumored deal for Missouri Pacific. Mr. Rockefeller would not be seen, but he volunteered to answer questions put to him in writing. Two questions were submitted. One was:

"Are the Rockefeller interests negotiating for acquisition of the Gould holdings of Missouri Pacific stock?"

The answer to this was "No." The other was:

"If not, are any other negotiations affecting control of Missouri Pacific under way, and what interests are concerned?"

KOCHERSPERGER RESIGNS.

H. M. Kochersperger, Vice President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford in charge of finance and accounting, has resigned on account of ill health. He has been granted leave of absence until July 1 next, after which he will draw a pension under the company's rules. His duties in the accounting department will be assumed by J. M. Tomlinson, General Auditor, and in the financial department by A. S. May, Treasurer.

Mr. Kochersperger has been with the New Haven for twenty-seven years. For six years prior to that he had been with the old New England Railroad. From May 1, 1887, to January, 1904, he was Controller; from Jan. 1, 1904, to Nov. 16, 1906, he was Third Vice President, and on Nov. 17, 1906, he was elected Vice President.

Mr. Kochersperger was a leading member of the American Association of Accounting Officers, and for a time served as its President. He was one of the Committee of Twenty-five that formulated the present standard accounting system.

COTTON EXCHANGE YIELDS.

Will Adopt Government Standards This Year Instead of Next.

The New Cotton Exchange has again yielded to public sentiment, as voiced by criticisms in Congress, by surrendering to the agitation for an earlier adoption of the Government's standards of grading cotton. In the resolution adopted two weeks ago the Exchange voted to conform to the Government system beginning on May 1, 1915. At a meeting of the Exchange managers yesterday it was decided to make the simpler standards and monthly revision effective as of Sept. 1, 1914.

Following the action of the managers in fixing the date of the change more than a year ahead the Exchange was subjected to a great deal of unfavorable criticism. To overcome this, and to show their good faith, the board voted to make the change during the current year.

CENTRAL'S BIG YEAR YIELDS SMALL GAIN

Volume of Business $7,206,000 Larger Than in 1912, but Net Increase Only $404,000.

MAINTENANCE COST HIGHER

That Item Alone Called for $39,526,233, or $4,458,000 More Than Was Spent the Year Before.

The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad and its controlled companies, the Chicago, Indiana & Southern, Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, Cincinnati Northern, Toledo & Ohio Central, Lake Erie & Western, Michigan Central, and Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, made public yesterday their annual reports for the year ended Dec. 31, 1913.

The Central earned from rail operations a total of $116,904,000, which was an increase of $7,206,000 over 1912. Its operating costs were $87,932,000, an increase of $6,802,000, and its net revenues $28,972,000, a gain of only $404,000. Operating costs took 75.2 per cent. of gross, as against 73.9 per cent. for the previous year.

Revenues from auxiliary operations were $5,780,000, and expenses $5,726,000. The company paid in taxes a total of $6,356,000, an increase of $462,000. Other income, including the Central's dividends on the stocks of controlled companies, was $16,668,000, a decrease of $1,211,000. The company paid out in rentals of leased lines, interest on bonds, and short-term notes, equipment trusts, &c., $26,095,000, a reduction of $900,000. Its surplus for shareholders was $13,243,000, a decrease of $639,000. The 5 per cent. dividend called for the payment of $11,243,000, leaving a net surplus of $2,000,000

Rail operating revenues showed large increases through the earlier months of the year, the increase up to Oct. 31 being $7,784,039, but in November and December revenues declined $577,342.

The revenue of passenger train transportation was $44,470,102, an increase of $2,989,205 over 1912. Of this amount the revenue from express traffic was $4,708,835, a decrease of $23,892, due to shrinkage in business. Mail revenue was $3,017,827, an increase of $486,683, which accrued in the last six months, due to the adjustment of mail pay based on the regular quadrennial weighing of mail carried, which took place in the Spring of 1913. The remuneration to the railroad company for parcel post matter carried was based on the limit of eleven pounds, no provision having been made as yet by Congress for compensation for the additional weights of mail carried consequent on the enlargement of the parcel post weight limit. The situation in reference to railway mail pay is still unsatisfactory, President Smith says.

Operating expenses, by groups, were:

		Increase.
Maintenance of way	$16,941,987	$2,292,922
Traffic expenses	2,284,267	*25,349
Transportation expenses	43,165,465	2,201,571
General expenses	2,956,074	167,920
Auxiliary operations	5,725,537	470,479

*Decrease.

Taxes on railroad property accrued during the year were $6,356,545, equal to 5.18 per cent. of the gross revenue from railroad and auxiliary operations and $135,294 larger than in 1912. A saving of $38,000 in taxes payable on capital stock to the State of New York was effected by the cancellation of the capital stock of the roads merged and consolidated. A decrease of $187,176 in the taxes on real estate and of $7,363 for special franchises occurred. The year's accounts, however, include a charge of $835,512, being the amount of county tax for recording the new mortgage executed after the close of the year.

The Federal Government excise tax on the income of corporations assessed against the Central and its leased lines on the net income of the year 1912 amounted to $147,366, an excess of $19,120 over the amount paid on the income of 1911 charged to the accounts of the year 1912.

The Government officers have insisted that the taxes assessed against leased lines must be paid, and they have been paid under protest, and suits have been brought for the recovery of all taxes so paid since the institution of the excise tax in 1909.

Charges on account of road and equipment	$82,947,558
Less value of equipment retired	4,029,201
Net addition to the company's property account	$78,918,357

The Michigan Central's gross revenues were $36,011,000, an increase of $3,100,000; but its expenses increased $4,304,000. Its net income was $1,283,000, a decrease of $1,443,000, of which $1,124,000 was required by the 6 per cent. dividend paid.

The Lake Shore did a gross business of $57,941,000, an increase over 1912 of $3,658,000. Its expenses increased $6,910,000, making a net decrease of $3,252,000, in spite of the larger amount of business done. The net income was $12,488,000, a decrease of $4,096,000. The 18 per cent. dividend required $9,000,000, leaving a balance of $3,488,000.

Maine Central's Earnings Drop.

PORTLAND, Me., April 2.—A net decrease of $39,568 in the operating earnings were shown by monthly statement issued to-day by the Maine Central Railroad Company. There was a decrease of $11,145 in the operating revenues and an increase of $28,423 in the operating expenses.

Bank Exchanges for March.

According to Dun's Review, which includes returns from 128 leading centres in the United States, bank exchanges for March amounted to $14,186,011,637, a gain of 1 per cent. as compared with the same month last year, but a decrease of 1.5 per cent. from the corresponding month in 1912. Conditions were most favorable in the Southern, Central, and Western States, more or less gain being shown by those sections. New York reported losses of .5 and 6.7 per cent., respectively, and the outside cities gains of 2.6 and 5.9 per cent., as contrasted with the two preceding years. Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, and San Francisco reported some falling off from last year's figures, but this was fully offset by improvement at St. Louis, New Orleans, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Kansas City.

BANK OF COMMERCE 75 YEARS OLD TO-DAY

Has Accumulated a Surplus of $16,939,541 and Resources of $216,000,000.

STARTED AS A STATE BANK

Julia Ward Howe's Father Its First President — Nationalized in 1864—Its Bonus Plan.

The National Bank of Commerce is 75 years old to-day. It was organized as a State bank on April 3, 1839, with a capital stock of $5,000,000, which was increased in 1856 to $10,000,000.

In 1864 it became a national bank. In 1877 the capital was reduced to $5,000,000, at which figure it remained until it absorbed the National Union Bank in 1900, when the capital was again increased to $10,000,000. When the Western National Bank was absorbed in 1903 the capital was increased to $25,000,000.

This is the present amount, the Bank of Commerce being one of the two in the city of this capitalization. Its surplus and undivided profits on March 4, the date of the last statement to the Controller of the Currency, were $16,939,541, and its total resources $216,000,000.

The bank's first President was Samuel Ward, a descendant of Gov. Samuel Ward of Rhode Island, who refused to enforce the Stamp act, and was a member of the first two Continental Congresses. Julia Ward Howe, his daughter, wrote:

"When New York was about to repudiate its debt, after Andrew Jackson's refusal to renew the charter of the Bank of the United States, my father undertook that his firm, Prime, Ward & King, should negotiate with English correspondents a loan to carry the State over the period of doubt and difficulty. A little later a dray loaded with kegs on which were inscribed the letters 'P. W. K.' was seen in Wall Street. Those kegs contained the gold just sent to the firm from England to help our State through this crisis."

Mr. Ward's tenure of office was brief, and after his death John Austin Stevens, Yale, 1813, was elected President on Dec. 5, 1839. Gen. Ebenezer Stevens, his father, participated in the "Boston Tea Party." Mr. Stevens resigned in 1866, but remained a Director until his death in 1874.

Charles Handy Russell, who was an original associate and a member of the first Board of Directors, was the next President, and in 1867 he was succeeded by Robert Lenox Kennedy. Henry F. Vail was President from 1878 until 1881, and Richard King held the office for the next ten years.

W. W. Sherman was President from 1892 to 1899, and Joseph Clifford Hendrix from 1900 to 1902, when Valentine P. Snyder was elected. James S. Alexander has been President since April 1, 1911.

The bank was founded by two bankers, two capitalists, two lawyers and twelve merchants as a strictly commercial bank, and the founders became its first Board of Directors. During its entire history it has had on its board a large representation of the commercial interests of the country.

As long ago as 1854 the Directors established a yearly bonus plan, paying at Christmas time 5 per cent. of their yearly salary to employes after their first five years of service, and 10 per cent. after their first ten years of service. During the latter years of the civil war and for many years thereafter the bank's Directors, in view of the rise in commodities, voted their employes bonuses ranging from 20 per cent. to 50 per cent. a year, until better times came.

The bank has furnished its employes a daily luncheon since 1866, and in 1884 it established a pension system. A few months ago the Directors inaugurated a new plan of pension, life insurance and disability insurance.

During its seventy-five years of existence the bank has never moved more than a few blocks. Its first home was in the Merchants' Exchange Building at 46 Wall Street. In 1842 it shared the building on what is now the site of the United States Assay Office. In 1855 it bought a lot at Nassau and Cedar Street for $230,000, and erected a four-story building, into which it moved the following year. In 1894 it bought the adjoining lot for $225,000, giving it 101 feet front on Nassau Street, and moved to temporary quarters at Nassau and Liberty Streets while erecting its present building, into which it moved on May 3, 1897.

JERSEY CENTRAL TERMINAL.

Reconstructed Station Will Be Opened for Use on Sunday.

When the second deck concourse and the main waiting rooms of the Jersey Central passenger terminal in Jersey City are opened to the public next Sunday, the reconstructed building will be completed. The new building provides easy access to the upper decks of the ferryboats by means of electric escalators. Stairways have been eliminated and the second deck is reached from the train level by inclined runways. These improvements will allow passengers to leave the ferryboats in half the time required hitherto.

The train yard is to be doubled in size immediately and the switching system will be improved. The new yard will extend almost a mile away from the terminal and will occupy the sites of the two roundhouses.

EQUITABLE LOSES U. P. 'MELON' SUIT

Meanwhile the Suit Brought by Other Preferred Shareholders Stays Actual Distribution.

The attempt of the Equitable Life Assurance Society to prevent the Union Pacific Railroad Company from distributing to holders of its common stock an extra dividend of $89,000,000 in stock and cash fell to pieces yesterday when Justice Greenbaum of the Supreme Court decided that the distribution could be made. The Equitable Company is the holder of $1,618,200 of the preferred stock of Union Pacific. It contended that payment of the proposed dividend to the holders of the $216,000,000 of common stock would tend to reduce the real value of the $100,000,000 of preferred.

The decision to make the distribution came at a meeting of the Directors of Union Pacific on Jan. 8 last. It was resolved to cut the melon on April 1. The resolution of the board was to distribute out of accumulated surplus as a dividend $12 in Baltimore & Ohio preferred stock, $22.50 in Baltimore & Ohio common, and $3 in cash for each share of Union Pacific common. The regular dividend was at the same time cut down from 10 per cent. to 8. The disbursement called for the distribution of $55,607,800 in B. & O. common stock, $28,480,000 in preferred stock, and $6,480,000 in cash.

Stock of the B. & O. of the par value of $42,000,000 was obtained by the Union Pacific in exchange for $38,292,000 of its treasury holdings of Southern Pacific stock in the process of dissolving the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger.

The effort of the Equitable to restrain the Union Pacific was not the only suit brought for the purpose. Another action was begun by J. T. McCadden and three associates. The parties to this suit contend that all stockholders should share alike in any distribution of assets.

In deciding against the Equitable application for an injunction Justice Greenbaum said:

"A corporation has a very wide discretion in determining when a dividend shall be made. There might be a difference of opinion in a given case as to the wisdom of accumulating a large surplus which otherwise would be applicable to the payment of dividends, but that would be a subject of legal interference when the discretion is fairly exercised. If the defendant corporation has a right to accumulate a surplus in securities, and if the securities appreciate in value, there is no reason why the profits arising from the investment should not be regarded as the profits of the business of the corporation.

"The agreement, however, reads that 'the preferred stock is entitled to no other or further share of the profits' than 'dividends in each and every year not exceeding 4 per centum, per annum, payable out of the net profits,' and the fact is alleged in the complaint that the preferred stockholders have regularly received a 4 per cent. annual dividend. To hold now, because an unusually large or extraordinary dividend is declared from accumulated surplus or profits, that the preferred stockholders are entitled to participate therein would be to nullify or override the subsisting contract between the two classes of shareholders."

The decision is along the lines of the contention made by a member of the Board of Directors of the Union Pacific when the suits were brought. He said:

"The courts have held that you cannot ear-mark a dollar. Our right to declare an extra cash dividend on the common is unquestioned. What difference does it make to the preferred stock whether we convert the B. & O. stock back into cash and pay that out or distribute the stock itself?"

Insurance companies hold a great deal of the Union Pacific preferred stock. Forty-three insurance companies authorized to do business in this State hold a total of $3,918,200 of the preferred. Twenty-two fire insurance companies in this city own $1,455,000 of it, and outside fire insurance companies own $353,000 more.

The Equitable, it was learned from a responsible officer yesterday, will not rest content with this defeat, but will appeal its case.

Justice Greenbaum's decision does not make it possible for the Union Pacific to proceed yet with its plan for distributing Baltimore & Ohio stock and cash to holders of its common stock. The McCadden suit, which counsel for the plaintiffs said yesterday is based on grounds much different from those of the Equitable's unsuccessful action, has not been set for a hearing, but is expected to go on the June calendar. The Union Pacific management notified stockholders that the extra dividend would be paid July 1 if the litigation were settled by that time.

Income from securities and miscellaneous sources amounted to $2,308,873. Bond interest and rentals of leases and controlled companies called for $11,911,316, and fixed charges for $3,058,105. Net earnings were $1,685,940, out of which dividends amounting to $1,500,000 were paid.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

$750,000 Deal by Mail Order Company in Fifty-fifth Street—Dr. Bishop Buys Opposite Ritz-Carlton Hotel—Manhattan-Bronx Trade—Old Union League Club of Brooklyn Sold—Commercial and Dwelling Leases.

The Standard Mail Order Company, which occupies the new twelve-story building on the north side of Fifty-fifth Street between Ninth and Tenth Avenues, has just closed negotiations to purchase for $750,000 another twelve-story building, to be erected for them on a 200-foot plot adjoining their present property. The property to be improved begins 200 feet east of Tenth Avenue. It extends to the present twelve-story building, which also covers a 200-foot frontage and which was bought by the Standard Mail Company about a year ago for about $610,000.

The 200-foot plat to be improved was purchased a short time ago by the Runkle Realty and Construction Company, of which Maurice Runkle is President. He has closed the deal, as he stated yesterday, to sell the property and the new building to the Standard Mail Order Company. The new structure will be erected by Isaac A. Hopper, Inc., which concern put up the similar building now occupied by the mail order company. Three of the lots were purchased from Alida B. Emmet, one of the heirs of the Chanler estate, which was recently partitioned, and the remaining seven lots were acquired from other heirs to the old estate. The building plans, as filed yesterday, involved only a portion of the plot to be improved.

Dr. Bishop Buys Opposite Ritz-Carlton.

Dr. James Bishop, in addition to his recent purchase of the Park Avenue apartment at the southeast corner of Sixty-second Street, has invested in another choice parcel of Manhattan realty. He signed contracts yesterday to buy the six-story building at 24 and 26 East Forty-sixth Street, formerly occupied by Mrs. Osborn's dressmaking company. It has a frontage of 40 by 100, adjoining the southwest corner of Madison Avenue and opposite the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Recently it was taken on a short-time lease by Vernon Castle, for use as dancing rooms. No material changes are contemplated by Dr. James, but it will be adapted for general business. The property was bought from Ella F. Johnson.

Park Avenue Apartment Trade.

In part payment for the twelve-story apartment on the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Twelfth Street. Dr. James Bishop gave to the Northcote Realty Company of which Edgar A. Levy is President, the four-story dwelling at 64 West Ninety-Seventh Street, 19 by 100.11; the five-story tenement, 25 by 100, at East Ninety-Seventh Street, and the five-story apartment house at 530 and 532 East 134th Street, between Brook and St. Ann's Avenues. The apartment house was held at $1,160,000, and the aggregate value of the combined properties is about $1,250,000.

Title to the Park Avenue apartment will probably be taken in the name of the Edinburgh Realty Corporation, controlled by Dr. Bishop and Anna E. Donald. A year ago they bought the twelve-story Chatauqua apartment on the southeast corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-eighth Street.

Private Dwelling Market.

Mrs. L. W. Gray has sold to a client of William B. May & Co., 119 East Sixty-first Street, a five-story American basement house on a lot 19 by 100.5.

W. J. Huston & Son have sold for Mary F. Martin 730 St. Nicholas Avenue, a four-story detached dwelling, on plot 30.4 by 100, near 147th Street.

George W. Bretlell sold for W. Elterich to V. Zawarski 314 East 121st Street, a three-story brick private dwelling on a lot 17 by 80 feet.

Lessees Buy Building.

The Gaines & Drennan Company have sold for Mrs. Gertrude O'Brien of San Francisco, Cal., 238 East Twenty-sixth Street, a two-story brick building, 20 by 100 feet, to Jodice Brothers, proprietors of Madison Transfer Company, at present occupying the premises.

Tenement Property Deals.

Charles Wynne has purchased from Mrs. M. Rodelheim, 115 West 138th Street, a five-story double flat on a lot 26 by 100. The buyer is an investor.

I. Rosenthal has sold for Joseph Keen to M. Schwartz, 109 West 112th Street, a five-story flat, on lot 25 by 100.11, near St. Nicholas Avenue.

Recent Buyers.

George Ehret is the buyer of the four-story hotel at the northwest corner of the Grand Circle and Fifty-ninth Street, conveyed last month by Mary E. Jones to Frank J. Eberhard, who has transferred the property to Mr. Ehret.

The Welmore Realty Company of which Franklin C. Albee is President, is the buyer of the Florham apartment house at 256 West Ninety-seventh Street, recently reported sold by the estate of George J. Smith through Electus T. Backus.

The house occupies a plot 50 by 100.11 and adjoins the southeast corner of West End Avenue. It also adjoins on the east the new Riviera Theatre building, which runs back from Broadway a distance of 175 feet. The new owners will hold it for investment.

A Manhattan-Bronx Trade.

Alfred Marshall sold to the Brown-Weiss Realties, 505 West 164th Street, a new six-story new law tenement, on a plot 50 by 100 feet, near Amsterdam Avenue.

In part payment the buyers gave 652 Coster Street, a two-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100, in the Borough of the Bronx. Frederick Southack and Alwyn Ball, Jr., negotiated the trade.

Bronx Mortgage Loans.

The building will be 165 by 100 feet and will be entirely of white enamel brick and terra cotta trimmings, and was designed by Paul B. Lavelle, architect. The buildings will be completed about the middle of June and cost, approximately, $75,000.

Business Leases.

Moore & Wyckoff have leased for a long term of years for James P. Silo the front store and basement and the second floor of the Silo Building, on the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street, to William B. Quaintance, who was represented in the transaction by Osgood Pell and Clark T. Chambers. This store includes all of the ground floor except the space 52 by 100 feet, which will be used as heretofore by Mr. Silo as his Fifth Avenue Art Gallery.

To Use Ajello Patents.

The Building Improvement Company, a corporation recently organized, with $500,000 capital, has contracted with Gaetano Ajello for his patents on reinforced concrete floor construction. The main feature of the invention is an inexpensive device that forms an integral part of the construction, and guarantees the necessary protection of the tension bars against fire by keeping them at the desired height above the bottom of the construction. R. McWilliams, the General Manager and Treasurer of the company, stated that the improvement will be at once adopted in the construction of a number of Government buildings and schools throughout the country. Mr. Ajello is an architect, having designed during the past few years various buildings, among which are a number of the largest apartment houses along Riverside Drive, Broadway and other sections of the city.

Realty Notes.

IS THERE nowhere in this city an opportunity for employment for a man who has been out of work practically since November, and who is the sole support of his widowed mother, who, with him, will be evicted from their home this week if the rent for the month of March is not paid at once? I was obliged to leave my place of employment, where I had been for a long while, as a result of the election last Fall. I have been idle the greater part of the time since then, and no relief yet in sight. My mother is a semi-invalid. For reasons of enforced economy, she has been doing the family laundry for the past few weeks, and she is now practically bed-ridden as a result thereof. The thought that I have to stand idly by and witness this, utterly helpless in the matter of remedying the situation, has driven me almost mad. I appeal to the readers of this newspaper to know if there is not employment for me somewhere. Part of my employment consisted of editorial and reportorial work for a weekly newspaper which attempted to defraud me out of four weeks' salary; but I collected part of this through legal proceedings and which, of course, terminated my employment there. I am a total abstainer from the use of liquor, tobacco, as well as gambling. As to my integrity, I can refer you to the owner of a newspaper where I was employed several years upon request. CONFERENCE TO TRY REV. DR. PRICE TO-DAY

WITNESSES UNDER COVER

The Rev. Howard Jones of Great Barrington, Mass., Stricken at Evening Session.

The ecclesiastical trial of the Rev. Dr. Jacob Embury Price, pastor of the Washington Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, on charges of questionable conduct brought by various women of his congregation, will begin this morning at 10 o'clock at the Metropolitan Temple, 48 Seventh Avenue. The committee appointed by Bishop Luther B. Wilson at Wednesday's session of the New York Conference will have the matter in charge, and the sessions will be secret, with all persons excluded except the complainants, the defendant, the committee, and the clergy appointed as counsel. This will make it impossible for ex-Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss, legal representative of Dr. Price, to be present, but Claude Dore, of 40 Exchange Place, attorney for the complainants against Dr. Price, will be one of those at the trial. His wife is one of the women bringing charges.

It was reported yesterday that the trial had begun in the Twenty-fourth Street Church, near Ninth Avenue, but the Rev. Dr. J. Lewis Hartsock, pastor of the Union Church on West Forty-eighth Street and publicity agent of the conference denied it. Notifications have been sent to all witnesses mentioned in the complaints to appear today.

Of the three women whose names were mentioned in connection with the most serious charges one, Mrs. Bertha Hermann, is now a resident in Baltimore. Mrs. Lillian Miller of 189 Claremont Avenue is at present in Baltimore on a visit, having left New York, according to her son-in-law, to escape the nororiety connected with the case. Mr. Dore said she would come back from Baltimore whenever requested, to give her testimony. He said also that last week she visited Bishop Wilson, another Methodist Bishop, and laid her version of the charges before him. It was impossible to obtain confirmation of this from Bishop Wilson.

The third woman mentioned in connection with the more serious accusations is now living in the Bronx, and her husband said last night that she will appear whenever summoned and swear that the charges of the complainants concerning Dr. Price's behavior toward her are true.

Mission work and church finance were the chief topics discussed on the second day of the meeting of the New York Methodist Episcopal Conference at the West Eighteenth Street Church. Dr. W. H. Crawford, President of Allegheny College; the Rev. Dr. Patrick J. Maveety, Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society; the Rev. Dr. E. F. Oldham of the Foreign Mission Board, and the Rev. Dr. C. N. Boswell, Secretary of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, were the speakers at the morning session. Enthusiastic applause broke out when the Rev. Dr. Boswell said:

"I take off my hat to Bill Sunday, because he has shown that he can deliver the goods. We may not approve his methods, but we must acclaim the results."

The afternoon meeting discussed the new plan for raising money by pledges and the duplex envelope system. The Rev. Dr. B. S. Hollingshead, the Rev. Dr. J. B. Trimble, and the Rev. Dr. F. W. Nixon of Crawfordsville, Ind., spoke. The evening session was addressed by the Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Boynton of the Clinton Avenue Congregational Church of Brooklyn on "Some Professional Tasks of the Modern Ministry." Dr. Boynton said the great danger of the day for most ministers is that the development of the Church's subsidiary activities will transform the pastor's study into an office. The conference applauded vigorously when he said that the exigencies of modern life will knock the underpinning out from sectarian denominationalism before many years have passed. He said that Protestantism is on the defensive in the United States and that only united action of the various churches can save it.

The Rev. Howard Jones of Great Barrington was taken suddenly ill with acute indigestion at the evening session and was removed from the auditorium to the narsonage next door. Physicians treated him and it was said after the session that his condition was not serious.

'Gen.' Kelley Convicted of Vagrancy

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 2.—"General" Kelley, leader of the erstwhile "army" of unemployed, which at one time numbered 1,800 men, was convicted to-day on a charge of vagrancy by a jury. A detachment of the men who came here from San Francisco, with whom Kelley proposed to march to Washington, D. C., is now in the Middle West, headed eastward.

LINCOLN RELICS SOLD.

A leaf from the sum book of Abraham Lincoln brought $230 at the William H. Lambert sale by the Anderson Auction Company yesterday. One side of the leaf is entitled "Simple Interest Examples" and the other side "Simple Interest." Eleven examples and two rules are in the autograph of Lincoln. William H. Herndon, his law partner, obtained several pages of this sum Book from Lincoln's stepmother, and in turn presented them to his friends.

A political letter by Lincoln to H. C. Whitney, was bought by Charles W. Moores of Indianapolis for $230. It is dated Springfield, July 9, 1856, and refers to the obtaining of the Republican nomination by Owen Lovejoy, the Abolitionist, over Leonard Swett. In the letter Lincoln says:

"It turned me blind when I first heard Swett was beaten and Lovejoy nominated, but after much anxious reflection I believe it is best to let it stand. This, of course, I wish to be confidential."

Another letter written by Lincoln to F. E. Spinner and dated Springfield, July 27, 1860, went to E. F. Bonaventure for $140. James F. Drake paid $67.50 for a letter written by Lincoln when he was President to his Secretary of the Interior, Caleb B. Smith. Another letter of Lincoln, dated Executive Mansion, May 16, 1862, was bought by G. D. Smith for $67.50. A collection of more than 200 photographs, including 140 of Lincoln, brought $180.

Robert Fridenberg gave $50 for Frederick H. Meserve's "Photograph of Abraham Lincoln," one of 102 copies signed by the author and privately printed in this city in 1911.

Brentano's paid $55 for a bronze bust of Lincoln, about life size and without a beard. It is signed "Max Bachmann, S. C., 1905." A bronze statuette of Lincoln, with a beard, went for $30.

A cane that belonged to Lincoln, with buck-horn handle and silver trimmings, sold for $100. It bears the inscription, "Presented to Abraham Lincoln by his old friend, S. Strong, 1860." There is also the inscription, "Presented to Frank B. Carpenter by Mrs. Abraham Lincoln."

Two mahogany dining room chairs used by Lincoln and his family while in the White House brought $235. A lock of hair, cut from Lincoln's beard by Mrs. Schuyler Colfax for Mrs. Lincoln the day following the shooting, was bought by Brentano's for $65. The sale of Part IV. of the library, which thus far amounts to $5,224, will be ended today.

WOMAN LEADS THIEF CHASE.

Charges Prince with Snatching Her Purse in Sixth Avenue.

A young woman led a crowd across Broadway at Thirty-seventh Street last night in pursuit of a young man whom she charged with stealing her pocket book and forty-three cents. The fugitive was overtaken and arrested. His accuser said she was Miss Mary Maython, of 108 West 135th Street.

She charged that the prisoner came up behind her as she was walking in Sixth Avenue near Thirty-seventh Street and snatched her pocketbook. The police said that the purse was found in the prisoner's possession. He said he was Roy Prince, and that as he had just arrived here from Galveston, Texas, he had had no time to obtain a home.

Bullfrogs in Demand in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 2.—Big, green bullfrogs are in demand on Kansas farms, according to L. L. Dyche, State Fish and Game Warden, who is distributing fish from the State hatcheries. He says many farmers are asking for frogs for their ponds. Mr. Dyche said 5,000 tadpoles had been distributed from the hatcheries this Spring.

THREE MEN KILLED WHEN WALL FALLS

ONE MAN HURT MORTALLY

Priests Give aLst Rites to Imprisoned Workers as Firemen Labor to Save Them.

Three men who were at work in a trench with brick sides and a concrete floor in the Flatbush Theatre, which is being built in Church Avenue, near Flatbush Avenue, were killed yesterday afternoon, and a fourth was injured mortally, when one of the brick walls six feet high gave way.

The wall which collapsed was about thirty-five feet long, and ran in a straight line the width of the theatre. The other wall was in the shape of a crescent and inclosed the musicians' pit.

While the theatre was being built the trench had become partly filled with mud and débris and workmen were ordered to clean it yesterday afternoon. In removing the débris the workmen may have removed also wooden supports which were fixed inside the trench to brace the wall. Four workmen were busy where the trench was narrowest, when, without warning, the wall fell in as if impelled by the explosion of a powerful charge of dynamite. Three men who were at work where the trench was wider were able to scramble up the wall of the musician's pit and escape. The four workmen in the centre of the trench were thrown against the opposite wall to the one that collapsed, and they were pinned there by the weight of the earth that fell in with the wall.

The three men who escaped gave the alarm and firemen of Engine Company 248, under Battalion Chief Norton, were summoned. They found one man whose head was above the mass of bricks. He was conscious and the firemen began to work with picks and shovels to rescue him. In five minutes he yas lifted out of the trench and was taken to Kings County Hospital suffering from internal injuries and a possible fracture of the skull. At the hospital he said that he was Giuseppe Germi of 579 Flatbush Avenue. It was reported last night that he would die.

The top of another man's hat was soon uncovered. Hoping that he might still be conscious, the firemen cleared the débris from around his head in order that he might breathe. Workmen indicated the positions of the two others who were caught in the trench. The firemen dug furiously to save the imprisoned men from suffocation.

Father John T. Woods of Holy Cross Catholic Church and Father F. X. Ludeke of the Church of St. Francis of Assissi, appeared a few minutes after the accident and administered extreme unction as soon as parts of the bodies were uncovered. Ambulance surgeons from the Kings County Hospital and the Swedish Hospital were present, but when the three men were finally lifted out of the trench it was found that they were dead. Two of the men were identified as Frank Fresca of 724 Lorimer Street and Francis Desane of 69 Jackson Street. The third body was not identified.

Robert Rasmussen, supervising architect of the building, was arrested a short time after the accident by Detective Brierton on a charge of criminal negligence. He was taken before Magistrate Reynolds in the Flatbush Court and released in $5,000 bail.

SEVEN BITTEN; FEAR RABIES.

Two Pekinese Dogs Attack Guests at a Children's Party.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., April 2.—Mrs. Robert Duncan, her daughter Elizabeth, and five of the latter's guests at a party were bitten yesterday afternoon by two Pekingese dogs and were to-day hurried to the pathological department of a hospital, where it became known that the animals showed signs of rabies.

Where Variety Really Counts

WHILE we have made a feature of our Spring Suits tailored by Hart, Schaffner & Marx from imported fabrics, we offer, too, a wider selection than ever before of the best domestic cloths.

All of which means that here you will find more patterns, more different fabrics than at most stores. Nor is this confined to Suits at the higher prices alone. At $25, at $28 and at $30 you may choose from a world of different fabrics from America and abroad. And all extraordinary values for the money. That is why we say, "Come here for your Spring clothes."

Hats

OUR name, our reputation was first made by our Hats and those hats to-day are still leading all others in their class in style and quality.

Their price is $2.

Suits, $20

SPECIAL value, a plain, handsome gray, beautifully tailored by Hart, Schaffner & Marx. It has patch-pockets, soft front, the new broad lapels, looks every bit of $30 and costs but $20.

Furnishings

EVERYTHING a man wears but shoes, and the very best values at that; underwear, hosiery, neckwear, shirts, pajamas, gloves, belts—the best is here. And the values are the greatest in New York.

This week we offer a remarkable special—a real $1.50 tan cape glove at $1.15.

THE "CHARGE IT" MAN

never comes to our shop till he has reformed, for we refuse to "charge" anything for anybody.

Thinking people realize that this attitude on our part means saving in money to them, and their experience with us has proved that the saving is not at the cost of quality.

$45 in our shop buys the identical suit—in fit, style and workmanship—that, bought on the "charge it plan" elsewhere on Quality Street, costs $60 to $80.

But—

We expect a cheque when you accept the suit.
